Liberals May Ask All Members For Campaign Funds

First of Centennial Year decorations was put up on Legislative Buildings today. Wooden plaque, with B.C. coat of arms and motto and green and gold centennial colors, will be followed by flags and bunting when winter weather is over. Other government buildings throughout province will also be decorated. Freely translated, the motto "Splendor Sine Occasu" means "splendor without diminishment." (Times Photo by Halkett.)

Full Work Objective Proposed

OTTAWA (CP) — The Liberals today brought a "new look" to their basic faith.

The 150-member resolutions committee at the party's national convention recommended a redesign of the preamble to the party platform, declaring that not only must there be high employment and social security in Canada but that these must be "constantly improved."

This appeared to be going a step farther than the "fighting faith" adopted at the 1948 convention when the party declared itself in favor of high employment and security.

The newly-proposed preamble spoke not of high employment but of "full" employment. Undoubtedly this would be one of the top planks in the new platform, politically aimed at the concern of Canadians over high unemployment.

KEY WORDS

The Liberals' three key words —unity, security and freedom— were retained, but to these were added democracy, progress and peace.

Emphasis was placed on the "international peace which Canada through co-operation seeks for all mankind"; "the full democracy, bred in freedom, that creates social justice and welfare for all"; and the "rapid progress, spiritual and material, that is based on freedom and creative initiative."

Emphasis also was placed on "fairness."

The Liberals sought "fairness for pioneers who in remote areas still carry the burdens of our country's development; fairness for farmers on the land and for fishermen on our shores; fairness for workers in our factories and offices, forests and mines; fairness for all those of every race and creed who have come from many lands and made Canada their home."

MARTIN STILL HOPES FOR WIN OVER PEARSON

OTTAWA (CP)—Paul Martin, generally considered by observers at the national Liberal convention to be trailing Lester B. Pearson, said today he still believes he will win the party leadership.

"This thing is rolling," he told reporters after his nomination papers were filed. "This is the 1919 convention all over again."

In 1919, the late Mackenzie King was considered a "dark horse" candidate and came through to win the leadership and hold it until he retired in 1948.

"The rank and file are going to assert themselves in a manner that will show that Liberalism is of the grass," Mr. Martin said.

New 'Purity' Plan Before Convention

OTTAWA (BUP)—A "political purity" resolution today was added to the grist of proposals being processed in the platform mill of the national Liberal convention.

The resolution was sponsored by the Ontario delegation and advocated:

—A minimum contribution annually from every rank-and-file Liberal toward the expenses of national election campaigns.

—A limit upon the expenditures which any individual candidate might make in his campaign.

—Annual disclosure by political parties of the sources of all contributions to their funds.

—exemplary penalties for violations of any of the last three provisions.

The resolution was argued by Ray Tower of Toronto and seconded by Reginald Wheeler of Wentworth. It was sent for consideration behind the closed doors of the convention resolutions committee.

Other resolutions presented from the floor of the convention today dealt with the problems of natural resources, freight rates, export of Alberta gas and oil and other miscellaneous topics.

The Alberta resolution on natural resources was presented by Ralph Walker of Calgary. It urged a policy of resources development which would consider the interests of future generations, but subject to this condition it recommended energetic action to expand export markets for the province's oil and gas resources.

The Alberta resolution also recommended taxation concessions which would encourage Canadian capital to undertake the development of Canadian resources.

Robert Moffatt, Winnipeg, submitted a proposal from the Manitoba delegation to prevent any increases in existing freight rates and also to ensure the maintenance of the Crow's Nest Pass rates on grain.

TAX MATCHED

"Canadians are spending on freight transportation annually as much as they are paying in income tax," Moffatt told the convention.

"There just shouldn't be any increase over such a proposal."

On behalf of the Atlantic coast, fisherman Russell McKay, Lockport, N.S., submitted a comprehensive resolution for encouragement of the fishing industry. Nova Scotian proposals included low-interest-rate loans to fishermen for gear and boats, aid to navigation, stimulation to marketing and plans for more stable returns, lower boat and equipment insurance rates, better enforcement of the 12-mile limit against trawlers and draggers, greater aid to cold storage and other marketing measures.

Three in Race As Nominations Come to Close

OTTAWA (BUP) — Nominations of leadership candidates for the national Liberal convention closed today with three still in the race.

They were: former external affairs minister and Nobel peace prize winner Lester B. Pearson; former health minister Paul Martin; and Mayor Lloyd Henderson of Portage La Prairie, Man.

The close of nominations ended speculation about possible dark-horse candidates such as former finance minister Walter Harris and Mayor Don Mackay of Calgary.

Leadership candidates will make their nominating speeches from 7.30 p.m. to 9 p.m. today before some 1,500 voting delegates and a national television audience.

10 SIGN FOR PEARSON

Voting for the new leader will be Thursday evening, with the winner declared on the basis of an overall majority—761 if all the delegates vote.

The nomination of Pearson was moved by former Liberal MP John Decore of Edmonton and seconded by Lucien Cardin, former parliamentary assistant to the minister of external affairs.

The names of the 10 persons signing Pearson's nomination papers included representatives of eight provinces.

Edward J. Schmaltz, of Kitchener, Ont., was the mover of Mr. Henderson's nomination. The seconder was Stuart Smith, 19-year-old student at McGill University and an officer of the Canadian University Liberal Federation.

Mr. Martin's nomination was moved by James E. Brown, former MP for Brantford, Ont., and seconded by Marcel Boivin, sitting Commons member for Shefford, Que.

Among others signing Mr. Martin's nomination was James G. Gardiner, former agriculture minister. He was the only former Liberal cabinet minister to sign nomination papers of any of the three candidates.

HUTCHISON IN OTTAWA

The Old Leader Takes His Bow

By BRUCE HUTCHISON, Editor of The Times

LIBERAL CONVENTION HALL, Ottawa—Tuesday night the Liberal convention heard the parting advice of its old leader Louis St. Laurent.

Today it began to interpret his sharp warning as an election platform, although both its eyes and its hopes were centred on a new leader, Lester Pearson.

Mr. St. Laurent is taking no direct part in the revision of Liberal policy. He is leaving everything to his successor. But in his last appearance before his party he summed up the conclusions of his several victories and his final defeat.

With the blunt candor which has always been his sovereign virtue as a politician, he advised the convention "to promise only what we believe we can perform and benefit Canada by performing, to trust the people and deserve their trust."

Hutchison

These were general words uttered in a moment of high emotion and their meaning may have been lost on a screaming audience of 5,000.

But they were clear to the party managers in the back rooms where the new platform is being slowly fashioned plank by plank.

Mr. St. Laurent was telling his successors not to seek election by the fraud of impossible promises but to look beyond a spring campaign to the long future of the nation.

But tonight, as the first planks of the platform emerge from a managing committee of 150 party hierchs representing every part of the nation, we shall see whether the old leader's counsel is to be followed or whether the opposition intends to out bid the government in costly election bait.

The work of re-assessment, the prospect of an early doubtful election and the absence of any serious contest for the party's leadership have made this a dull convention so far. As a spectacle it is far less exciting than the Conservative convention of 1956 when John Diefenbaker had to fight desperately for leadership against a Quebec revolt, whereas Mr. Pearson is hardly going through the motions of a fight today.

Not leadership, but policy and strategy, are the Liberal party's real business here, and up to now that business has been done privately in the committee rooms. In the next few hours the committees' recommendations must run the gauntlet of the whole convention in public and it is evident already that some of the younger Liberals are deeply dissatisfied with the party's recent management.

CPR Passenger Train Derailed; Line Blasted

VANCOUVER (CP) — A passenger train was derailed near Grand Forks today after the CPR track was blown up in the latest of a series of bomb plots in the West Kootenay district of British Columbia.

No one was injured, a CPR spokesman said. The engine, baggage car and one day coach of the east-bound Kettle Valley branch line train remained upright.

RCMP sent for a dog to follow tracks leading from the damaged section of the track, 18 miles east of Grand Forks.

The CPR spokesman said a bomb had blown out two ties and left a hole 18 inches deep under one rail. The derailment damaged 300 feet of track.

Last weekend, unexploded bombs were found in theatres at Nelson, Castlegar and Trail. The fuse on one of the bombs had been lit, but smouldered and went out.

About 1,500 people were in the theatres at the time the bombs are believed to have been planted.

RCMP said they have a good idea who was responsible for the theatre bombs. They would not elaborate, but said earlier they were following "all lines of investigation, including Sons of Freedom Doukhobors."

Higher Pulp, Lumber Sales Seen by Hees

VANCOUVER (CP)—Transport Minister Hees today forecast higher sales of Canadian lumber and wood pulp at home and abroad during 1958.

In an address to the Truck Loggers' Association, Mr. Hees said the "Canadian lumber industry can expect a better year in 1958 than in 1957, in both Canada and the United States while at the same time other export markets should maintain or increase the volume of their purchases from Canada."

"In the domestic market, the demand for lumber for housing purposes shows definite trends of an increase in demand."

Ottawa to Maintain Access Tourist Roads

OTTAWA (CP) — The resources department announced today it is taking over maintenance of all access roads "of reasonable length" to isolated tourist developments in Canada's national parks. Until now, resort operators had shared maintenance costs.

Two roads in Banff Park in Alberta and one in Yoho Park in British Columbia are immediately affected by the decision.

105 Miles for Fuchs

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (Reuters)—British explorer Vivian Fuchs today was reported 105 miles from the South Pole in his bid to confound critics of his plans to complete the first-ever overland journey across the Antarctic continent.

OIL IMPORTS PROTEST SENT

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Smith said today the Canadian protest against American restrictions on Canadian oil imports will be sent to Washington today.

U.K. Note Approved

PARIS (Reuters) — Britain's reply to Premier Bulganin's "peace" letter of Dec. 10 was approved by all members of the Atlantic pact at its permanent council meeting here today, sources close to NATO said.

Norway Ship Split in Two In Raging Sea

AMSTERDAM (AP) — The Norwegian tanker Seirstad split in two in a raging Mediterranean storm today and at least 28 of its 38 crew members were rescued. The French admiralty said 10 other crew, reported missing earlier, were still aboard the severed bow.

The bow of the 9,974-ton ship was reported earlier to have sunk. But the French admiralty in Algiers said both parts of the ship were afloat. An admiralty spokesman said the bow had drifted away but was spotted late this afternoon. All ships in the vicinity were ordered to the rescue of the 10 stranded men.

Ike Scorns Reports Dulles Offer to Quit

WASHINGTON (CP)—President Eisenhower today described as "trash" reports that John Foster Dulles had offered to resign as secretary of state.

Eisenhower, in answer to a press conference question, said that Dulles would be the last person he would want to see resign.

A reporter said there had been a published report recently that Dulles had submitted his resignation and that the president had rejected it.

When the reporter asked Eisenhower whether he could confirm it, Eisenhower angrily interjected to ask whether the reporter himself had written the story.

He was told that there had been such a published account and also that Dulles was under severe criticism both at home and abroad.

Eisenhower said that Dulles is the wisest and most dedicated man he knows. He added that he believes Dulles has a greater knowledge in his field than any other man.

He also reiterated his view that there must be "proper" preparation before he will agree to meet Soviet leaders in a summit conference.

Blast at 'Brass' Last Martin Try

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

CONVENTION HALL, OTTAWA — Supporters of Paul Martin are attempting an open revolt at the Liberal convention here against what they call the party "brass". But it is doubtful that this movement will get far.

Tuesday night James Brown, chairman of the "Martin for Leader" committee, issued a statement denouncing the ruling Liberal hierarchy and saying that "if the brass feel that this party can survive only through their dictates as a closed corporation telling the delegates how they should think then the time has come for new leadership with an ear to the ground and an eye to the future."

Mr. Martin did not write but endorsed this statement which clearly is aimed at Lester Pearson, leading candidate for party leadership. While Mr. Pearson was silent his friends were furious at what they considered a blow below the belt.

They took Mr. Brown's statement as a sure sign that the Martin forces have realized their defeat and are now desperate.

It is not yet known, however, whether this struggle behind the scenes will reach the convention floor or whether Mr. Martin will attack the brass when he speaks tonight. It is certain, however, that he has damaged himself greatly and perhaps pemanently with most of his former cabinet colleagues by attempting to suggest through his spokesman that he leads the party's progressive wing and that Mr. Pearson is the leader of the forces defeated last June.

Though today's unpleasantness is regretted, party leaders think it will do no harm in practical politics but will only go to show that the Liberal party is democratic with freedom for all dissenters.

Summit Approved

BONN (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer tonight gave conditional approval to a new East-West summit meeting but turned down a Communist proposal for a European zone free of atomic weapons.

May Visit U.S.

LONDON (UP) — Princess Margaret may visit the United States this year after her tours of the West Indies and Canada, a Buckingham Palace spokesman said today. The spokesman stressed it was only a possibility and no firm plans have been made.

British Troops Rush To Bahamas Strike

NASSAU, Bahamas (CP) — British colonial authorities rushed planeloads of troops to the Bahamas today in a bid to prevent violence in a general strike gripping this sunny resort city.

Two planes, each carrying 40 troops, landed early today from Jamaica with troops of the Worcester Regiment. About 150 troops are expected by nightfall. Police are on a 24-hour alert.

The strike has paralyzed the Bahamas tourist trade and dislocated plans of thousands of visitors, most of them Americans and Canadians. Hundreds are cutting short their winter vacations and attempting to leave the islands.

Montreal Canadiens Willing To Discuss Cougars Pact

Possibility of Victoria Cougars making a hook-up with the front-running NHL Montreal Canadiens next year was confirmed in a long-distance telephone call today between the local club and managing director Frank Selke of Les Canadiens.

Negotiations between the two clubs were opened January 6 when a Victoria director wrote Selke, inquiring about possible player help, and asking if Les Canadiens would be interested in taking on Cougars as a farm club next year.

Selke replied that legal restrictions made it impossible for his own Royals and Rochester to acquire much-needed players, and that he could hold out no hope for player help this season.

"However," he added, "we are quite willing to talk and it's possible that we may be able to work out an arrangement for next season."

Selke was not aware of the hubbub created locally by the dismissal of Colin Kilburn, but commented:

"Hockey management requires a special kind of talent—a combination of management know-how, ambition and good judgment.

"I know Pat Egan well and would be happy to do anything I can to assist him in establishing himself as a hockey executive."

A director of Cougars will huddle with Selke in Montreal early next month.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Lord God, uphold us this day by Thy grace and might. Without Thee our vision is clouded, our hands are weak, our hope is gone. But Thou canst open our eyes. Thou canst give strength in our endeavors and joy in bearing burdens. Thanks be to Thee, O Lord; in Thy Son's name, Amen.

AT LIBERAL CONVENTION

Irate Granny Seizes Mike to Get Attention

OTTAWA (CP) — Mrs. Nellie Burke, a 65-year-old Regina grandmother, seized a Liberal convention microphone today and demanded that resolutions proposers "get a full house's attention."

Mrs. Burke, hopping mad when she reached a microphone to support a protest made earlier by Therese M. Giroday of Winnipeg, became even more irate when her microphone was cut from the public-address circuit.

"You get the power turned back onto this microphone, Mr. Chairman," she shouted. "I'm going to talk."

Scattered groups in the nearly-empty convention hall supported her stand, taken only an hour after the chairman tossed out a protest by another Manitoba delegate for more discussion of resolutions from the floor.

Allan Cantor of Winnipeg, president of the Manitoba Young Liberals, had been ruled out of order when he tried to change the order of business.

Chairman on both occasions was Roy Power of Halifax, national president of the Young Liberals.

Mrs. Burke's ire was drawn by delegate and platform reaction to a resolution proposed by William Norrie, a youthful Liberal from Winnipeg, and seconded by 23-year-old Miss Giroday. Mr. Norrie had proposed that Canada's trade be freer with all countries.

Miss Giroday opened her remarks as seconder by asking Mr. Power to "relay my protest to the brass."

"We asked to speak when the hall was full," she said, referring to Mr. Cantor's earlier request.

"We were not allowed to."

"Not there is almost no one here, and you can see why we asked."

Mrs. Burke, seeing that Miss Giroday was not speaking close enough to the microphone to be heard, went up and gently pushed her closer.

When the young woman had finished, Mrs. Burke took over.

"Miss Giroday had the right to make her complaint," she started and then the microphone went dead.

"She should have had a full house to hear what she had to say. I don't mind admitting that I'm a very old campaigner—I'm old and not afraid to say so.

"We're asked to encourage the younger members of the party to be more active. The young man who proposed this resolution and the young woman who seconded it are both young members, and if they and others like them do not receive the attention they deserve this party risks losing them.

"I demand that they get full attention from a full hall."

Interviewed later, Mrs. Burke, provincial treasurer for the Saskatchewan Women Liberals and a past president of the provincial organization, said "I was forced to speak: I'm so angry."

"They tell us to go out to the grass roots—well, I am the grass roots," she said, adding that she is a native of Manchester, Lancashire and has three children and 10 grandchildren.

. . . HUTCHISON

Last night they found a vibrant voice in Premier Joseph Smallwood of Newfoundland, a tiny birdlike and impassioned figure who pronounced the unpalatable theory that Liberalism had remained in office too long, that a change was good for it and that as an opposition it must sink its roots anew into the common stuff of humanity.

Still Party of the Little Men

This is easily said and Mr. Smallwood said it with rough eloquence. But how is it to be translated into policy? How is Mr. Pearson to reconvince a dubious electorate that Liberalism is still as in its younger days the party of the little man? Above all, how is this to be done without promising the impossibilities rejected by Mr. St. Laurent?

While these problems of principle and tactics were being argued wherever two or more delegates met together, the convention took Tuesday night off for its final tribute to Mr. St. Laurent.

His farewell to politics was typical of the man, and precisely like his arrival some 16 years ago. He came to Ottawa without fuss or fanfare to do a job of work. The job finished, he left with only a few simple words of thanks to his party and the nation.

It would have been easy for some ghost writer to provide him with an oration, but in this last act he refused to step out of his natural role and attempt a public posture different from his private life. Hence his speech, taken as a speech was not in the least remarkable, contained no purple passages and sounded rather like a father's casual advice to his children.

Yet this picture was unforgettable—the brisk little man with terrier face, the eloquent gallic twist of the shoulders, the sharp Anglo-Saxon accent and in his whole person an air of serene integrity untouched by political defeat.

He was not a politician when he came to Ottawa, had not mastered the political game when he left it. And in this final hour he scorned the tricks of the orator.

Last Time Before Followers

The spontaneous outpouring of emotion, as he stood for the last time before his followers, was a tribute not to the statesman but to the man. He did not seem to feel it in the beginning, read his speech in a crisp matter-of-fact fashion and then, half way through the written text, looked up to realize of a sudden his place in the hearts of his friends.

His voice dropped, he hesitated a moment and almost overcome by his own feelings struggled doggedly through the concluding paragraphs. From a box, his three handsome daughters watched him anxiously.

His wife smiled encouragement from a chair beside him, and as he stepped back from the rostrum, Louis St. Laurent could hardly fight back his tears.

With tense drawn face he listened but perhaps did not hear Mr. Smallwood's formal tribute and the shouts of the audience.

Soon it was all over.

The photographers swarmed to the platform and recorded a smiling old gentleman, his wife on his arm and their carefree years ahead.

Never did he look better in body and spirit than at this moment of political defeat and personal triumph.

Nothing so became his life in politics as his taking leave of it.

DIEFENBAKER IN BED FOR REST OF WEEK

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker is expected to spend the remainder of this week in bed or working at home in an effort to clear up a wrenched back.

His office said today the prime minister probably will continue to work from his bed at his official residence at 24 Sussex Street. Apart from some pain and discomfort, he is feeling well and is in good health.

Timber, Gas Rights Sales Under Probe

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police here are investigating reports by two persons that they paid nearly $10,000 for non-existent timber and gas rights.

Arthur Edward Anderson said he paid $3,750 for a one-sixth interest in a timber stand at Harrison Lake, B.C., but could not locate the timber.

Miss Florence Cooper, 76, reported paying $5,578 for petroleum and natural gas rights on 240 acres in Alberta. She said she subsequently discovered the property did not exist.

Victorians Praise Live TV On Big Liberal Convention

By PHIL LEE
Times TV Editor

For the first time in history a Canadian political convention is being telecast live, and whatever it costs the people most Victorians agree that it is worth it.

From 5 to 6 p.m. Tuesday, citizens were treated to a front row seat of the national Liberal convention as it took place at Ottawa almost 3,000 miles away.

In fact, owing to the excellence of the CBC camera work, it would be not going too far to say that Victorians had a more intimate view of the proceedings than most of the 2,500 delegates. The convention will choose a new party leader on Thursday.

EXCELLENT RESULTS

Just as they did for Queen Elizabeth's opening of Parliament last autumn, CBC officials brought the proceedings to those areas of Canada not yet linked together by the microwave "cable" by utilizing available U.S. cables. The results were excellent.

As though he was standing in the same room with each of the thousands of viewers from coast-to-coast, Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent, Liberal leader and former prime minister, made his swan song.

While the historic speech was in progress, the cameras gently flickered from delegate to delegate. There was the bright-faced woman, the gently dozing delegate and the man whose mouth sucked in then out, almost in rhythm with Mr. St. Laurent's words.

JUNE COMPLETION

The live production underlined for all viewers the necessity, in the name of national unity, for the completion of the micro-wave link, now in its final stages of construction. It is hoped that Victoria, along with British Columbia, will be linked to eastern Canada sometime in June of this year.

All in all, the CBC will cover the Liberal convention five times. All but two will be brought in live. The remainder of the programs are as follows:

Tonight candidates' speeches of acceptance will be brought in live from 4.30 to 5.30. Thursday a recording of nomination of candidates will be replayed. At 6 p.m. Thursday, acceptance speech of the new Liberal leader will be heard live, lasting about one hour.

On Friday, the program will wind up with a recorded debate on resolutions from 2.15 until 3.45 p.m.

IN PARLIAMENT

Impending Election Dominating Theme

(From Times News Services)

(From Times News Services)

OTTAWA—The air of pending election keeps getting thicker in Parliament.

Both Finance Minister Fleming and Works Minister Green made clear in the Commons Tuesday that an initial opportunity will be provided the new Liberal leader to test his wings at the start of next week.

Meantime, in the Senate the Liberal opposition was showing its numerical strength while the government leader spoke of the great pressure on him to get legislation through fast.

Mr. Fleming apparently disclosed to opposition parties as well as the public the government's intention to bring a supply motion before the Commons Monday. This will give the new Liberal leader a chance to propose a motion of non-confidence in the government.

Should the new leader decide to take advantage of this opportunity, Canada could be in the middle of a new federal general election by April.

But, while Parliament went about its business, there were plenty of reminders that the national Liberal leadership convention is in full swing in search of a successor to retiring Louis S. St. Laurent.

When the Commons opened at 2.30 p.m. there were about 30 of the 106 Liberals in their seats. By nightfall, as Mr. St. Laurent bid his farewell to the party at the convention, Liberal strength had dwindled to six.

Forest Roads Plan Interests B.C.

Resources Minister Hamilton said there has been an "excellent response" from the provinces to the recent federal proposal to share costs of forest access roads and camp ground development as a program to provide more winter jobs.

—all but Manitoba and Quebec —have indicated a direct inter—have indicated a direct inter est in the program for forest access roads.

Six provinces—all but Manitoba, Quebec, Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia—had indicated interest in the proposal for financing camp grounds and picnic sites.

The federal government plans to earmark $1,000,000 for each plan as a 50-per-cent share of provincial expenditures. One condition is that shareable outlays for forest roads must be made before June 30 and for camp grounds before May 31.

Mr. Hamilton said that some provinces have indicated the amounts they plan to spend on the forest roads and camp ground programs. These totals would be shared with the federal government.

For forest roads, Saskatchewan planned to spend $325,000 and Alberta $180,000, while British Columbia had indicated it would "participate in a large way."

For camp grounds, B.C. had indicated it would spend $760,000 and Alberta $150,000.

More information from the provinces was expected soon.

SENATE BALKS

The Senate's Liberal majority held up passage of the $30,000,000 Beechwood power project loan despite pleas of the Progressive Conservative government leader that he was under great pressure to get it through swiftly.

The measure, passed Monday in the Commons, authorizes a $30,000,000 loan to the New Brunswick government to cover costs of a hydro power project Grand Falls. The Liberals voted to refer the measure to the Senate committee on banking and commerce.

The commitee is expected to sit this morning and the bill may be passed this afternoon. No senator opposed the purpose of the bill.

Stanley Knowles suggested that Canada might make a contribution to the world by starting now to work out new proposals for international laws taking into account property rights in outer space.

The deputy CCF leader suggested the action in view of the "tremendous bearing" on man's future of activities in outer space, such as satellite flights and weather control.

VOTE FOR ALL INDIANS

Veteran parliamentarian James Gardiner said he favors all Indians having the right to vote.

The former Liberal agriculture minister said some people feel the Indians are not ready for the franchise. He added however, that he had met many people who were not Indians and wondered why they were entitled to vote.

The principle of the measure, introduced by Frank Howard (CCF-Skeena) won support from several members, including government supporters.

'Greatest Days Ahead' St. Laurent's Farewell

LIBERALS ALL—LESTER PEARSON, LOUIS ST. LAURENT, PAUL MARTIN ... and may the better man win!

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Louis St. Laurent, cheered to the rafters by the Liberals, says the party's greatest days are still ahead.

The retiring leader, in his farewell speech to the national Liberal convention, told his party Tuesday night to look forward, not backward to post-mortems of its election defeat last June 10.

And he gave the Liberals a boost in their coming election battle by aiming a few shafts at the Progressive Conservative government.

The new administration, he said, has created uneasiness and uncertainty among Canadians by lack of clear and firm policies.

The Conservative party which ended his eight years as prime minister had in most fields nothing to substitute for Liberal policies. Only in the trade field had it tried to create the impression it was offering something new.

VAGUE POLICY

"No one can find out what is to be expected from the conferences, and rumors of still more conferences about trade," he said. "Meanwhile there is growing uneasiness in the country.

"There is growing uneasiness about defence, about trade, about investment, about unemployment, about the state of the national budget and the lack of clear and firm policies for the future."

The speech of the 75-year-old Mr. St. Laurent — quiet, almost dispassionate — was in contrast to the ringing tributes he received from the convention which will choose his successor.

Just before his address the packed Coliseum hall gave him a drawn-out standing ovation when Lionel Chevrier referred to words of former trade minister C. D. Howe that Mr. St. Laurent "stands in the shade of no man, living or dead."

An even greater demonstration broke out when the old leader rose to speak.

There was a roll of applause, punctuated by cheers. Mr. St. Laurent smiled at first, then his lips set more firmly as he appeared to be holding back his emotions while the cheers went on. The crowd sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" and that song's French equivalent: "Il a Gagne ses Epaulettes."

After two long minutes the demonstration subsided and Mr. St. Laurent moved into his speech.

NO ENDORSEMENT

As expected, he gave no indication of special approval to any of the leadership candidates. He said only that he gives up the leadership "with regret but without anxiety . . . for I am assured it will be in capable hands."

Nor did he say whether he will be a candidate in his Quebec East constituency at the next general election. He will reach his 76th birthday in a month.

He drew one lesson from the Liberal election defeat last June. He said he believes the people really had no fault to find with Liberal policies, though at some points the application of those policies had not been too well understood.

"That was a fault we should try to avoid in future."

Liberals should "hold fast to the Liberal faith; to plan for a larger future, to promise only what we believe we can perform and benefit Canada by performing; to trust the people and to deserve their trust."

His speech, in both English and French, emphasized national unity which he said had been nurtured by the Liberals. He said one of his greatest satisfactions was that he had contributed to the growth of that unity.

Mr. St. Laurent said national unity is more than the absence of friction between different races and religions.

"Liberal policies have created a positive unity based upon social security and social justice which have brought us closer to the ideal of equality of opportunity and have made Canadians realize more than ever before that it is good for us and our families that we are Canadians."

MANY COLONISTS

Nearly 20,000 English sailed for the Massachusetts Bay colony area between 1630 and 1642.

TRIBUTE

'An Eternal Niche'

OTTAWA (CP) — Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland said Tuesday night retiring Liberal leader Louis St. Laurent has earned an eternal niche in Canadian history for his deep honesty and sincerity.

"He is as honest and sincere as it is humanly possible to be," the premier added.

Mr. Smallwood called Mr. St. Laurent the "father of Newfoundland," apparently in reference to the fact that Mr. St. Laurent was prime minister in 1949 when Newfoundland joined Confederation.

"The Tories will be a better opposition soon," he said, "because after a long while they're finding out something about the cares and responsibilities of office.

"When they come back to where they belong they will be a better opposition . . . not just carping critics and tormentors of the government."

End of an Era

CANADA TODAY SALUTES THE statesman who did not want to be a statesman, the political leader who did not want to be a leader, the lawyer who became lawmaker as a wartime patriotic duty and stayed on in peacetime to become one of the nation's great men.

Few Canadians, witnessing the farewell to Louis St. Laurent on a national television network last night, could have failed to be moved by the spectacle. For a few minutes, the business of the convention was forgotten in a great upsurge of affection for the gentleman who had led Canada for eight and one-half years, and was now stepping down.

Tomorrow the national Liberal Party will elect a new leader and the impressive St. Laurent era will be over. His decade as Prime Minister of Canada was an eventful one. It was a decade in which the country emerged as a listened-to voice in world affairs, as an economic power of untold future possibilities, as a growing nation of vast promise. Against this background Louis St. Laurent played more than an actor's part; he was in many cases author and producer too.

But in the history of national and world affairs it will be for another accomplishment that he will be remembered. The international scene can change so rapidly and so drastically that the achievements of one decade may be of little importance in the next. But the Canadian scene does not alter in the same tempo or to the same extent. For this reason Louis St. Laurent's achievement in domestic affairs will long outlast his success in the wider field. He will be known as the man who, more than any other of his times, perhaps of any times, gave unity and strength to the bi-racial nation which he led.

In his veins flows the blood of both races; each could claim him for its own. He was admirably equipped for the role he played, and he played it well.

He had not been long on the Ottawa scene when his unique abilities became urgently needed. As in the First Great War, a serious Canadian crisis over conscription was precipitated in the Second. On so delicate a matter the nation could have been split, perhaps beyond saving. It was at this critical moment that Mr. St. Laurent took his political life in his hands and urged Quebec to support the Government's stand. He was successful, the people followed him, and he emerged from the crisis as the foremost architect of unity in Canada.

Small wonder that Mackenzie King marked him as his successor and made sure the Party agreed. In later years, as a participant in the San Francisco inauguration of the United Nations, as one of the earliest proponents and builders of NATO, Mr. St. Laurent brought to international affairs the same qualities that had secured his career at home.

As Prime Minister, he led his party to two victories unprecedented in their magnitude. He presided over the ultimate confederation of Canada when, in 1949, Newfoundland joined the other nine provinces to make the national structure complete.

It was perhaps inevitable that politically his career should prove to be the epilogue to that of Mr. King, rather than the start of a new drama. No Canadian had held office longer than Mr. St. Laurent's predecessor. The Liberal Party could not expect to retain power in perpetuity.

But Louis St. Laurent served Canada well, and we are grateful for that service. He has been compared with Macdonald, Laurier and King, but in the words of Lionel Chevrier, introducing him last night, Mr. St. Laurent "need not stand in the shadow of any Canadian, living or dead."

It is a tribute to the worth and stature of the man that Mr. St. Laurent leaves the public limelight with as much honor as though he were still Prime Minister. His political judgment has been questioned, but never his integrity; his decisions have been challenged, but never his character; his actions have been argued, but never his ability.

It is for these qualities that Mr. St. Laurent will be remembered by both races, by all political elements. There will be similar national unanimity in good wishes on his well-earned retirement, and hopes for a long and pleasant evening to his days.

War of Manoeuvre

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER'S reply to Soviet Premier Bulganin's proposal for an East-West summit conference has been favorably received by most of the NATO countries including Canada. The U.S. leader's cautious rejoinder, while turning down the Russian offer, has at least kept the door open. It is seen as an improvement over the abrupt rejections by Washington officials which have roused criticism among America's allies.

At the same time, there appears little likelihood that a summit conference will be held in the foreseeable future. The President's alternative suggestion—that preliminary meetings be held on a lower level to survey the possibilities of later agreement by the heads of state—is not expected to lead to any early acceptance. But a summit conference without such preparation could do more harm than good.

It is well known that what Russia really wants is a power-policy conference between the Big Two—Russia and the United States—at the top level, to draw the global lines of strength and decide the various issues still outstanding. The West, basing its strength on mutual alliances, has obvious objections to this form of settlement.

In the absence of any real hope of early agreement, both East and West are indulging in messages designed mainly for their propaganda value. The current stalemate is basically acceptable to both sides, uneasy though it is.

The Curtain Falls

AN ENTERTAINMENT-CRAVing public, which has occasion now to note pioneering efforts of the film industry only through research or by watching television movies, might pause this week to remember Jesse L. Lasky who collapsed and died Monday at Beverly Hills.

At 77, Mr. Lasky could have reviewed the Hollywood story and applied to himself the words of Aeneas: "Sights which I have seen and in which I took no small part."

A pioneer and a giant in his field has left the scene, bequeathing to millions the memories of great moving pictures, outstanding artists and probably much of the tinsel glitter which have made the world's film capital a household word and a by-word. Probably more important, he has left an idiom which could be applied profitably to other human endeavours: "I made lots of mistakes and I learned from them."

The man who gave his name and the biggest share of funds to promote the Jesse Lasky Feature Play Company has known and helped to make the great of the fabulous land of Hollywood make-believe. For the hours of enjoyable entertainment he gave the world, he will be remembered.

Fire Protection for Indians

ON THE NIGHT OF OCTOBER 22 last, a flash fire engulfed a home on the Songhees Indian Reserve. One two-months-old child and one three-year-old perished in the flames.

Chief A. E. Beasley, whose View Royal Volunteer Fire Brigade attended the fire in the hope of rendering aid and not because the reserve was within the volunteers' jurisdiction, said his men had no chance to help. The tinder dry structure was an inferno.

Immediately after the tragedy an anonymous letter arrived at this office above the signature "Native Son." It voiced bitter criticism of the authorities for failing to provide fire protection for the Indians.

As an aftermath of the Songhees fire and of others which have claimed lives on Vancouver Island Indian reservations, Mr. Davie Fulton, who holds the portfolio of citizenship, announced this week that conversations are proceeding between federal and provincial authorities to increase fire protection for Indians.

It is to be hoped they result in speedy action. And as far as the Songhees reservation is concerned, the machinery seems to be ready at hand. That region is almost within a stone's throw of the navy's fire department. That department has been created, of course, to safeguard the naval establishment.

At the same time, it can be called into emergency use by the municipality of Esquimalt. Why can it not also be brought more fully into play when fire breaks out on the Indian reserve?

Surely the arrangements to provide better protection for Indians in this particular instance is little more than a matter of bookkeeping between two federal departments.

The Pause That Depresses

THE LAST TURN — By B. A. TOBIN

Round and Round She Goes

IT has been said that man begins to die the instant he is born, and I suppose in a very general sense that is true. It might be more correct to say that he begins to die the instant he reaches his peak in life. But perhaps for most of us the two instants are simultaneous. Right from the start we tend to add more blemishes than improvements to what we began with.

Tobin

It appears that our earth, like us, has been in the same process of running down ever since it started. Astronomers report that the globe's rate of spin is gradually slowing, so that eventually it will cease and the earth will travel around the sun in the same manner as the moon circles around us—keeping the same face ever towards the centre.

The current concern, however, is not that the earth is slowing down but that it is slowing down much more quickly than had been supposed. At least that's the claim of some British scientists who have been making observations with a new atomic clock that measures time to one one-thousandth of a second.

They say that whereas it used to be believed that the earth was slowing down so that after every hundred years our day became 1/1,000 second longer, now it has been found that it takes only two years for the day to lengthen by this amount. In other words, the change is taking place 50 times as fast as we had thought.

That's enough to cause some alarm. In almost no time the earth will stop spinning — no time astronomically, that is. Actually they figure it will spin for another 16 billion odd years yet. But that's quite a come-down from the original estimate of 800 billions.

Easing Into It

It's just as well that mankind is going to have even 16 billion years in which to become adjusted to the new situation. Because it's going to present some problems when the same side of the globe faces the sun all the time.

For one thing, the sunny side is going to have a tropical climate and the other will have an ice cap like the North Pole. The sunny side will have permanent high tides, and the other will have perpetual low tides. One will have perpetual day, the other perpetual night. And there's going to be an awful scramble among the nations of the world to win a place in the sun.

Just imagine the situation as the globe finally stops, when the greatest wheel-of-fortune of all time comes to rest.

For a long, long time the days and nights on earth have been stretching out. I suppose in the final centuries they have seemed almost endless, but they have been moving.

But at last the moment of truth has arrived. Which side of the globe will end up towards the warmth and light, which side is doomed to eternal darkness and cold?

Imagine the feverish calculations of the astronomers and physicists as they try to forecast which territories are going to be valuable real estate and which are going to be worthless ice fields. Imagine the deals, the bidding, the fabulous prices and the frantic trekking from one part of the earth to another.

And when the final truth is known and the lucky meridians are established, how will the people on the "lower Slobbovia" side take it? Will they wage immediate war for a place in the sun, trying to oust the fortunate inhabitants of the warm areas?

Oh, there are some wild days in store for our old earth—16 billion years from now.

But perhaps it is unfair to assume that the people of that time will meet the crisis with our methods. Perhaps they will have learned co-operation by that time. Perhaps they will have prepared for the event by launching a thousand giant satellites which will pour reflected sunlight down on the dark side. Or they might have perfected batteries of vast atomic sun-lamps which will make the dark side as warm and light as the other.

Tourist Dollars

The present-day rivalry of California and Florida will be as nothing compared with the near-side, off-side competition of the days to come.

Can't you just see the travel folders of 16,000,001,958 AD, some of them luring the holiday family to luxuriate under "a real sun—no other hemisphere can make this claim"; others advertising the joys of a vacation "under scientifically regulated sunlamps, guaranteed not to burn the skin but to produce a nice even tan to personal requirements."

In those glorious days to come, with the 24-minute work week and $10,000-a-year pensions at age 15, life should be one rosy glow of warmth and light, natural or otherwise.

There is one other alternative that comes to mind. Long, long before the 16 billion years are up it's just possible that man will have fixed it so that it doesn't matter which side of the earth faces the sun — for there won't be any inhabitants left here to worry about it.

Eons before the final slowdown it may have been necessary for mankind to vacate this globe for another planet, and perhaps even another great galaxy; he will have rendered it unfit for habitation by man, animal or plant. He may, indeed, be lucky to escape from it at all.

By that time the atomic, hydrogen, and who knows what other kinds of bomb may have wiped the earth clean of all life.

The globe may hang in the space, circling the sun with the same face always towards it, roasting or freezing as the case may be, and glowing in the dark sky with a sickly greenish-yellow light, dead, charred, saturated with lethal radiation, and presenting to the rest of the cosmos a grim example of what can happen when human hearts and minds and morals slow down to the point of immobility, facing the wrong way.

To Be Taken to Heart

May I through your valued column thank the writer of a letter on a very provocative and timely subject in the issue of Jan. 10, 1958, and signed "A Pensioner" with no address given.

The question presented by the writer is a very pertinent one at this time, and to my mind was treated in a very comprehensive manner.

His summary is a very fair solution to the question, and one which both employer and employee should take to heart, and digest very carefully, particularly when so many of our vital industries are pricing themselves out of world markets due largely to exorbitant (highest in the world) wages.

Alternative?

It seems to me, that if the spirit of life and love were really and truly worshipped, as Divinity, no man would take the life of his fellow man, either of his own private accord, or as a participant in some state-controlled battle. We would not need colossal edifices costing tens of thousands of dollars, nor an extensive, sacerdotal order to propound such a religion.

"PLUMB DISGUSTED."

Minority Rights

The oppression of a minority by the majority is one act which all reputable newspapers, including no doubt your own, have always editorially condemned in the strongest possible terms.

In almost all cases the condemned acts have taken place in other countries. But in Victoria, B.C., there is today a situation which however sincere and honest the motives of those concerned may have been, has finally ended up as just such a condition.

I refer to a small group of small operators of gas stations in the city of Victoria who have been told by the city council that in effect they have two choices: either (a) to go broke or have a hard time making a meagre living by closing at 6 p.m. every day, or (b) to go broke or have a hard time making a meagre living by staying open all day and all night. And this in Canada which acclaims itself as a country of personal liberty and free enterprise!

At this point I must make it clear that I am not, never have been, nor ever will be operating a gas station.

Consideration of this situation leads one to the rather obvious conclusion, that if the by-law governing the operation of gas stations is justifiable, similar by-laws should be passed governing the operation of, say, drug stores and restaurants.

To this the reply will, no doubt, be that 80 per cent of gas station operators voted in favor of the present by-law. But any professional statistician or anyone used to studying statistics will tell you that a bare statistic by itself is meaningless.

However, even if the 80 per cent figure is accepted without question the result is the same—in fact, if not in intent or in law, viz a combination in restraint of trade in that the by-law discourages and thereby limits present and future competition.

And furthermore the city council is a part of, or at least accessory, to this combination in restraint of trade.

And what of the public who would wish to patronize the 20 per cent minority? There must be hundreds of Victoria city voters who would like to buy gas and oil from their neighborhood gas stations just before or just after 6 p.m.

It is to be hoped that the voters of Victoria will consider how they would feel were they one of the 20 per cent, and do everything they can to help the minority of these small operators, including bringing pressure to bear to have this iniquitous, arbitrary by-law rescinded.

Enlightening to Public

The rank and file of union labor does not realize how their dog-in-the-manger attitude is enlightening the public.

Here are union groups complaining because part-time workers have the guts to work for less pay than union men deign to accept. These workers are trying to keep body and soul together and exist without government subsidy. The union men must keep up payments on new houses, new cars, new household appliances, new boats and the operating charges that so much leisure time accumulates.

A group that constantly increases the cost of living with its regular demands for more, should have the words "scab" and "parasite" flung in its collective face.

Unions, as a past necessary evil, have passed the point of tolerance and intelligence. "Old timer" in your paper suggests the cessation of the union leaders pay until the strike he has called is ended—a very commendable suggestion.

It has been proved both in Canada and the U.S.A. that more results from more pay and less time at work were not forthcoming. It would appear to be another pipe dream of union officials. When will the ordinary worker open his eyes and realize how preferable is a steady job and steady wages to an uncertain job, and long payless strike vacations due to their leaders' demand for more?

At this time of year normally kind citizens are transformed into wasteful, merciless killers.

It is easy to reduce a beautiful bird to an inert lump of draggled feathers and bleeding flesh; so easy that the feat scarcely justifies the loud boasting of happy hunters. Yet who can restore that innocent harmless life so wantonly taken?

Soon there will be no wild birds left. Is this civilization or a world gone mad with lust to destroy?

FROM PARIS — By JOSEPH ALSOP

Disorder of the West

THERE is only one word for Premier Bulganin's latest suggestion of a meeting at the summit so enlarged that it would resemble a prayer meeting, or perhaps a garden party. It is grotesque. Being transparently grotesque, moreover, Premier Bulganin's latest fusillade of letters can only be regarded as an open mark of Soviet contempt for the present disorder of the West. The reasons are not far to seek, if you take a hard look at what has been happening in recent weeks. In the first place, Premier Bulganin has already enjoyed one great epistolary triumph, with his earlier fusillade of letters fired off just before the grandiose NATO meeting of chiefs of state. Often before the Soviets have tried to intrude upon the councils of the West in just this way. Never before, has the attempt met with anything but cold rebuff.

Alsop

This time, however, the intrusion was brilliantly successful. The NATO rally had been called to strengthen the Wests' defences. Just prior to the meeting, with his usual inimitable timing, Secretary of States Dulles had published an article roundly condemning any over-hasty resumption of negotiations with the Soviet Union.

Main Topic

But the demand for renewed negotiations in Bulganin's letters was a main topic among the NATO conferees. Although the measures they took to strengthen the West were decidedly modest, the conferees replied to Bulganin that they would just love to negotiate. And Secretry Dulles assented with a frozen smile.

At the NATO conference table, certain limits were at least laid down. Any mention of a meeting at the summit was sedulously avoided. Negotiations for the sake of negotiations, paper agreements for the sake of agreements, were piously and unanimously condemned. In sum, a kind of line was traced beyond which no one was to go.

The line did not last long. The first breech occurred when French Prime Minister Gaillard casually spoke up for a second summit meeting at an early date, in the course of an otherwise tough and sensible interview.

The second and even bigger breech was made by British Prime Minister Macmillan, with a proposal for a so-called non-aggression pact between the Soviets and the West. This was just about on a par with the Kellogg Pact to "outlaw war" the previous high water mark of what may be described as wishful-thinking diplomacy.

Meanwhile, the agitation was also going on in favor of Polish Foreign Secretary Rapacki's scheme for a "denuclearized zone" in central Europe. The Rapacki "denuclearized zone" is most emphatically not to be policed or controlled, at least on the Soviet side of the line.

A child of three ought to be able to see the hookers in such a scheme. But it has been taken, and is still being taken increasingly seriously in both Paris and London.

In these circumstances, it is not enough to say that the fears of the post-Sputnik era have given the peoples of The West a gnawing appetite for self delusion. As far as it goes, this is true; and Premier Gaillard and Prime Minister Macmillan have both been very frankly catering to this public appetite.

Lack of Trust

But an almost total lack of trust in American present leadership is just as significant a factor as the post-Sputnik fears. And important Western leaders like Gaillard and Macmillan would not be riding off in all directions, if there were a remaining shadow of real Western unity.

Nor is this the worst of it, by any means. The subjects everyone is earnestly discussing—the Bulganin call for a garden party at the summit, the Rapacki scheme and the Macmillan version of the Kellogg Pact—are all obvious phoneys. Every responsible Western official and every responsible Soviet official knows they are phoneys.

But while this endless conversation about phoneys is carried on, no one says a word about the only serious question raised by recent Soviet diplomacy. This is the question raised by the repeated and more and more pressing Soviet invitations to a Soviet-American dialogue.

Vital Problem

Such a dialogue is in fact the only form of East-West negotiation for which the men in the Kremlin give a snap of their fingers. The Soviet invitations to begin such a dialogue therefore constitute a delicate and vital problem, needing most careful discussion among the allies.

But this problem cannot be discussed, it cannot even be mentioned, once again because of the almost total lack of trust in the present American leadership. Altogether, the West's disorder has now reached an unprecedented point. And the disorder will not be cured, either, even if the permanent NATO council succeeds in its present endeavor to persuade the member nations to speak (or mumble) with one voice in their answers to the Soviets.

UN CORRESPONDENCE

By STANLEY BURKE

Russ Opening Gambit

NEW YORK—Russia made her opening move of the year in the all-important question of disarmament when she announced a reduction in forces of 300,000 men. Disarmament is expected to continue to be the critical subject occupying the United Nations during this first year of the space age. Hopes are cautiously high.

Burke

Next in importance you might list that gaggle of problems which can be lumped under "world economy." In many respects this is connected with disarmament and the power struggle, much more closely than many people imagine. This is the area where a new Communist offensive is clearly under way.

On the Russian disarmament move, the reaction at the United Nations was varied. Afro-Asians representatives generally welcomed the Russian move. NATO members were more reserved with the Americans apparently reacting negatively.

Reports from Washington termed the Russian move as "propaganda" and pointed out that the Russians were making a "unilateral" move. They pointed out that there was no way of verifying the Russian move.

DEEDS NOT WORDS

This reaction disappointed many people because, among other things, it seemed to contradict earlier American demands that the Russians prove their sincerity through "deeds not words." As far as verification is concerned—or inspection, it amounts to the same thing—this will be one of the last things to be agreed upon in disarmament, not the first.

The unofficial reaction among other NATO members seemed to reflect a willingness to accept the Russian statement more or less on its face value. Presumably it is a carefully thought out plan designed to create a favorable impression without weakening Russian defences.

Some well-informed men here at the UN feel that the Russians have moved in the past two years a long way from their earlier extreme position, that they have moved much further than the West.

On inspection, for example, which they formerly flatly rejected, they have recently come up with proposals for both ground and aerial inspection. They are believed to have reduced their forces from an estimated 4 million to around 3 million and their forces may now even be comparable with the American 2.6 million. They are, of course, concentrated in what you might call "fortress Asia" while NATO forces are strung out and thus weaker.

As mentioned before, hopes are cautiously high that some beginning will be made this year. Both sides seem to show new realism, a new awareness that complex package proposals won't work. Western views on inspection are undergoing review. Formerly the West put major emphasis on inspection. As Prime Minister Diefenbaker said:

HIDDEN SITES

"If you have nothing to hide, why hide it?"

Now, in the missile age, many specialists wonder if inspection is practical. To be effective it would almost seem that radio-equipped inspectors would have to be based at every rocket launching site, including submarines. Other inspectors would have to scour the world looking for hidden sites. Clearly this is impossible even supposing the Russians and the American Congress would permit it. Stress now is on finding simpler, first stage areas where agreement might be reached. Agreement to keep troops and weapons out of certain areas, for example.

Behind all this manoeuvering, planning, and hoping lies the driving force of the world's economy, the area in which the new Communist offensive is opening up.

Roughly speaking there are three great areas in the world economy—the West, Communist Bloc and the Afro-Asian countries (with South America in a sort of midway position between the West and the Afro-Asians.) By an unusual coincidence the West and the Communist Bloc are undergoing economic difficulties at the same time and this will have a bearing on national attitudes toward disarmament.

The Russians have admitted that they are short of capital and they have revised their current five-year plan. They are also short of manpower and are presumably anxious to save both money and men through disarmament.

There may be another thought underlying Russian thinking on disarmament. This is the hope that they can disrupt the Western economy by forcing disarmament. Russians will frankly tell you they don't think the Western economy could survive disarmament. Economists both at the UN and in Ottawa admit that sudden disarmament would cause severe difficulties. However they don't think there will be any sudden disarming whether we want it or not. World tensions are too high.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Slow Burn Over Customs

LONDON—If you're thinking of sending friends here some Canadian cigarets—think again, unless you want to land them with a whopping bill from the Customs and Excise people.

What brought this to my notice was a letter I've had from Mrs. M. Hughes, who lives in Toronto. She asked me whether I could look into two matters that seemed to be unfairness on the port of customs here.

* * *

"I came to Canada in 1954," she wrote, "and last year went back to England to visit my daughter. The customs made me pay 35s on a watch my husband had bought for me here in Canada. Then last month I sent my daughter a parcel which included three packets of cigarets (not cartons) and I took a cigaret out of each packet to show they weren't for resale.

Reyburn

"I also declared same on customs label, yet my daughter had to pay 10s 4d. Going into England if you declare 200 cigarets you don't have to pay duty. Why did my daughter have to pay on just three packets?"

* * *

I checked with the custom headquarters and as regards the watch, something must have gone adrift at Mrs. Hughes' port of entry. Visitors coming here from Canada most certainly don't have to pay duty on something purchased in Canada which they are taking out with them again.

If you have something of value which the customs officials have their eye on all you need to do is make a deposit, as assurance that you won't sell it while in England, and that deposit is refunded when you leave the country—provided you can still produce the article concerned!

* * *

With cigarets, though, it's a different story. I know that to my own sorrow. I once mentioned in a column that my favorite cigaret was a certain Canadian brand. A well-meaning reader sent me a carton—and that cost me £1-11-3 in duty.

With some items the recipient here doesn't mind paying the duty, being content to put a small outlay on something well worth receiving. But not cigarets. The sad fact is that folks here are not really smoking tobacco—it's customs and excise duty that's going up in smoke.

The £1-11-3 I had to pay on that Canadian carton at that time almost the same as I paid for a carton here. (It has since gone up to £1-19-2, or 3s 11d a pack!) Paying 10s 4d on three packets from Canada, Mrs. Hughes' daughter paid only 8d less than for three English packets.

CITY'S WEATHER RECORD

Sunshine, 1958	13.9 hrs.
Last year	25.8 hrs.
Precip to date	0.99 ins.
Last year	1.28 ins.

SYNOPSIS—Tuesday night's coastal storm is now much weaker as it crosses the eastern interior this morning accompanied by snow flurries. Mild moist Pacific air follows the system giving mostly cloudy skies to the province with some breaks inland and scattered showers along the coast. The pattern should again be repeated as another storm brings strong winds and rain to the coast overnight and snow flurries to the interior Thursday morning. Following the disturbance the weather on Thursday should be much the same as today.

B.C. CHAIRMAN NAMED

$100,000 Target For Heart Drive

Start of the month-long 1958 Canadian Heart Fund drive has been set for Feb. 1, with the total objective $850,000.

The B.C. goal is $100,000. Charles Bentall of Vancouver was named today as chairman of the B.C. drive.

Mr. Bentall, chairman of the board of the Dominion Construction Company, said the purpose of the campaign is to obtain support for the Heart Foundation's research, public and professional education and community service program.

Heart disease accounted for about 52 per cent of all deaths in Canada in 1956.

Mr. Bentall also stated that heart disease is striking increasingly hard at those in the prime of life—35 to 54—when productivity and earning power are at a peak.

In this age group 40 per cent of all deaths are caused by heart disease, with five times more men than women the victims.

Broom Varieties For Any Location

How fortunate we are that enough kinds of plants are in cultivation to suit all types of locations and soils.

In a poor soil either stony and dry, or one neglected for years and containing little or no humus, there is no better group of plants to use than the cytisus or genista, commonly considered together as broom.

Hilda

There is enough variety within this group to suit almost any location since the habits vary from tiny prostrate specimens for crevices in rock walls to trees of 30 feet.

Cytisus kewensis with masses of cream flowers in spring will quickly drape over large boulders or fill a rocky pocket of soil on a wall. C. Beanii with yellow flowers, comes a little later and is somewhat taller.

C. praecox (meaning early or precocious) makes three feet of growth a year, yet by the recommended type of pruning, described later, may be kept to a pleasing four-foot, well-shaped shrub. Its flowers are pale yellow in May and literally cover the plant.

Taller kinds of broom are found in Spartium junceum (still another division of broom) the fragrant Spanish broom; Genista aetnensis (Mt. Aetna broom) is lovely as a small tree of golden bloom in early summer; and Cytisus Battandieri from Algiers, surely the most unusual and beautiful of all the brooms.

This last is a tree to 20 feet, with leaves as softly-haired as kittens' ears, and pendulous racemes of scented golden blossoms in summer.

C. Battendieri needs a sunny position sheltered from cold winter winds and severe frosts, but all the others mentioned are hardy in the open, and enjoy full sun.

Pruning should be done immediately after flowering, and consists of cutting back about two-thirds of the green wood each year. The new growth produced the same year, bears the bloom the following year. Unpruned plants of broom soon become woody and straggly with but a few flowers at the tips of the stems.

CMHC Studies 'Opening Up' Areas for Loans

Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation is considering "opening up" its policy of approving areas for its loans in the Greater Victoria district.

Saanich council Monday voted to ask CMHC to delay the plan until it can make recommendations for specific areas to be approved in the municipality.

Coun. George Chatterton told council that CMHC was on the verge of "opening up" its policy but first wished to know if council would prefer the approvals "thrown wide open or limited to specific areas."

The switch in policy, under which CMHC indicates the areas in which it will guarantee mortgage loans — loosely restricted to sewer areas—was revealed to Coun. Chatterton, Reeve Arthur Ash and municipal officials last week.

Coun. Chatterton said it would be better for the municipality if the more liberal approval policy was restricted to specific new areas. This would help with orderly and planned growth of the municipality by being dove-tailed with such projects as future sewer programs.

However, he warned council that CMHC was in a hurry to make the change and could not wait until March when a Saanich report on future planning is expected.

City Saves Half Cost Printing Voters' List

A 50 per cent saving was made by city council when it refused tenders and ordered city hall staff to print the voters' list last fall.

Finance committee was told Monday cost to the city was $1,553, compared to the lowest tendered price of $3,819.

Vacation Spent in B.C. Best Centennial Present

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two centennial year organizers expressed hope Tuesday that British Columbians will give their province a 100th anniversary birthday present this year by spending their vacations in British Columbia.

Said centennial committee chairman L. J. Wallace at a Vancouver service club luncheon: "We hope the provincial campaign will encourage British Columbia folk to visit other parts of the province and get to know their fellow British Columbians."

Ted Fox, a member of the government-appointed centennial board of directors, told another service club here: "We hope our program will be of sufficient interest to keep British Columbia folk at home."

Mr. Walalce said an estimated 3,000,000 tourists are expected to spend between $150,000,000 and $200,000,000 during the year.

Mr. Fox said: "There will be something going on in virtually every part of British Columbia so we ought to be able to keep our tourist dollars at home as well as attract outside dollars here."

'START OF NEW ERA'

Handicapped Plant To Open Saturday

Newly-renovated workshops for handicapped men and women employed by Goodwill Enterprises at 560 Yates will be opened by Mayor Percy Scurrah next Saturday at 3 p.m.

The public will be invited to view the premises between 2 and 5.30 p.m. and tea will be served.

They are also invited to participate in Victoria Rotary Club's "beautiful baby contest" to raise funds for the enterprise by judging the babies in order of general appeal and attractiveness, with $1.500 offered in prizes.

Entry forms may be obtained from any Rotarian or from Rotary offices, 816 Wharf Street.

"We hope the opening of the renovated workshops will be the start of a new era for Victoria's handicapped," Mrs. J. Evelyn Lamont, executive director of Goodwill Enterprises, said today.

$3,000 NEEDED

"But we still need about $3,000 in donations from the public to enable us to buy the necessary equipment. We also need a truck for collecting the raw material for our workshops."

The raw material consists of discarded clothing, boots, shoes, and household bric-a-brac suitable for reconditioning by the handicapped workers. The reconditioned articles are then sold and the income goes to pay workers' wages and cost of operations.

Needed workshop equipment are:

Two industrial sewing machines, an industrial darner, a Hoffman steam press, a Suzie press, a cessil iron and board, a washing machine and a drier.

Donors are invited to phone Mrs. Lamont at 5-6781.

Victoria Rotary Club has sponsored the organization to the extent of spending nearly $13,000 on renovating and rebuilding the aged premises—and there is nothing left over for equipment.

"We had to spend much more on this work than we anticipated," said Eben Govan, a former Winnipeg businessman, who is vice-president of Rotary's management committee.

"The premises are at least 100 years old and all kinds of unforeseen repairs had to be effected."

12 ON STAFF

Goodwill is already employing a paid staff of 12 handicapped workers and hopes to increase the number to 15 before the end of January.

Fred Blakeney, who started the original Goodwill project in January, 1956, is part of the new organiaztion as supervisor of the silk screeniing process department. He is training two handicapped workers for this work—A. Appleton, who is deaf and dumb, and Ken Melander, a victim of cerebal palsy.

"I shall train as many more for this work as is possible," said Mr Blakeney, who is himself a handicapped worker.

TRAFFIC FINES

Peter P. Walker, 4081 Wilkinson, $30 for careless driving.

Alexander Nicol, 1564 Westall, $50 for careless driving.

Olga M. Robinson, Royal Oak, $15 for failing to set hand brake.

Richard Tench, 108 Douglas, $25 for driving without a licence and $15 for reversing when unsafe.

Nicholas Proceviat, [illegible] Tattersal, $15 for driving with inadequate brakes.

George Henry Gilbert, 1677 Derby, $25 for driving without a licence.

Church Writer Dr. Monro Dies

VANCOUVER (CP) — Rev. Alexander Finlay Monro, former secretary of the Vancouver Presbytery of the United Church of Canada and church columnist of the Province for the last five years, died Monday aged 82.

Dr. Monro, a graduate of St. Andrew's University, Edinburgh, came to B.C. as minister of Duncan Presbyterian Church. He moved to Vancouver in 1923 to become minister of Knox Presbyterian Church, a post he held until his retirement in 1945.

Hotel Murder Charge Discounted by Jury

(From CP Dispatches)

VANCOUVER — A coroner's jury discounted the death-bed statement of a woman that she was pushed from a hotel window and ruled Tuesday that she committed suicide.

Police testified that Mrs. Sophia Gladstone, 40, told them before she died of injuries Jan. 9 that her husband had pushed her from the fourth-floor window of the downtown hotel.

Police said there was no sign of a struggle in the hotel room. Only the bottom part of the window through which Mrs. Gladstone fell was open. Police also said she had tried on two previous occasions to kill herself by slashing her wrists and throat.

Det.-Sgt. Bill Morphett said no scream was heard when she fell. In his experience, he said, only people committing suicide do not scream when falling to their deaths.

ROAD VICTIM

PRINCE RUPERT — John McNaughton, 74, died three hours after being struck by a car while crossing an intersection. It was Prince Rupert's first fatal traffic accident since Dec. 3, 1956.

Police said McNaughton was struck by a car driven by Charles Edward Morrow, and suffered leg and internal injuries. Coroner George Dases said an inquest will be held.

PREFERS OAKALLA

VANCOUVER—A 27-year-old self-confessed drug addict asked to be sent to Oakalla prison farm rather than the B.C. penitentiary Tuesday so he could "take a crack at" rehabilitating himself.

James Mulligan who was released from the penitentiary only six weeks ago,, was sentenced to two years less a day in Oakalla after pleading guilty to possession of five capsules of heroin.

KILLED BY TREE

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—Karl Kovach, 49, logging camp teamster, was killed when an uprooted birch tree fell on him. The accident occurred in the Buck Horn Lake district, 20 miles southeast of here.

Kovach is survived by his wife and two children.

JAIL FOR BIGAMY

VANCOUVER — A 39-year-old man who married three times without the formality of divorce was sentenced Tuesday to six months in jail for bigamy.

Reginald Robinson pleaded guilty to the charge. Magistrate Oscar Orr refused to consider Robertson's second bigamous marriage because the ceremony was performed in Coeur D'Alene, Idaho, and he said he had no jurisdiction.

A TEACHER at the Canadian Services College, Royal Roads, Prof. Charles Burchill, was re-elected president of the British Columbia Arts and Welfare Society at its recent annual meeting. Other officers elected were Mrs. Josephine Godman, vice-president; Col. Gilbert Howland, treasurer, and Mrs. Violet Ashdown, secretary.

Cat Mutilates Hand of Child

GLENS FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—A cat is believed to have chewed three fingers from the hand of three-year-old Jacqueline Merrill as she played in a barn Monday.

The parents, working in the barn, heard the child's screams and found the index, middle and ring finger of her right hand chewed down to the palm.

Death by Malnutrition Inquest Jury Verdict

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP)—A coroner's jury returned a verdict of death by malnutrition Tuesday after a day-long inquest in the case of Mrs. Margaret Mary Howard, 30, who died in hospital after being placed on a diet by a naturopathic physician.

The jury found malnutrition was due to "her failure to carry out to the fullest her doctor's advice," and attached no blame to anyone for her death. Mrs. Howard, mother of three children, died Christmas Day.

Naturopathic physician James A. Boucher, who said he treated Mrs. Howard for two months before her death, said he first examined Mrs. Howard Oct. 24. He said she had "a palpable mass the size of an egg in the abdomen" and he ordered a special diet. Mrs. Howard was unable to take the diet, so he told her to eat nothing until she felt able to.

Her husband, John, was warned 18 days before his wife died that she was starving herself to death, the jury was told. But he ignored the warning.

Dr. George Mott, medical health officer in the area, said the public health department intervened in an unsuccessful attempt to have her treatment changed.

Dr. Gordon Stranks, a medical practitioner, said Mrs. Howard was suffering only from imagination. He said he had treated her for minor ailments for three years.

VICTORIA OPINION POLL

78 Out of 100 Supporting Cathedral Hill Proposals

By BEN CROW
Western Surveys-Research Ltd.

The Capital Region Planning Board's Cathedral Hill plan is approved by most Greater Victorians. In fact, a large number of persons would like to see the City start acquiring the necessary property now.

Interviewers put the question to 100 residents as follows:

"The Capital Region Planning Board has recommended that the new Victoria court house and land registry office be placed on Cathedral Hill along with a new city hall as part of a major civic centre development. Courtney Street would be turned into a landscaped pedestrian boulevard; a civic square with fountains and sculpture would be placed between the city hall and the Cathedral. A two-level parking structure for 400 cars would be constructed. All trees would be preserved; Pioneer Park would be included; the Royal Theatre would be landscaped.

Ben Crow

What is your opinion of the recommendation?"

Here are the results:

Expressions of approval	78
Expressions of disapproval	12
No opinion	10
	100

The poll continued with:

"Would you approve of the City acquiring the property now, as recommended, or not?"

Yes, acquire now	69
No, disapprove	14
Not sure yet	17
	100

Proponents of the plan expressed approval like this:

"It is a good idea as long as it is beautified."

"Victoria needs something to give civic pride."

"A very good idea and certainly a lot better than what they have now."

"A good location. Woodward's should go where the old City Hall is."

"I agree this should be done, but not too elaborately."

"A very fine idea to centralize these operations."

"I think it is not too far out of the centre of town and the whole idea is good."

"It will beautify the place and be good for tourists."

"Very good — especially with amalgamation."

"It would help the unemployment situation."

"It's a good idea but Victorians won't go for it. They're not progressive enough.'

"I think it's wonderful. All the municipalities should join in."

But opponents warned:

"Too much expense to the taxpayer."

"I do not approve because there is too much for the use of city employees and not enough for the public."

"I don't like it. The city is too small for such development."

"No, it should be more central.

"It should be built farther from the city."

"It should be on the site of the old post office and where the land registry is."

"Cost too much for the size of the city."

Citizens argued for an immediate start to property purchase negotiations:

"You can't get it all at once without paying too much."

"Before prices go up."

"Get while available."

"May as well purchase this winter."

"Provided they do not have to go into debt to do it."

FINGER 'CURE' SAVES TINY DOG

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Fireman Ed Williams saved the life of a tiny Chihuahua dog by using one finger to apply artificial respiration after it was found unconscious from smoke poisoning.

"I held him in the palm of one hand," Williams said, "and kept pressing on his chest with a finger and then releasing the pressure."

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 15, 1958 9

AMONG VICTORIA'S OUT-OF-SEASON DISPLAY of beautiful blooms is this Camelia bush in full flower in the garden of B. E. Monk, 2770 Sea View. It is five feet tall, has 35 blooms. (Times Photo.)

ONE OF MILDEST WINTERS ON RECORD

326 Days Without Freezing

Victoria is headed for one of the mildest winters in its long and enviable weather record.

Not once this winter has the official thermometer at the Dominion weather office, Gonzales Heights, fallen below the freezing mark.

In fact, the last time the mercury slipped below 32 was Feb. 23, 1957, when it dropped briefly to 28 above.

Tuesday's high of 47 made Victoria the second warmest spot in Canada, beaten only by Prince Rupert, at 51.

Forecast calls for continuing mild temperatures, with cloudy skies and some rain. Weather disturbances in the Pacific are day of above-freezing temperatures, and there is every indication the mild weather will continue.

Throughout the area, flowers and birds are behaving as though spring were here. Nearly every suburban garden is playing host to robins, all of whom appear fat, sassy and well fed.

A wide variety of flowers are in bloom, including camellia, pansy, cherry, rose, shasta cloud, and preventing cold Arctic air from creeping in.

'WAIT, SEE' ON JUMBO BEER GLASSES

Victoria beer parlor operators have adopted a "wait and see" policy over the new king-size 20-cent glass.

"We shall buy them if the other beer parlors do," one operator said — and "the other" parlors said the same.

So far not a single king-size

Premier Wants Action On Frobisher Project

Company Stalls on Plans For Huge Hydro Project

Premier Bennett said today the Frobisher interests will be required by the provincial government to proceed "in due course" with their northern B.C. Development.

The government expects to receive definite proposals on the subject, Mr. Bennett said.

That was the premier's answer to Frobisher president Allan J. Anderson, who said in Vancouver Tuesday the firm does not plan to go ahead for some time with its planned $50,000,000 hydro-electric metallurgical project on the Nass River.

NO MARKET

Mr. Anderson said that at the present time there is no market for power in northern B.C.

"Development work in the northern areas is hampered by a lack of population," he said.

"They knew that when they started," Premier Bennett retorted.

Mr. Bennett said, however, the government had set no specific time limit when Fro-

Bennett Says House to Sit Eight Weeks

Legislature Opens Next Week

Forthcoming session of the B.C. Legislature will last seven or eight weeks, Premier Bennett predicted today.

But what has happened?

They come up to you, in any American restaurant today, on a side-plate, wrapped in aluminum foil, like a blinkin' Christmas present.

baked potato.

There was a time, you may recall, when this superb viand could be consumed with salt, pepper, a pat of butter and (in expansive moments) a dollop of cream. Taken that way, they could be eaten, pyjamas and all, and there was nothing to touch 'em.

★ ★ ★

Now that in itself might not be so bad, but wait! When the waitress retires, a Filipino boy arrives and starts sprinkling the potato with chopped-up bacon rinds.

While you eye this process dubiously, a third genii sidles up and tops the whole works with a spoonful of grated peanuts.

★ ★ ★

So what have you got—a baked potato? Nossir, you've got a 2,000-calorie mess.

There it stands — a glittering banana-split, made out of potatoes.

I tell you, a starving Armenian couldn't eat it.

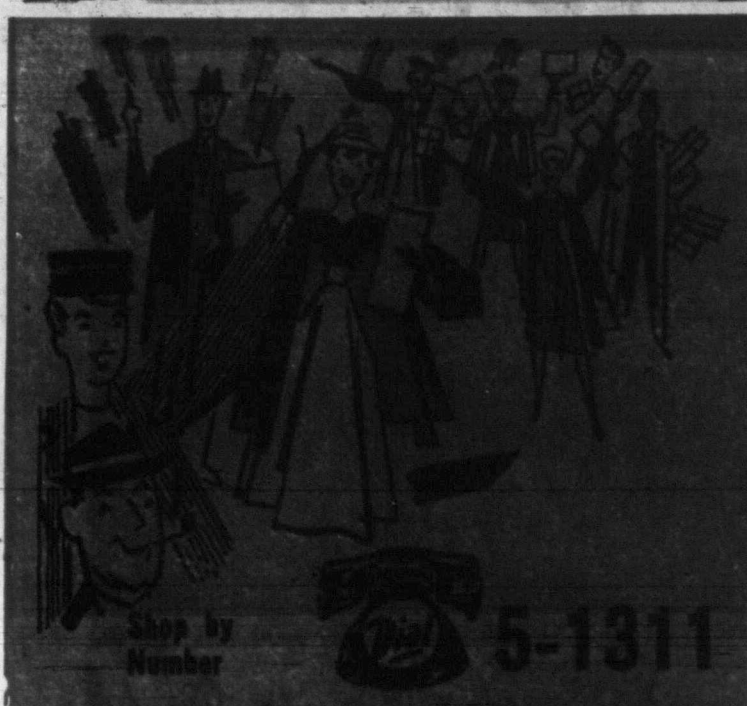

I found out, after two weeks, I couldn't even look at it.

Those Americans deserve every damned thing they get.

Premier Wants Action On Frobisher Project

Company Stalls on Plans For Huge Hydro Project

Premier Bennett said today the Frobisher interests will be required by the provincial government to proceed "in due course" with their northern B.C. Development.

The government expects to receive definite proposals on the subject, Mr. Bennett said.

That was the premier's answer to Frobisher president Allan J. Anderson, who said in Vancouver Tuesday the firm does not plan to go ahead for some time with its planned $50,000,000 hydro-electric metallurgical project on the Nass River.

NO MARKET

Mr. Anderson said that at the present time there is no market for power in northern B.C.

"Development work in the northern areas is hampered by a lack of population," he said.

"They knew that when they started," Premier Bennett retorted.

Mr. Bennett said, however, the government had set no specific time limit when Frobisher must proceed.

"It is not costing the people of B.C. anything," the premier said.

HOLDING BOND

The provincial government is holding a $2,500,000 "good faith" bond from Frobisher, which would be returned if the project doesn't proceed because the company has carried out extensive surveys.

Originally, Frobisher announced plans for a $200,000,000 development of the Yukon and Taku River headwaters, but switched attention to the Nass when the bigger scheme became embroiled in the international waterways controversy.

Frobisher also has interests in iron ore holdings in northern B.C., but Mr. Anderson said development is being held up because of recent changes in provincial mining legislation.

"Until the provincial government makes up its mind what it is going to do with iron ore, we will leave it where it is," he said.

OTHERS READY

Premier Bennett replied that Frobisher, if it abandons its holdings here, would be replaced by other firms which have expressed interest in establishing mines in B.C.

B.C.'s leasing system is the same as that in the Yukon and other parts of North America, the premier said.

"All legitimate mining firms will get fair treatment," he said.

It was the government's duty to protect the resources of the province for the people, the premier said.

Bennett Says House to Sit Eight Weeks

Legislature Opens Next Week

Forthcoming session of the B.C. Legislature will last seven or eight weeks, Premier Bennett predicted today.

The session, starting Jan. 23, will end before April 1, he said.

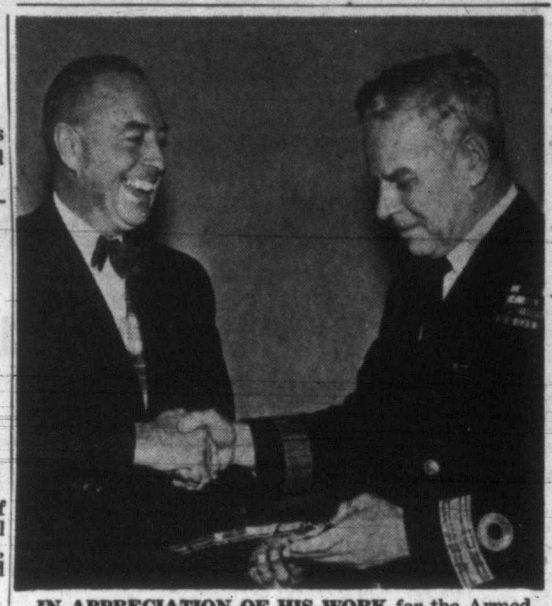

Prorogation could come close to the date of the federal election which has been forecast for the last week in March.

The premier said he is looking to the opposition to provide more constructive criticism this session.

Controversy should be on "legitimate issues," he said, without bitterness.

In the past the opposition has gone "off on a tangent" on many issues and provided only "hit and run" criticism.

"The opposition has fallen down badly in that respect," Mr. Bennett said.

Police Plan Nightly Check Of Schools

Esquimalt police have certain suspects in connection with an apparent attempt to burn Esquimalt High School Monday night.

Chief Gilbert Stancombe, heading an investigation into the incident in which four separate fires were set in the building, said he could not elaborate on what has been learned so far.

He was to meet today with a representative of the provincial fire marshal's office.

The fires, which caused only minor damage, were set in a desk drawer, a table, in a pile of papers on a floor and papers on a notice board.

Meanwhile, by agreement with the school board, Esquimalt police will carry keys to all schools in the municipality and make nightly checks of premises to prevent further vandalism.

Entry to the building had been made by smashing a window. A door pane also was broken.

After initial investigation at the scene another discovery was made.

Photograph and citation of a former student, Dr. Frederick Henry Sanders, of Defence Research Board, Ottawa, had been taken from its place of honor in the front hall, smashed and left in the mud outside the school.

Dr. Sanders, formerly of Pacific Naval Laboratory at HMC Dockyard, is a long acquaintance of Chief Stancombe.

Fast Ferry Plan Gets CPR Study

Canadian Pacific Steamships is now studying possibility of inaugurating a new ferry service between the lower mainland and the "Victoria area," Mayor Percy Scurrah was told today.

Reports from Vancouver, where Mayor Scurrah met with Defence Minister G. R. Pearkes and Transport Minister George Hees, indicate a race might be shaping to see who will be first with a fast ferry from Sidney to Steveston.

Transport Minister Hees is quoted as saying he and Gen. Pearkes had met last week in Ottawa with CPR representatives, who had expressed themselves willing to consider a ferry service.

Gen. Pearkes had earlier lent support to Mayor Scurrah's plan for a ferry which would offer a two-hour service.

Mr. Hees said, "we can't tell until they (the CPR) have studied this thing, whether there is sufficient traffic to justify it." He said he expected the CPR report to be ready in two or three months.

Mayor Scurrah, meanwhile, said he has assurances of a firm other than the CNR or CPR, which would start the ferry, if the federal government would guarantee bond issues.

'Save Children' Official In Victoria March 1 to 3

Brig. T. W. Boyce, OBE, MC, MM, London, England, general secretary of the world-wide "Save the Children Fund," will visit Victoria during his Canadian tour March 1 to 3.

The brigadier arrives in New York early February with Countess Mountbatten of Burma, CI, GBE, DCVO, president of the organization. She will return to Burma after a speaking engagement in New York.

The general secretary will continue the tour, visiting Toronto, Montreal, Winnipeg, Vancouver and Victoria.

Mrs. W. W. McGill, Island representative of the Save the Children Fund, said today the brigadier is coming to Victoria "to thank the thousands of Sunday school children on the Island who have collected $10,479 for the fund in the past four years."

He likely will address the children at a Sunday school rally here, she said.

Other speaking engagements are being arranged by Mrs. McGill.

Further contributions to the fund may be sent to her at 3441 Mayfair.

ONE OF MILDEST WINTERS ON RECORD

326 Days Without Freezing

Victoria is headed for one of the mildest winters in its long and enviable weather record.

Not once this winter has the official thermometer at the Dominion weather office, Gonzales Heights, fallen below the freezing mark.

In fact, the last time the mercury slipped below 32 was Feb. 23, 1957, when it dropped briefly to 28 above.

This is the 326th consecutive day of above-freezing temperatures, and there is every indication the mild weather will continue.

Tuesday's high of 47 made Victoria the second warmest spot in Canada, beaten only by Prince Rupert, at 51.

Forecast calls for continuing mild temperatures, with cloudy skies and some rain. Weather disturbances in the Pacific are keeping the area protected by cloud, and preventing cold Arctic air from creeping in.

Throughout the area, flowers and birds are behaving as though spring were here. Nearly every suburban garden is playing host to robins, all of whom appear fat, sassy and well fed.

A wide variety of flowers are in bloom, including camellia, pansy, cherry, rose, shasta daisy, and many snowdrops. Daffodils have pushed shoots five and six inches high through the damp, warm soil.

Today William Mackie, Victoria's weatherman, searched the records for comparable mild spells, and found ample proof to this area's claim as the "banana belt."

Other long periods of consecutive days during which the official thermometer stayed above freezing were:

March 5, 1939, to Nov. 9, 1940; Jan. 26, 1925 to Dec. 11, 1926; Feb. 23, 1942 to Jan. 15, 1943; March 6, 1943, to March, 1944; Feb. 2, 1947, to Jan. 27, 1948; and Jan. 9, 1953, to Jan. 14, 1954.

'WAIT, SEE' ON JUMBO BEER GLASSES

Victoria beer parlor operators have adopted a "wait and see" policy over the new king-size 20-cent glass.

"We shall buy them if the other beer parlors do," one operator said — and "the other" parlors said the same.

So far not a single king-size glass has been seen in Victoria, although salesmen are canvassing local parlors for orders.

"They are quite expensive and we don't want to buy them unless the others do," a downtown operator said.

B.C. innkeepers voted to introduce the big glasses at a recent convention and the B.C. Liquor Control Board approved the move. The present 10-cent, six-ounce glass will continue to be offered as well as the jumbo schooner.

JUDY BOOTS

(Barking for Monte Roberts)

Well well well here it is January 15 1958 already and what do you know I am now four years of old.

Yes today it is my fourth birthday and in case you came in late I am Judy Boots Streak the friend of all the people also the female-type doggie who lives at the Old Man's house.

And as usual the Old Man has given me a birthday present he has given me the honor and privilege (that's what HE calls it) of filling this space for him.

The Old Man says I should be duly grateful for the chance to wish myself Happy Birthday and I guess he is right so Happy Birthday to me and thanks for all those letters and cards.

There is one thing about my birthday which is different from the Old Man's birthday the Old Man's birthday is May 24 and he never knows where May 24 will fall it usually falls on May 21 or 22 or 23 or 25 never on May 24 which confuses him a great deal and this is too bad he is confused enough already.

January 15 on the other hand always falls on January 15 and I find this a great help in finding out how old I am.

For your information I am now grown up and dignified and have long ago given up the playful ways of puppyhood in fact I am quite the elder stateswoman very philosophical and most wise.

In fact it is well known the only sensible and sane words which appear in this space are words which I put here although I have hopes for Little Miss Muffett the female-type cat she shows signs of growing up and gaining wisdom although she is not yet a year old.

If you do not believe me please read the letter which just this minute arrived:

"Dear Judy Boots Streak. Although a stranger to you may I wish you Many Happy Returns of your birthday in memory of the affection I have had in my life from doggies of various types.

"And may I congratulate you on your literary style and content when you bark for the Old Man—quite superior to his, really. But don't tell him I said so, or he may deprive you of your bed and bone.

"Sincerely, one of YOUR constituents."

Well well well thank you very much and do not worry about the Old Man depriving me of my bed and bone he saw what happened to Robbie the cocker spaniel yesterday when Robbie tried to deprive me of my bone. Hah!

So once more all together now Happy Birthday to Me.

May Celebrations Centenary Highlights

Greater Victoria annual May celebrations will be crammed into two days this year instead of the usual three to consolidate the event with the week-long B.C. Industrial and Agricultural Fair.

The joined events will extend from May 12 to May 19. Officials say the affair will be a highlight of centennial celebrations.

The Greater Victoria Celebrations Committee will take over the Jaycee-sponsored fair when it ends with the traditional queen-crowning Sat., May 17.

The queen will be crowned on the Parliament Buildings steps night of the 18th. The following day, Monday, May 19 will start with the Victoria Day parade in the morning.

A number of floats, some from out-of-town and U.S. points have already been promised and it is expected the Seattle police drill team will again take part, as well as the various services.

A motorcycle rodeo is set for Royal Athletic Park on the afternoon of the 19th, possibly combined or followed by a show by local riding clubs. A band concert is being arranged for Royal Theatre and Vancouver Island Western Square Dance Association plans a variety program at Memorial Arena at the same time.

GVCA returned Victoria alderman G. I. Edgelow to office as chairman at a meeting Tuesday night. Esquimalt councillor J. E. Carey is vice-chairman; Capt. Norman Foster, treasurer and Mrs. Ethel Bishop, secretary.

Five directors elected are Joseph Wright, James Nott, Mrs. A. McVie, M. F. Hunter and Lloyd Liesch.

Central Building Office for Sloan

The provincial government has secured offices in the Central Building, at View and Broad, for new forests adviser Gordon Sloan.

The government will enter a 10-year lease for the offices at a fee of $4,300 a year. It will also spend $15,000 on renovations.

Trio Ask for Jury Trial On Break-In Charge

Three young men elected trial by judge and jury when they appeared in city police court charged with breaking, entering and intent to steal at Economy Steam Laundry Ltd., 607 John, at 1.55 a.m. today.

They were Harry Hoskins, 19, Mt. Newton Crossroad; Ronald Leslie McMeeken, 18, 1906 Birch, and Norman McKenzie, 19, 1035 Empress.

All were remanded a week for preliminary hearing.

A fourth youth, aged 17, was to be dealt with in juvenile court.

A. C. Willey, 610A John, called police to say he saw four youths break into the laundry.

Five uniform police and two detectives converged on the building with manager Sam Swetnam.

TV viewers will phone in pledges to the station to see acts performed.

Saanich Woman Missing Since Sunday Night

A blonde, blue-eyed Saanich wife missing from her home since Sunday evening was still unaccounted for at noon today, Saanich police reported.

Mrs. Audrey Wilcox, 27, of 3036 Tillicum, was getting Sunday dinner ready when she stepped outside and did not come back, her husband told police.

Police said the woman may have been distraught due to a nervous condition.

She wore a tweed skirt, white blouse, red sweater and light blue overcoat.

Mrs. Wilcox is of fair complexion, is 5 feet 2 inches tall and weighs about 100 pounds.

Anyone with information is asked to call her home at 5-1990 or Saanich police.

PUBLISHER'S NOTEBOOK

The Great Potato Blight

The decline of America has been blamed on many things—education, the church, Sputnik, the move of the Dodgers, and even Elvis Presley.

I'm here to tell you: it's what they've done to the poor old Idaho baked potato.

Keate

There was a time, you may recall, when this superb viand could be consumed with salt, pepper, a pat of butter and (in expansive moments) a dollop of cream. Taken that way, they could be eaten, pyjamas and all, and there was nothing to touch 'em.

★ ★ ★

But what has happened?

They come up to you, in any American restaurant today, on a side-plate, wrapped in aluminum foil, like a blinkin' Christmas present.

When your back is turned, a waitress sneaks up and plops into the middle of this incomparable vegetable what appears to be a mountain of hand lotion. On examination, it turns out to be sour cream, mixed with chives.

Now that in itself might not be so bad, but wait! When the waitress retires, a Filipino boy arrives and starts sprinkling the potato with chopped-up bacon rinds.

While you eye this process dubiously, a third genii sidles up and tops the whole works with a spoonful of grated peanuts.

★ ★ ★

So what have you got—a baked potato? Nossir, you've got a 2,000-calorie mess.

There it stands — a glittering banana-split, made out of potatoes.

I tell you, a starving Armenian couldn't eat it.

I found out, after two weeks, I couldn't even look at it.

Those Americans deserve every damned thing they get.

NO HITTING WHILE YOU'RE DOWN

Former featherweight champion Willie Pep takes glove to face while falling on top of Tommy Tibbs as fighters tumble to canvas in ninth round of 10-round lightweight bout at Boston Tuesday night. Pep, the old master of the ring, who has fought over 200 bouts in 19-year career, dropped split decision.

Colin in Action Tonight As Cats Tackle Amerks

Egan Refuses To Give Up Playoff Hopes

Colin Kilburn may be making his last Western Hockey League appearance in a Victoria uniform when the Cougars tackle Seattle Americans at Memorial Arena tonight. But he says he'll be playing with the same old purpose — to win.

Kilburn, formally notified Tuesday that he had been relieved of his duties of Cougar general-manager after being asked to resign following a directors' meeting Sunday, said this morning that he was playing to help hockey in Victoria and that he expected the Cougars would win.

Coach Pat Egan, in charge of playing personnel since Kilburn was ousted, said that Colin would again operate on a line with his brother, Doug, and centre Ed Dorohoy.

It is expected that the elder Kilburn will be traded to another WHL club in the next few days. However, Kilburn denied reports that he had asked the league president, Al Leader, to make a deal on his behalf.

NOT ENOUGH!

Egan said that although he had been in touch with four other clubs, the only concrete offer for the former manager had come from Vancouver Canucks. "They offered us Elliott Chorley and some cash, but that's not enough for a hockey player like Colin."

Egan said that he did not believe the Canucks could offer Bob Robinson, who was also rumored involved in the proposed deal, since Vancouver does not own the rookie. He also stated that the Cougars had not heard of any trade involving Canuck goalie Marcel Pelletier.

Although the Cougars are 20 points back of the third-place Americans, Egan refuses to believe the club can't make the three-team playoffs.

"I know the odds are against us," he said, "but we'll be trying until arithmetic tells us it's impossible."

WAS IT LEGAL?

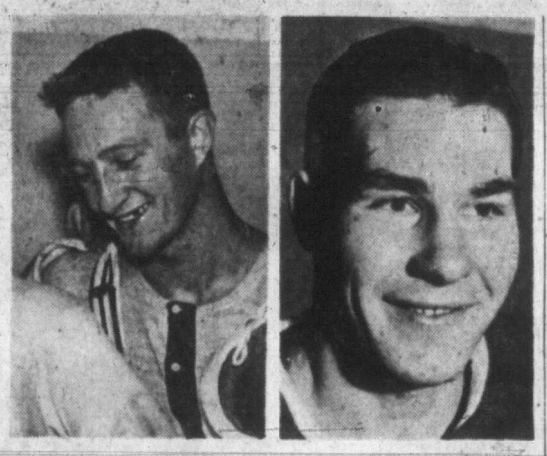

One director who was not present at Sunday's meeting has questioned the legality of Sunday's action, claiming that the club's constitution requires such a decision to be made by a majority of the directors. (Only 14 of 29 directors were present at Sunday's meeting.)

Manager Fred Mackenzie said this morning that although he believed a decision involving hiring and firing of salaried personnel could be conducted by executive directors, he would examine the constitution today.

Mackenzie said a meeting of shareholders would be held as soon as possible, probably in eight or 10 days.

Kilburn stated that he will welcome a chance to present his side of the story to shareholders and that if he has been traded before such a meeting, he will pay his own expenses to attend.

"I would like the shareholders to know both sides of the situation," he said. "If they still agree with the directors' action, I'll be satisfied."

Billy's Mates Goofed

By The Canadian Press

A veteran of 18 years of professional hockey, in the midst of one of his most productive goal-scoring years, had himself a big night Tuesday.

It was "Billy Mosienko Night" at Winnipeg and almost everybody contributed something. Everybody, that is, except Mosienko's teammates

Warriors lost the scheduled Western Hockey League game 5-2 to Saskatoon-St. Paul Regals, but everything else was to the fans' liking

Mosienko slammed in both Winnipeg goals and got thousands of dollars in gifts, including a bar and a pair of gold-plated skates.

Both goals scored by the ex-National League great came as a result of his heady playing. He intercepted a Regal pass to race in unmolested for the first goal and he flipped in a loose puck from outside the crease for the second, his 23rd goal this season.

Les Colwill and Bob Kabel scored two goals each for the Regals and Ray Ross added a single.

The season's largest crowd, 8,991 fans, turned out to see the game.

Included in the telegrams sent Mosienko was one from Edmonton coach Tony Leswick and general manager Bud Poile. They offered Mosienko a "free trip to Florida, providing he didn't return until June 15 . . ."

But the Flyers could have used Mosienko themselves Tuesday. Edmonton lacked the punch and dropped a 2-1 decision to Vancouver as the Canucks opened their swing through the Prairies.

Phil Maloney and Jackie McLeod took honors for the Canucks in their well-won victory over Edmonton, second-place team in the Prairie group.

Dennis Olson scored the lone Flyer goal to put Edmonton ahead 1-0 at the end of the first period.

Flyer goalie Dennis Riggin was pulled in the last minute of play in an attempt to tie the score, but a Canuck rear guard blocked a desperate shot with only seconds to go and the final frame remained scoreless.

Tonight's schedule takes the Flyers to Calgary, cellar-dwellers in the Prairie division, while Seattle plays at Victoria on the Coast.

BANTAMS ARE GUESTS OF COUGARS TONIGHT

All players in the Bantam Division of the Greater Victoria Minor Hockey Association have been invited to tonight's Western Hockey League game between the Cougars and Seattle Americans.

Association president Doug Fletcher said all players who will be guests of the Cougar Club must meet in front of Memorial Arena not later than 7 p.m.

Two bantam all-star teams will play at 7.45 as a preliminary to the WHL contest.

ICE PLAN INITIATED

Pros (Naturally) Can't See Change

CALGARY (CP)—Western Canada hockey fans took a look at international hockey rules in action Tuesday night and the general feeling was decidedly favorable.

The biggest weekday crowd this season turned out to see southern Alberta's Big Six intermediate hockey league initiate regulations of the International Ice Hockey Federation in a twin bill. The seven-team league is the first in Canada to adopt IIHF rules.

A wide majority of fans, players, coaches and executives agreed the stricter rules provided a faster wide-open game, better stickhandling, sharper passing patterns and cleaner play which is sure to reduce injuries to players. The referees also liked the faster brand of hockey.

The Big Six earlier this season decided to adopt international hockey rules as an experiment following the reaction of fans who saw the Russian Selects play Canadian teams under such regulations.

The league will continue with them for the remaining 38 games of the season, but will revert to Canadian Amateur Hockey Association standards for the playoffs.

Nearly 1,500 fans were at the Stampede Corral to see Calgary Junior Reps defeat Calgary Beavers 6-4 in the first game of the experiment, while the Calgary Adderson Hustlers whipped Okotoks Oilers 7-3 in the second tilt. The largest weekday crowd before Tuesday had been 850.

League president John Watson said time now was needed to get both players and referees used to the stricter rules, and the result would be an improvement in the game.

"A player can now go after a puck without being afraid he will be rammed through the boards," he explained.

Aubrey Winter, referee in the opening game, said he found the game cleaner, freer and faster. Players stuck to playing hockey instead of bruising each other.

Old Pros Don't Care for Change

Less enthusiasm came from Al Rollins, former National Hockey League netminder now with Calgary Stampeders of the professional Western Hockey League, and Gus Kyle, Stampeder coach. They felt some of the color and thrills may have been taken from the game.

Generally, the fans liked the new rules. One said that after a few more games, to get players familiar to the change, the higher standard of stick-handling and accurate passing attacks would be "much more crowd-pleasing than the old style".

Another approved of the no-boarding regulation and said the strict enforcement against holding the puck against the boards helped speed up play. Players would have to concentrate on playmaking.

Fred Gardner, centre with Junior Reps, and leftwinger Pat Cooney of Hustlers, each fired three goals. Showering in their dressing rooms after the games they had nothing but praise for the new rules.

"At least a player can stickhandle in on the net instead of being chopped down by rough defencemen," Gardner said.

Rollins, however, felt the stricter rules would "spoil the league." Fans came out for the thrills, he said, and some of the excitement was lost with international rules.

Kyle, never taken for a gentle player when he was with the NHL Boston Bruins and New York Rangers, reserved a definite decision on the change until after he has seen a few more games. But he felt it took away some of the "color and thrills."

But Underneath, All Is Not Rosy

LONDON (CP)—Scottish soccer fans, looking at the world through tartan-colored spectacles, are happy about 1958 prospects. Their joys are especially bright when they view the country's top teams.

The first reason for elation is that Scotland is among the 16 qualifying nations for the World Cup championship, to be held in Stockholm next June.

The second is that Heart of Midlothian, an Edinburgh club, threatens to break all British records for most points collected, most goals scored and least goals conceded in major league soccer.

TO TOUR CANADA

The Edinburgh team, which is to tour Canada next May and June, had 36 points from 20 games just after the season's halfway mark. Unbeaten at home, they had lost only one game away. The goal tally read 82 for, 14 against and they were 11 points ahead of their nearest rivals, Clyde.

The main reason for Hearts' dominance in Scotland's First Division is the decline of Rangers and Celtic, the two Glasgow clubs that have dominated Scottish soccer for the last 50 years. Another Edinburgh team formerly prominent, Hibernian, has also lost ground.

Rangers began rebuilding their somewhat elderly team mid-season and Celtic and Hibernian slipped after each suffered four beatings in a row.

One of the major problems of Scottish soccer—apart from a few top clubs—is that there is little real competition.

LOP-SIDED WINS

The number of goals scored in Scottish games is another example. Scores of 8-0 and 7-3 are common and underline the disparity between clubs.

The standard of most Scottish clubs compares with English Third Division sides. Top clubs, like Hearts, probably would rate First Division status if playing in English soccer.

Scottish professional clubs compete in two divisions, first and second, and there is a reserve section which roughly corresponds to south England's combination league of professional club juniors.

In contrast to English players, most Scottish footballers are part-timers, training at night with professionals in the First Division.

Ace for Birthday

Ed Robertson added an extra thrill to his birthday celebrations Sunday by scoring a hole-in-one at the Cedar Hill golf course.

Playing with Ted Jones and Bob Clements, Robertson used a No. 7 iron to ace his tee shot on the 110-yard ninth hole.

Harmony, That's What We Like About Boxing!

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Depending upon where you live, tonight's bout between Philadelphia's Gil Turner and Vince Martinez of Paterson, N.J., is or isn't a fight to earn a shot at the welterweight championship of the world.

If you live where the jurisdiction of the World Boxing Championship Committee is accepted as law, you'll merely be watching a televised 12-round bout which is one of a series of eliminations to determine a titleholder.

In Massachusetts, the bout is listed as just another fight of top welterweights.

In states where boxing is under the banner of the National Boxing Association, the fight will be the semifinal elimination in the 147-pound title series. The winner has been ordered by the NBA to fight Isaac Logart for the title vacated by Carmen Basilio after he won the middleweight crown from Sugar Ray Robinson.

Martinez, clever boxer-puncher who has won 58 fights and lost only five, is the favorite at about 7 to 5. Turner has won 55, lost 15 and drawn once.

LUMLEY TAKES OVER

Millar Sent Down, But Paille Sticks

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Harry Lumley, 31-year-old journeyman netminder, adds a fourth National Hockey League team to his skein of experience Thursday night.

Lumley, who has done time with Detroit Red Wings, Chicago Black Hawks and Toronto Maple Leafs, will step into goal for Boston Bruins when they face New York Rangers in the Boston Gardens.

It's a tough spot for anyone, and particularly tough for a goaltender who preferred to stay in the American Hockey League last season rather than return to the NHL for a few games with Chicago because he liked the relaxed AHL atmosphere.

Lumley is replacing Al Millar, himself a substitute for regular Don Simmons, and Lynn Patrick, Bruins' general manager, admits Millar was sacrificed on the altar of fan-pressure.

SLIP BADLY

Bruins have slipped badly since Millar took over for the injured Simmons New Year's Day and the crowds have laid most of the blame at Millar's skates, though Patrick says the forwards are at fault.

"Personally, I think Millar is a good goalkeeper," Patrick said Tuesday. "He showed a lot of promise, but somehow the fans got down on him and that can hurt you in this town.

"It wouldn't make any difference in Montreal or Toronto, but in Boston if we didn't have a new goaltender for Thursday's game it would cost us, in gate receipts, from $7,000 to $10,000 for one game. And if we didn't make the playoffs it could cost us $100,000."

Lumley was called up from Springfield Indians of the AHL, a Boston farm club, where he has been on loan from Buffalo Bisons, a Chicago farm team.

Bruins were forced to buy him outright from Chicago before calling him up and Patrick said "I'm ashamed of the price. But what could we do?"

But while Millar is on his way out, rookie goalie Marcel Paille will stay with Rangers despite a string of hard luck.

The little New York netminder has yielded 42 goals in eight games.

But general manager Muzz Patrick said he thought Paille could not be blamed for the loss.

Coach Bill Watson said earlier that Paille would change places with Gump Worsley at Providence unless he showed improvement during the weekend. Paille replaced Worsley earlier this season.

Boston is tied with Toronto for fourth place and the Leafs will be up against it to improve Thursday as they meet the powerful Canadiens in Montreal. Detroit, who have climbed to second place, are host to last-place Chicago.

Shuttle Leaders Lose to Belmont

Belmont handed the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club's third division entry its first defeat of the Lower Island Badminton League season, clipping the division leaders, 9-7.

In other matches last week, Vic Lawn defeated Cordova Bay shuttlers, 9-7, in first division action and tied Cordova Bay, 8-8, in second division play.

In the third division, Vic Lawn took an 11-5 decision over St. John's, but the church club chalked up an 11-5 win over Strawberry Vale in the fifth division.

Juniors from Cordova Bay downed Saanichton, 12-4, while Vic Lawn "A" Juniors were edged by the Vic Lawn "B" squad, 9-7.

Pace-Setting Interior Squads Losing Ground

By The Canadian Press

Kamloops Chiefs are closing in on Kelowna Packers, top dogs in the Okanagan Senior Hockey League.

The warring Chiefs downed their arch rivals for the second straight time Tuesday night, 5-3 at home, to move within a single point of the leaders. Saturday they trounced them 3-1.

Vernon Canadians pushed Penticton V's farther into the cellar with a 6-4 victory over them at Penticton. The V's now trail third-place Vernon by 13 points. Canucks are eight behind Kamloops.

Rossland Warriors kept within striking distance of the first-place Spokane Flyers in the Western International League, defeating them 6-4 on home ice. The Warriors thus are only two points behind last year's champions.

Bill Warwick was the chief architect of the Kamloops victory, scoring twice. Other Chief goals were scored by George Hunchuk, Fred Sasakamoose and Mark Marquess. Kelowna scorers were Jim Middleton, Ray Powell and Greg Jablonski.

Canadians fashioned victory out of a four-goal outburst in the third. The V's, minus coach Bernie Bathgate and defenceman Kev Conway, faded badly before Vernon's onslaught.

Art Davison, Tom Stecyk, Walt Trentini, George Agar, Frank King and Sherman Blair connected for Vernon.

Hal Tarala, Al Lloyd, Bob Harper and Eddie Diachuk counted for the V's.

George Ferguson's goal at 14.09 of the third period proved the winner at Rossland. Other scorers for the Warriors were Pinoke McIntyre, Yogi Kraiger, Steve Chorney, Bud Andrews and Hal Jones.

Frank Kubasek led the Flyers with a pair while singles were scored by Tic Beattie and John Zahara.

ABILITY TO CONCENTRATE, SAYS SUSIE . . . . . PART OF TENNIS CIRCUIT'S BENEFITS

New Faces and New Places . . . All Make Life Interesting

Susan Butt, 13-year-old Victoria girl who is rated as one of Canada's most promising young tennis players, is currently on a three-month tour of Florida and Caribbean tournaments. Miss Butt is writing a series of articles exclusively for The Daily Times, relating her impressions of peoples, places and her tennis.

This is the second of her series.

By SUSAN BUTT

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Life on the tennis circuit is certainly very interesting and, I might add, so very educational.

And most of all, it is a wonderful experience for me to run up against these good players.

Most of the competitors here have years of tournament experience behind them. That is one thing I definitely lack. The ability to concentrate — to win points when they are most needed — and yet to play consistently throughout a match is something that is developed only through tournament experience.

Perhaps if I had that experience, and some luck, I might have progressed a little farther in the first two tournaments. Oddly enough, the same girl has beaten me in those first tournaments. She is Laura Lou Kunnen of Clearwater. Laura was seeded first in the Dixie International tournament at Tampa and she beat me easily in the quarter-finals.

She was seeded fourth in the Florida West Coast tournament here and I made her work hard in the second round. The scores 4-6, 9-7 and 7-5—so maybe I'm improving.

But it's this business of meeting new people that makes the tournament trail so interesting . . .

One of the most interesting is a Cuban, Zoe de Mendoza of Havana. At 18, she is ranked as Cuba's No. 2 woman player. She's one of these bright persons with a photographic memory.

The "de" in her name signifies that she is from a well-to-do family. Her parents are both lawyers and Zoe attended university in Cuba until it closed because of the political upheavals. She was married when she was 16 and divorced 18 months later.

Zoe, incidentally, figured in quite a "rhubarb" at Tampa when Anne Viera of Denmark (one of my doubles partners last year) insisted on Zoe being defaulted from the women's singles. Zoe arrived a half-hour late for quarter-final match against Anne.

It's a player's right, although seldom claimed, to default an opponent over 15 minutes late. Anne reached the semifinals without playing.

Zoe has returned to Cuba for a short time and we plan on playing doubles together when she returns to the circuit. Right now I'm playing doubles with Inge Weber, from Ontario, and we're not doing too well.

There's another Cuban girl here (I'll just call her Maria) who isn't too hot as a tennis player. She loves to have a good time, however, and there is an air of intrigue about her.

Maria, who is 22, says that her uncle is a key figure in Cuban politics and she is in danger there. So she must stay away from home.

Maria Bueno, a Brazilian girl, won the Tampa tournament and is a terrific player but she speaks very little English and therefore is hard to get to know. Then there's Elena Osuna, a 20-year-old, who brings the customs of her native Mexico to the circuit. Her face is always beaming and she wears her Mexican blanket and sandals.

Of course, some of the men are interesting too!

Tut Bartzen, a Texan who won the men's singles at Tampa, is a nice little fellow with supreme concentration. A superbly conditioned athlete, Tut is like a machine on the court, rarely letting up once he has his opponent on the run.

Runner-up Tony Vincent is from New York City. I met Tony at Forest Hills last year. He's known for his retrieving abilities which really come in handy on these slow clay courts.

I must say there's other talent on the circuit, too.

Mitchell Davies, England's No. 1 player, delighted everyone with his singing at a recent reception. But alas, the next day his singing didn't help him on the court and he lost 6-2, 6-2 to a "nobody." He does have a lovely voice and good rhythm and also has had screen auditions in Hollywood.

I drove to St. Pete from Tampa with Louise Brown and her family. Lou is the Canadian ladies' singles champion from Toronto and I thought she was a "cold" individual until I got to know her.

Her husband is a real character and their children—Sharon is 13 and Davy is nine—are very nice. Travelling is a great thrill for the children because it gives them a chance to miss school.

Yes, it's nice to have them around because, as yet, they're not affected by the crazy tennis circuit.

OUTDOOR REPORT
BY Doug Peden

A hunting season is like a round of golf. There are times when you wish you had stayed home and cleaned up the basement. But there are usually enough good holes to make you impatient to try another round, especially when you hit some good shots on the 18th hole.

According to regulations, our duck season ends at one-half-hour after sunset tonight. But I had my last chance to get out last night and finished up with a half-hour trip to Central Saanich.

After some good shooting early in the season, I have had some slow outings, including five straight without firing a shot.

But the birds were coming in last night. Rain of the past few days had left water in all the fields and the ducks, mostly mallards but with a number of widgeon and pintail, were well scattered.

However, enough came my way to put five mallards in my hunting coat and it could have been seven or eight.

The best part of it was watching hundreds of birds pitching in on all sides. Now I can't wait until next season.

It will take a good memory to recall the winter when grilse were more plentiful off the Victoria-Oak Bay waterfront than they are this year.

The infant salmon, now getting around the two-pound mark, have been almost a nuisance at times to anglers after winter springs, who prefer the chance for a 20-pounder to a limit of 30-ouncers.

And the winter springs are out there. George Gunniss left proof Sunday in the form of two fresh salmon steaks. Row-boating off Ten Mile Point in the morning, George needed only 10 minutes to hook a 15-pound spring on a Tom Mack spoon.

Several other anglers tangled with springs off Oak Bay Sunday and a good number came in with salmon of 10 to 20 pounds, including Jack Callow and George Gilman who had five springs in their boat. Sid and Daryl Jenkins topped a catch of three with a 15-pounder and Bill Best netted one of nine pounds.

Colin Corbett, who took a 30-pound spring on spinning tackle the previous weekend, reeled in three salmon Saturday and followed up with another good catch Sunday.

Best catch reported Sunday was the 30-pound spring pulled out of Esquimalt Harbor.

* * *

Bill Halkett was shopping for reinforced hooks yester day. Out near Sidney Island with Ollie Corbett and Charlie Ruttan Sunday, Bill tangled with a big spring and almost had it licked when a hook snapped. They also lost two others but managed to get a pair into the boat.

* * *

Saanich Inlet continues to produce an abundance of grilse and a fair number of winter springs between six and 12 pounds.

Grilse are taking in most parts of the Inlet and are hitting at all depths while springs, except around Tod Inlet in the early morning and evening, are mostly tangling with deep lures.

Crofton is still one of the better spots for grilse and small springs while Northwest Bay is yielding some good grilse catches and an occasional spring.

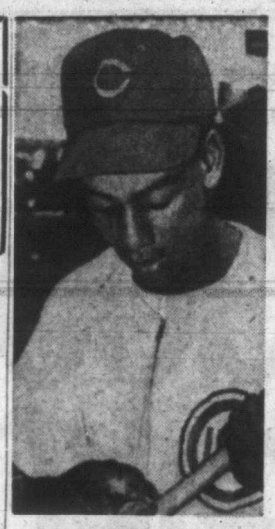

* * *

Victoria's two major outdoor organizations are making things tough for some of their members.

Both the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association and Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association have scheduled their annual general meetings next Monday.

The anglers will gather at Club Sirocco at 8 p.m. to elect 1958 officers, present trophies and vote on two resolutions.

The game club, which will host the provincial game convention in May, will palaver in Liberal Headquarters at 8 to elect officers, present the club's deer trophy and discuss plans for the convention year.

ERNIE BANKS

BANKS SIGNED
Some Firemen Find Job Pays

By The United Press

Ray Narleski was assured today that the Cleveland Indians will pay him like a top starter in 1958 even if they relegate him to unwanted relief duty.

The hard-throwing, 29-year-old right-hander signed Tuesday for terms "better than $20,000" after an 11-3 season in which he was put on emergency starting duty because of Herb Score's eye injury. Narleski appeared in 153 innings and had a 2.94 earned run average.

Narleski made it plain he prefers starting assignments to relief but there's not much chance he'll get his wish.

"I don't want to take either Narleski or (Don) Mossi out of the bullpen," said new manager Bobby Bragan in his mid-winter appraisal of the club. "I think both can do the most good on relief."

TRADE TALKED UP

General manager Frank Lane also kept alive the possibility that Narleski will be traded to the New York Yankees in a deal involving infielder Bobby Richardson. Negotiations between the Indians and Yankees broke down recently but Lane said, "We'll go to work on this one again when I go to New York for the annual writers' banquet" on January 26.

Home-run hitting shortstop Ernie Banks and fleet Don Blasingame were the other big names who signed Tuesday as the player-agreements began to pour into major league front offices.

Banks, who hit 43 homers and drove in 102 runs last season, signed with the Chicago Cubs for an estimated $20,000 and sa'd he would be happy to "give third base a try" if that's manager Bob Scheffing's plan.

FLEET AFOOT

Blasingame, perhaps the fastest man in the National League, came to terms with the St. Louis Cardinals for a figure of about $13,000. He hit .271 and showed improvement in virtually every phase of the game last season after taking over for Red Schoendienst.

In other baseball news:

Don Kaiser, 2-6 with the Cubs last season but regarded as a fine prospect, signed with the world champion Milwaukee Braves. The 23-year-old right-hander went to the Braves in the Bob Rush deal.

CRAZYLEGS RETIRING
Time Catches Up With Starry End

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Elroy (Crazylegs) Hirsch, one of football's great escape artists, is quitting the game that once nearly robbed him of his fantastic co-ordination and later helped him become a movie star.

The great Los Angeles Rams end, described as a man who appeared to run downfield at two different angles simultaneously, said Tuesday that he has accepted the position of sports director with an oil company. He will have his own sports show and run the company's youth program.

"I hope to work out something with the Rams as an adviser," the 34-year-old Hirsch said, "but this certainly must mean the end of my playing career in the National Football League."

Hirsch began his football career in 1938 at Wausau, Wis., high school and joined the Rams in 1949.

CHEEK BROKEN

If there was a turning point in Elroy's career, it came before the 1951 season, when he suffered a depression fracture of the cheekbone in an exhibition game. The injury damaged his co-ordination and a doctor advised him to quit football.

Although at first he was unable, even to catch a lob pass, Hirsch decided to prove he wasn't finished. The proof was eloquent.

In 1951, he was the NFL's leading pass receiver. He caught 66 throws, scored 17 touchdowns, equalling a league record set by Don Hutson, and gained 1,495 yards, a league record. The Rams won the title that year.

Hirsch got into the movies in 1953, starring in the story of his own career, Crazylegs, All-American. He was in Unchained in 1955 and Zero Hour last year.

Hirsch is replacing Rev. Bob Richards, the polevaulter, in the oil company position. Richards said he could no longer handle the youth program and his church work.

It Was Short But Sweet For Capitals

Capitals had a brief rest in the top berth of the Victoria Minor Hockey Association's bantam division after whipping Senators, 3-0, at Memorial Arena Tuesday.

However, Royals regained the lead later in the day with a 5-0 whitewash job against Maroons as league-leading scorer Dan Wiggens and Ken Piercy each banged in two goals. Gordon Foster notched the other tally.

Larry Johnston, with two, and Jim Clarke collected the Capitals' goals.

MOUNTIE MEETING

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver Mounties of the Pacific Coast Baseball League will hold their annual shareholders' meeting Jan. 30. The meeting will review the 1957 season and elect directors.

Martin Signature On Detroit Form

DETROIT (AP)—Billy Martin, peppery shortstop obtained in a swap with Kansas City Athletics, has signed his first contract with Detroit Tigers. Terms were not disclosed.

FIRST ROUNDS APPEAR EASY FOR SUSIE BUTT

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (CP)—Victoria's Susan Butt won her first-round match for the third successive tournament as play opened Tuesday in the Coral Gables-University of Miami tennis tourney.

Miss Butt was impressive as she defeated Elena Osuna of Mexico City 6-4, 7-5.

Ann Sparling of Toronto also won her first-round match, defeating Gay Miller of Coral Gables, 7-5, 6-3. Inge Weber, another Canadian from Ontario, lost 6-4, 7-5 to Lois Felix of Meriden, Conn.

Island Ladies Curling Playoffs at Weekend

Playdowns to determine a Vancouver Island zone representative to the British Columbia Ladies' finals at Kelowna will be staged at the Victoria Curling Club at the weekend.

Eight rinks, representing four zones, will take part in the Island playoffs, scheduled to start at 4 p.m. Friday. Other draws are scheduled for 9 p.m. Friday, on Saturday at 2, 4.30 and 9 p.m., and on Sunday at 9 a.m.

Victoria Club will be represented by rinks skipped by Mrs. Mary Beattie and Mrs. Ruby Cooper. Mrs. Marge Fuller and Mrs. Minnie Holm will skip Nanaimo's entries while Mrs. D. Ferguson and Mrs. E. Souther will represent Alberni Valley. Mrs. B. Gilday and Mrs. H. Berkey will skip the Duncan area champions.

The two Victoria rinks will play the first game Wednesday, starting at 9 p.m.

United Triumphs

MANCHESTER, England (Reuters)—Manchester United, English Soccer League champions, beat Red Star of Yugoslavia 2-1 Tuesday night in its first leg match in the European soccer cup quarter-finals. Red Star led 1-0 at half time.

Nanaimo-Born Engineer Honored

A Nanaimo-born graduate of University of British Columbia has been named "Man of American Mining for 1957."

He is Pharic D. I. Honeyman, president of Inspiration Consolidated Copper Co., Inspiration, Arizona.

Mr. Honeyman was chosen by the minerals industry trade magazine, published in San Francisco.

Born in Nanaimo in 1894, he graduated from UBC in 1922 and was awarded the Military Cross for service in the First World War.

The award as top mining man was given for his solving of difficult metallurgical and mining problems at Inspiration Mine.

UBC Fights to Avoid 'Second-Rate' Label

First Appeal To Public For Money

Early chapters of the UBC story record a series of frustrating events pitted against student spirit and resourcefulness of the highest order.

Invariably, this spirit was enough to solve most problems and the university struggled out of swaddling clothes and into its first suit of permanent buildings.

They were good buildings, but UBC, young as universities go, outgrew them.

"Temporary" structures and dozens of shacks were thrown up to supplement the sturdy steel and masonry.

Enrolments swelled, demand for high-level, formal training reached an unprecedented peak and a few more permanent buildings went up. The need did not diminish.

Since the Second World War, men intent on moulding themselves for the professions and scores of varied careers have lived on campus in little better than relief camp conditions.

There are no permanent residences for men.

Drafty Huts

These same men and thousands of others living off-campus have attended lectures and done "labs" in drafty, rain-leaking huts which stand with their patched tarpaper beside the few buildings which lend credit to the university.

Now the 42-year-old university needs re-outfitting, badly.

For the first time in its history UBC — through its alumni and friends — is appealing for gifts of money from the public.

Success of the campaign to raise $7,500,000 is seen as the only means of saving the university from the crippling label: "Inadequate, second-rate."

Through spirit—no other word suits — improvisation and devotion to studies, students have chiseled a niche for their school.

Born in 1915

The university as such was born in 1915, although the first positive move to establish it was begun in 1890 by an act of the legislature.

Early university-type training began in certain high schools four years later but it was not until 1925 that UBC was plotted on beautiful Point Grey.

Its campus, covers 982 acres and is Canada's largest. Surrounding it are more than 2,000 acres of endowment lands to provide the university with revenue.

Ironically, the endowment lands never were turned over to the university, which has no power to lease or sell them. They are held by the province and are administered by the department of lands and forests.

Consequently the university has yet derived no income from the endowment lands.

Startling

The transformation from UBC's first Fairview buildings —temporary structures on the site of today's Vancouver General Hospital—to a heavily-wooded promontory nearly eight miles out of town must have been startling.

For many years afterwards, although the campus was developed attractively and other buildings rose, the university had little but its enthusiastic student body and an air of natural beauty.

Money and consistent long-range planning never materialized.

The early power of a united and determined student body was demonstrated with lasting impact in 1922 when in order to persuade the government to get on with erection of university buildings on Point Grey, young men and women marched in the "Great Trek."

Picked Up Stones

Students paraded from Fairview shacks with placards, brass band and police escort through Vancouver streets, then trekked to Point Grey, on the way picking up stones from which was erected a commemmorative cairn.

Student representatives met the legislature and within two weeks $1,500,000 was granted to complete the first permanent buildings

The second "Great Trek" was conducted over Christmas holidays 1956-57 when UBC and Victoria College students (affiliated with UBC) obtained thousands of signatures for a B.C.-wide petition to the provincial cabinet pressing for a bigger capital grant.

Out of this grew the present campaign to provide adequate funds for the next 10 years of expansion.

Those first permanent buildings were the central block of the library and the chemistry building, both massive, fireproof steel and stone structures conforming closely to the original drawings prepared in 1914 when war interrupted all plans.

Agriculture, forestry, arts, administration and auditorium buildings—classed as semi-permanent—went up at the same time. All are used to full capacity today, the administration building with a new wing.

Degrees in '25

UBC's first graduates congregated mid-way through the First World War, accounting for the record of the university's birth amid war by a khaki cord trim on academic gowns.

Not until October of 1925 were honorary degrees given, at a momentous dedication service for the firmly-established university.

Originally, the university was designed to handle 1,500 students but by 1938 normal growth boosted enrolment to 2,800—first sign of what was to become a massive headache for students, administrators and the government.

By 1948 UBC had enrolled an overwhelming 9,374 students and emergency measures were taken to accommodate them.

Abandoned army huts were put into use, gradually totalling over 300 in the next few years when the first new permanent buildings were at last planned.

A physics building was erected in 1947 and the following year a wing was added to the library, providing for upwards of 300,000 volumes.

Today study facilities in the library are at a premium with seating for only about twice the original number of students intended to use it.

University power plant was enlarged in 1948, a home economics building finished in 1949 and work began on engineering, biological sciences and pharmacy buildings. Three permanent residences for women were started and opened in 1951.

Too Small Now

A law building was erected and went into use a year later. Now it is too small.

Enrolment now stands at 8,900.

There are 350 buildings on the campus. Only 26 are permanent. Of the others, 27 are in the semi-permanent class and the rest are wooden huts.

Since the Second World War only six major buildings have been added to the campus.

In 1956 work was started on a long-needed arts building at an estimated cost of $2,000,000. The same year the province announced a $10,000,000 building grant to be spread over 10 years.

At present the medical faculty, which graduated its first class in 1954, is scattered around the campus and at Vancouver General Hospital. A medical building is one of the great needs.

In Sheds

The school of architecture, boasting staff whose names are known across the continent and producing professional men to shape the future in a tangible, beautiful and functional form, is sheltered in sheds.

So are the school of commerce and dozen after dozen of biological science and chemistry laboratories, which should call for exacting conditions.

The arts faculty biggest on campus has long since spilled out of the arts building.

More classrooms, men's and women's residences and higher pay for members of the faculty are high on the list of needs, the latter to keep top calibre professors and instructors from being stolen by higher-paying industry and universities.

TOP MEN IN PROVINCE HEADING UP CAMPAIGN

Men heading the UBC Development Fund are among British Columbia's most-respected professional and businessmen.

Honorary chairman is A. E. (Dal) Grauer, chancellor of the university. Paul E. Cooper is general chairman; Howard N. Walters, deputy chairman, and Gordon Farrell, honorary treasurer.

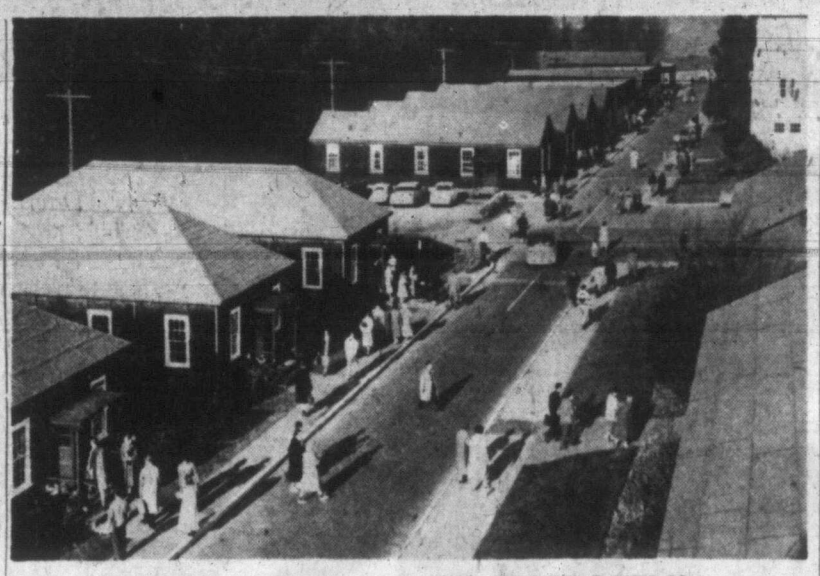

Members of the executive committee are Dean Geoffrey C. Andrew, Chief Justice Sherwood Lett, Frank H. Brown, H. R. MacMillan, John M. Buchanan, A. F. McAlpine, Paul E. Cooper, A. W. Moscarella, Gordon Farrell, Howard N. Walters, Harold S. Foley, Alan H. Williamson, A. E. Grauer, Mrs. B. M. Hoffmeister and Walter C. Koerner.

$30 MILLION IN NEW BUILDINGS

Aim of the university and alumni through the development fund is to attain $30,000,000 worth of new and expanded buildings within 10 years.

This objective, if realized, will make an adequate university, with most of the needed facilities. But more must be built afterward.

Sources of the money are $10,000,000 from the province, committed in 1956; $5,000,000 from the federal government in normal university grants over a period of years; $7,500,000 from the public, students, business and alumni in the current drive and a matching $7,500,000 from the province as promised last year by Premier Bennett.

'SHACKTOWN UNIVERSITY'

The poorest university in North America, in terms of physical facilities, University of B.C. often is called "Canada's shacktown university" because 50 per cent of plant is in huts. New biological science, chemistry, medical buildings and residences must be under construction this spring or administration faces erection of more temporary buildings, curtailment of program or enrolment. Contributions to UBC Development Fund, which are tax deductable, may be earmarked by donors for residences or any specific project. (UBC Information Photo.)

'Friends All Over Canada' Give to Fund, Says Keate

"Gifts of $4,000,000 already made to the UBC Development Fund show that the University of British Columbia has friends all over Canada," Victoria area chairman for alumni canvass Stuart Keate said today.

"Locally, about 300 alumni and businessmen are actively canvassing. Mr. Mayhew, Mr. Dunn and I have been tremendously encouraged by the warm response to our appeal for help.

"British Columbians realize that their provincial university, because it is young, has never been richly endowed. They know that 'hut accommodation' is not good enough in this era of rapid scientific expansion.

"This is UBC's first public appeal for funds. When we consider that the government has agreed to match our donations, dollar for dollar, we feel that this opportunity to respond is too good to miss."

ENROLMENT OF 33,000 ESTIMATED BY 1985

Expected enrolment at UBC over the next 27 years is seen in a report from the university's committee on statistics:

1958	(present)	8,900
1960		10,000
1965		15,000 plus
1975		23,000 plus
1985		33,000 plus

By adding students expected in the new College of Education and proposed Faculty of Dentistry, figures would be 12,200, 17,250, 26,000 and 37,000.

$150,000 IN 3 YEARS

Students Pledge $5 Each to Fund

The most recent student-initiated project to further develop UBC is a pledge of the student body to assess itself $5 a head for the next three years to give the development fund $150,000.

This sum, like all other monies of the development fund will be matched by the provincial government and will be earmarked for housing facilities.

A chronology of student work for UBC since the Great Trek reads like this:

1929—First campus gymnasium with funds raised and contributed by students. Cost $25,000.

1931—Clearing and improvement of athletic playing fields through student labor and expense.

1937 — UBC Stadium, the only permanent football stadium in Vancouver, built by funds raised and contributed by students. Cost $40,000.

1940—Brock Memorial Hall, student cultural and social centre also used by outside Vancouver groups, headquarters for student Union and UBC Alumni. Cost $79,000.

1942 — UBC Armoury, money raised and donated by students, used for training student officers of the three armed services. Cost $82,000.

1950—War Memorial Gymnasium, seating 7,200 at a cost of $1,000,000, more than half of which was raised and donated by students.

Many Translations For 'Tuum Est'

Numerous translations of the UBC motto, "Tuum est," have been popular at university and among graduates.

The strict literal Latin translation reads "It is thy part, duty, custom," but popularly this has become "It is yours," or "It's up to you."

Both could apply equally to students and the public in general.

HOME RULE

The Faroe Islands in the Atlantic, northwest of Scotland, form a Danish territory with a system of home rule.

The historic rights of seigniorial tenure in Canada were abolished in 1854.

BOXWOOD HUTS ARE GRIM AT UBC

Fort Camp... Or Fort Cramp?

By AB KENT

A motley collection of 18 boxwood huts across Marine Drive from the UBC campus has in its time served as homes for an estimated 3,000 male students.

Most of them lived there two, three, four years, or as long as they could stand it.

Fort Camp, it is called officially. But there are other names for it:

Fort Cramp, Little Siberia, Alcatraz . . .

Its inmates—400 at seam-splitting capacity — have touching titles for its neighorhoods, like Skunk Hollow and Dogpatch.

Graceful living at Fort is about as easy as flunking Basket Weaving 101.

Se eral years ago it used to be cheap to live in a hut always a prospect to warm a UBC man's heart. Today even that advantage has disappeared and students can live off-campus in comparative grandeur for less money.

But they sacrifice proximity. No hut at Fort is more than 10 minutes leisurely walk from the most distant lecture or lab building.

Then there are the beautiful sunsets as viewed from the cliffs a step away from the lower huts; the North Shore mountains; the beaches below and the ever-changing sea.

200 Co-Eds Balm for the Soul

There are women's dormitories — palatial permanent buildings — scattered at one end of the camp and to many male students the nearness of 200 deep-breathing co-eds is balm for the soul.

To some, on the other hand, it can be a distracting if not frustrating influence, and they are reminded of their own impoverished surroundings.

There is the camaraderie of 399 other jostling, callow youths all bent toward the same goal to be first in line at the camp mess hall.

There is the advantage of being able to do your own washing on a board in a laundry tub, hang the clothes all over the washroom or your own room to dry, then press them on your study table if you can cadge an iron.

For some there used to be an automatic washing machine which would toss out one or two weeks' dirty duds in minutes for the price of a 25-cent piece.

That still left the hanging and pressing.

Some men would make a deal with a girl at one of the fine residences to iron shirts on provided ironing boards. A shattering reversal of tradition in which those in the fine homes sent out their washing.

Acadia Camp, on the other side of the campus, houses about 500 and has fewer advantages than Fort.

There is always a heat problem during the winter session, both at Fort and Acadia.

Mostly it is because there isn't any when the weather is cold and plenty when it's mild.

Beaverboard and plywood walls are of little assistance either for soundproofing or stopping the wind.

Many men simply quit trying to study in their rooms.

Door-slamming anywhere else can be pretty annoying. At Fort Camp it is downright dangerous and should be punishable by 90 days at Acadia Camp, sometimes known as Big Siberia.

Surprising They Lasted So Long

A casual look at these residence huts discloses that they are supported on blocks of concrete, allowing the air and furry creatures to circulate beneath.

Since they were made only with the intention of keeping a few troops dry and partially warm some 15 or more years ago, for a period of immediate usefulness, it is surprising they have clung together so long.

A typical double room measures about 9 by 12 feet with one, occasionally two, windows and a single, exposed light bulb in the middle.

The beds are typical, steel, dormitory-type single cots which until four years ago had stuffed mattresses. They now have heavy, spring-filled mattresses.

Each man is issued a pillow, three army blankets, two sheets and a pillow case.

The mess hall has been subject to bitter controversy, mostly by Fort Campers who say the food and service is incredible and others who insist things could not be that bad.

To re-embark on this topic could open old wounds. Let it be put this way:

To the fledgling husband out of Fort Camp a bride's early kitchen mis-creations hold no possible terror.

Let none of this be misconstrued as criticism of the university administration. It has done as much as nickels and dimes can do.

Obviously dollars — many dollars—are needed to provide more tolerable, perhaps even comfortable living conditions for some of the country's most valuable men and women.

THE PULP WORKERS' STRIKE means a pile-up of pulp chips, as shown here at Chemainus. Two months' supply are stacked here, and trucks are still bringing them in 16 hours a day. Chips, piled in Little League ball park, are from MacMillan & Bloedel operations. Harmac at Nanaimo took them before strike started.

AFRAID of water until last year, when she took Red Cross swim classes, Mrs. Jean White, 74, of Chemainus, now enjoys daily dip summer and winter. Swimming has cleared up her arthritis, and she says she "never felt better." (Poskitt Photo.)

Boxla Subsidy Criticized for Arena Deficit

NANAIMO—Subsidies paid to the Senior Lacrosse League could have "more than wiped off" the operating deficit of the Civic Arena here, retiring arena manager William Oliver told the recreation and park commission here this week.

Deficit amounted to $3,783, he said.

Mr. Oliver, who has accepted the post of manager of Victoria Curling Club, said the commission should ask itself whether summer operation of the arena is worth while.

In the past five years the city had paid out about $15,000 in lacrosse subsidies, he said.

"Should the proposed amalgamation of the functions of the park commission and arena commission go through," he said, "the commission should note that this situation makes it very difficult for a manager faced with a continual deficit."

FACE DISSOLUTION

The arena commission, made up of representatives of local service clubs, likely will be dissolved by the end of February. The city recreation commission was disbanded last November.

Functions of both will be incorporated in the recreation and park commission, an appointive group that also will replace the parks board, formerly an elected body.

Officers of the commission are Kenneth Alexander, chairman; William Hunter, vice-chairman; and Ronald Holmes, secretary. A new member this year is Noel Thompson, who replaces Orville Boyd.

The commission has indicated it will make no move to replace Mr. Oliver until the end of February, when necessary legislation for the merger of the three groups will have been completed.

No Discourtesy Meant—Bennett On Long Wait

The provincial cabinet "meant no discourtesy" to a delegation from the Union of B.C. Municipalities that had to wait 45 minutes for a cabinet interview, Premier Bennett said today.

Mayor Loran Jordon of Port Alberni, a member of the delegation, complained at a regular city council meeting of the long wait and said the visitors had no place to sit except on stairs in the Parliament Buildings.

The premier said the cabinet had received another delegation ahead of the UBCM representatives, and it had stayed longer than expected. He said further that the delegation could have asked at his own office for seating accommodation.

Mayor Jordon reported to his council that once admitted to the cabinet, the delegation was granted a good hearing and presented nine resolutions on behalf of the UBCM. Premier Bennett was the only member of the cabinet to speak, Mayor Jordon said.

Bottle Drive Boosts Child, Polio Funds

CHEMAINUS — The local Kinsmen Club's campaign for the B.C. Child Care and Polio Fund will benefit by $500 or more as the result of a successful district-wide bottle drive.

Kinsmen, assisted by many volunteers, collected 1,284 dozen beer bottles, over 1,100 dozen soft drink bottles, and a large number of milk bottles. Nearly every place canvassers went they found empty bottles waiting for them. Several residents who had no bottles to give made cash donations instead.

40 Hungry Indians Get Food Supply

PORT ALBERNI — A tug chartered here by the Indian Affairs branch delivered a ton of flour, potatoes, and other food Tuesday to Nitinat Lake for the use of 40 Indians at Clo-oose.

The Indians, members of six families, were down to "a little smoked salmon" because the Princess of Alberni could not risk high seas on her last trip to make a landing with regular supplies.

Clo-oose is 11 miles south of Nitinat Lake. Indians concerned were scheduled to make their way to the lake today to pick up the stock of food.

Indian Log House Set For Park

PORT ALBERNI (CP) — An authentic Indian log house, designed to last at least 200 years, will be built in Recreation Park and become the property of the city of Port Alberni.

Council agreed Monday night to furnish the site and provide the foundation for a 42-foot by 26-foot building to be constructed by tribes here and on the West Coast as a centennial project.

The structure will be used as a museum and serve as the background for a full-scale display of Indian crafts and arts scheduled for the week of Victoria Day.

Retail Merchants Aim At Orderly Marketing

NANAIMO (CP)—One of the main problems facing the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada is "orderly marketing," F. A. B. Rands, general manager of the association's Ontario division, told merchants here Monday night.

Mr. Rands said the elimination of unfair trade practices and "gimmicks" from merchandising must be done quickly since they result in customer confusion over the real value of many consumer goods.

"Artificial mark-ups, followed by artificial mark-downs or bargains, have gotten so much out of hand they even confuse the retailer himself," he said.

Mr. Rands, currently on a speaking tour of B.C. was accompanied by H. C. Boulton of Vancouver, the B.C. division manager.

He termed below-cost selling and predatory price-cutting as "a practice of monopoly and not in the public interest."

"The objectives are clear—to eliminate or substantially reduce competition."

The RMA believes the section of the Criminal Code dealing with merchandising should be amended to curb the practice, he said. An amendment had already been presented to the government.

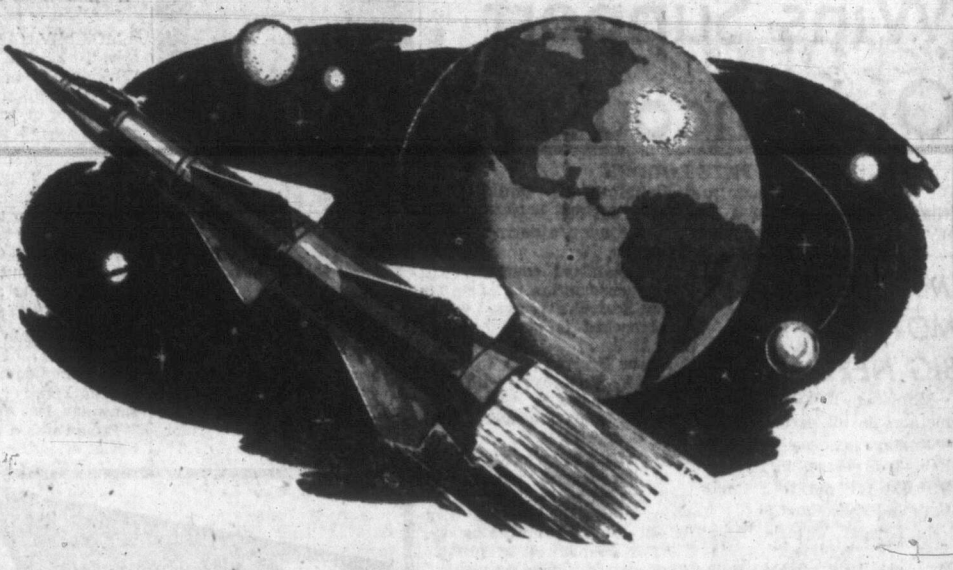

COUGAR SHOT IN SWIM BETWEEN 2 ISLANDS

TOFINO—A female cougar was shot Sunday while swimming the passage between Round and Stubbs Islands immediately off shore from here.

She was seen by Kenneth Gibson, Kenneth Barr, and Robert MacKenzie, and was shot by Mr. Gibson. Estimated at seven years of age, she weighed 175 pounds and was seven feet in length.

Fast Ferry Wins Support Of Vancouver

By PETE LOUDON

Victoria, Vancouver and Nanaimo all would gain from establishment of a fast ferry service between Sidney and the lower mainland, Vancouver aldermen said Tuesday.

The mainland council voted hearty endorsation of Mayor Percy Scurrah's proposal when he broached it at Vancouver City Hall.

Mayor Scurrah was to meet today in Vancouver with Defence Minister George R. Pearkes, and Transport Minister George Hees.

GETTING ESTIMATES

If the federal government will guarantee bonds, Mayor Scurrah said he knew a firm which would put up the money.

"The company is at present time getting figures on a ship."

Vancouver aldermen felt a fast ferry route from Sidney to Steveston or some other point south of Vancouver would create a round trip route which would increase tourism. Visitors would travel from the mainland to Sidney to Victoria, to Nanaimo and back to Vancouver.

"There is not a person around this table who has not experienced the inconvenience of the present service," said Vancouver Ald. Anna Sprott.

Mayor Hume agreed many United States cars "often wait on the docks here many hours," both at the CPR and Black Ball wharves.

Ald. Bill Orr felt "traffic would be greater than on the Vancouver-Nanaimo run."

He and Ald. Sprott moved the motion of support which passed unanimously.

Mayor Scurrah would not name the firm which is interested in providing a $4,000,000 18-knot ship for the proposed service. It is understood neither the CPR nor CNR shipping services are involved at this time.

Mayor Hume and Ald. Earle Adams said Victoria should be free to use the Vancouver council endorsation of the plan in any attempt to win federal or provincial government assistance.

'MARCHING MOTHERS' BIG NEED

More than 20,000 marching mothers in all parts of B.C. will stage a one-night blitz Feb. 1 to assist in raising $275,000 for the B.C. Child Care and Polio Fund.

In Greater Victoria, more than 1,500 volunteer canvassers are still needed, polio drive secretary Maureen Mackenzie said, particularly in the Fairfield, Fernwood and Oak Bay areas.

Volunteers should phone polio headquarters at 5-6748.

France Drops Tunisia Talks After Slayings

PARIS — France suspended negotiations for an alliance with Tunisia today over the killing of 15 French soldiers by Algerian rebels it charged slipped into Algeria from Tunisia.

The suspension of talks was announced by a government spokesman following a meeting of Premier Felix Gaillard's cabinet.

The raid occurred last Saturday. France protested over the weekend against the alleged incursion of a rebel band from Tunisian "sanctuary." The raiders overpowered a French outpost, killing or fatally wounding 15 soldiers and kidnapping five others.

Tunisia rejected the protest Tuesday night, maintaining that the border is so closely guarded the rebels could not have come from Tunisia nor returned there.

Relations between France and its former protectorate in northwest Africa have been strained for some time. France broke off talks last fall when Tunisia insisted on getting arms shipments, if not from France then from somewhere else. Britain and the U.S. shipped arms in November; Egypt in December.

Abominable Snowman Seen Twice Russ Scientist Says

MOSCOW (AP)—A Soviet scientist claims he saw an "abominable snowman" twice last August in the Pamir Mountains of southeast Russia. It was "a man-like creature," he reported.

Several Western expeditions have sought the legendary creature in the Himalaya Mountains, part of the "roof of the world" that includes the Pamirs, but have found only footprints and wisps of hair.

A. G. Pronin told a correspondent of Kimsomol Pravda in Leningrad that he saw a Yeti, or abominable snowman, last Aug. 10 and 13.

Pronin was a member of a Soviet scientific expedition to the Pamirs, Russia's highest mountains in the corner formed by western China and Afghanistan.

Pronin said he was near the edge of the Fedchenko glacier when he saw the snowman lined against the top of a cliff more than 1,500 feet above him.

It was "a man-like creature walking on two feet, stooped, and wearing no clothes; he was stocky, with long extremities, and his body was covered with reddish-grey wool."

"At first sight I thought it it was a bear, but after more careful study it became clear this was no bear but a man-like creature.

"Evidently before me was one of the so-called snowmen. He walked out of his cave for a distance of some 600 feet and then disappeared beyond the edge of the cliff."

Former Scala Conductor Dies

FERRARA, Italy (AP) — Vittore Veneziani, for 40 years principal conductor of La Scala Opera House chatruses, died of heart failure here Tuesday.

He was 80. Fascist pressure because Veneziani was a Jew forced his suspension from La Scala during the Second World War.

TWO WOMEN INJURED, FOUR CARS DAMAGED

A two-car collision at Broad and Pandora Tuesday at 7.30 p.m. injured two women and damaged four cars, including two parked vehicles.

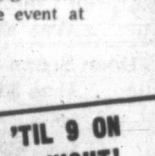

Treated and discharged at St. Joseph's Hospital were Kay Smith, 44, and Mrs. Alan Paver, 40, both of 165 Joseph, occupants of a car driven on Pandora by the former.

They had nose cuts and were shaken up when their car was in collision with an auto driven on Broad by Josephine Starmer, 944 Ambassador.

Both cars went out of control, one striking a car owned by Oscar Wallace, Ganges, the other hitting a car property of Josephus T. Mansen, 3019 Pickford.

There was medium damage to the Smith car, slight damage to the others.

Gallant U.K. Press Fires Salvo in Defence of Sarah

SARAH CHURCHILL

LONDON (AP) — British newspapers have rallied to the support of Sir Winston Churchill's actress daughter Sarah, and praised her performance on a television show which followed her jailing in Los Angeles on a charge of drunkenness.

The London papers take Los Angeles police sharply to task for their conduct in arresting her, and some are indignant that the authorities were called in at all.

Miss Churchill spent five hours in jail on a complaint by the General Telephone Co. that she used profane and obscene language over the phone. Sheriff's deputies said they arrested her after she climbed into their car with a glass of rum, resisted efforts to get her out, and cursed them.

DOCTORS, NOT POLICE

"The belief is growing that she was wrongfully arrested; that doctors, not police should have been called in," says The Daily Mail, a supporter of her father's Conservative party, in an editorial.

Lord Beaverbrook's independent but pro-Conservative Daily Express, asserts that "Sarah Churchill's treatment at the hands of the Los Angeles sheriffs has come as a profound shock to the British people."

The Daily Herald, which backs the Labor party, carries a glowing review of Miss Churchill in the hour-long TV show, The Makropoulos Secret.

Describing her performance as "flawless," The Herald says in a Hollywood dispatch that it was "undoubtedly Sarah Churchill's finest hour."

In Hollywood, they were betting that Miss Churchill wouldn't make it.

When she entered NBC's huge television studio a stagehand watching her arrival murmured: "That took guts."

At noon, Miss Churchill's wan face was submitted to the glaring lights and searching eye of the television camera in The Makropoulos Secret.

But true to the tradition of the theatre, she gave one of the best performances of her life, critics said.

"It was one of the best performances I've ever seen Miss Churchill give," writes Cecil Smith, TV writer for the Los Angeles Times.

CPA Bristol Passes Tests

VANCOUVER (CP)—The initial test flight of Canadian Pacific Airlines' first long-range, turbine-powered Bristol Britannia airliner has been successfully carried out at Belfast, CPA announced here today. The aircraft, first of six ordered by CPA from the Bristol Aircraft Co., will be delivered to the airline's headquarters here in mid-February.

Choristers Pick 'Hymn of Praise'

Mendelssohn's oratorio, "Hymn of Praise," has been chosen by the Victoria Choral Society as its principal production for centennial year.

Choral practices will be held each Tuesday at 7.30 p.m., in Christ Church Memorial Hall. The 75-minute oratorio will be presented sometime in April.

FLOOR COLLAPSE KILLS BARGAIN SALE HUNTERS

ENNIS, Ireland (UP)—The second floor of a crowded hotel plunged down under several hundred bargain hunters at an auction today.

First police reports said at least 10 persons were believed killed.

Streets around Carmody's Hotel in this County Clare town were immediately roped off after the disaster. Rescuers rushed to work digging out the dead and injured.

Police reported at least 200 people were in the hotel when the floor caved in without warning..

'Glasshouse' Prison To Be Razed in U.K.

LONDON (CP)—To the consternation of practically nobody who ever contemplated a military misdemeanor, the British army's notorious "Glasshouse" prison at Aldershot is to be demolished.

The grim yellow-brick building, whose fearsome reputation was a staple item in soldier's scuttlebut, has been derelict more than a decade. Once it housed 200 prisoners at a time, subjecting them to what a British provost officer described yesterday as a "very strict" routine.

The Canadian 1st Division, under Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, arrived at Aldershot in December, 1939. Figures are not available here on the number of Canadian soldiers who served time in the Glasshouse, but they probably were shocked by the "punitive and deterrent" punishment the British army says was meted out there. Later, the Canadians built their own detention barracks.

Soviet Comets Expert Dies

100 Organizers Being Dropped From AFL-CIO

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times today quotes informed sources as saying the AFL-CIO has abolished nearly 100 organizers' jobs.

Some of the organizers are being retired involuntarily, some are being transferred to a new speakers' bureau that is being set up in the public relations department and a "substantial number" are being discharged, the newspaper says in a Washington dispatch.

The story says that in addition a number of other employees in the headquarters building are being laid off.

It adds that the sweeping entrenchment takes effect Feb. 1, about the time AFL-CIO leaders will be gathering in Miami Beach to consider a $1,200,000 a year public relations program.

Official sources in the AFL-CIO were not available for comment, the Times says, adding that John Livingston, director of organization, snapped a sharp "no" to a reporter who asked to see him.

The retrenchment reflects, the Times says, the failure of an organizing campaign, at least in terms of a 225-man staff; a 10 per cent cut in income as a result of the expulsion of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and other unions, and a shift in emphasis to public relations.

MUCH DECORATED

Teacher, War Hero Col. Martyn Dead

Col. Donald Bruce Martyn, well-known Vancouver Island figure, died in Shaughnessy Hospital, Vancouver, Monday night, aged 68.

Through two world wars he rose from army private to colonel of the Canadian Scottish Regiment. He won the DSO, MC and Bar, Croix de Guerre, Volunteer Officers' Decoration, the American Legion of Merit, and was mentioned in dispatches.

Although he lived in Seattle in recent years, Col. Martyn often returned to Vancouver and Victoria.

He had a varied career ranging from teacher and municipal supervisor of schools at Maple Ridge, B.C., to running a real estate business, deputy minister of industries for B.C., Washington State manager for North American Life Insurance and soldiering.

IN WAR EARLY

Col. Martyn was commissioned in the Westminster Regiment (104, Westminster Fusiliers) shortly after the outbreak of the First World War.

In 1915 he was appointed officer-in-charge of trench warfare training with the 47th Battalion. The following year he was wounded and invalided back to Canada.

In 1917 he returned to France and joined the 44th Battalion Manitoba Regiment and later became second in command. He joined the Canadian Scottish as second in command in 1920 and assumed command in 1926.

He volunteered for service at the outbreak of the Second World War and became commanding officer of Vancouver defences.

Col. Martyn is survived by the widow, Jean Grace; two children, Mrs. R. Noble and Malcolm Alan, and six grandchildren.

The funeral will be from the Simmons and McBride funeral parlor, Vancouver, on Friday at 3 p.m.

Widow Accepts $9,000 a Month

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The widow of Louis B. Mayer has accepted a $9,000 monthly allowance from the film producer's $10,000,000 estate.

Mrs. Lorena Danker Mayer, 50, had requested $15,000. She was left the family home, personal effects and $750,000 in Mayer's will.

Auto Big 3 Hit By Union Chief

Profit Share, Customer Rebate Proposals 'Wilfully Distorted'

DETROIT (AP)—Walter P. Reuther says spokesmen for the automobile industry's Big Three either don't understand his profit-sharing and customer-rebate proposals, or they tried wilfully to distort them.

The United Auto Workers' chief referred to his union's 1958 contract demands, which were made public Monday and promptly criticized sharply in statements from General Motors, Ford and Chrysler Corp.

COUN. CHATTERTON
. . . election promise.

In a letter Tuesday to GM president, Harlow H. Curtice, with leaders of the other two companies marked in for copies, Reuther said his plan was "based upon the right of workers and consumers to share in the fruits of advanced technology."

The letter was made public by Reuther's office several hours after another auto executive, George Romney, president of American Motors, joined the verbal attack. Romney called Reuther's proposal a "subterfuge."

Reuther said copies of his letter to Curtice were sent to L. L. Colbert, Chrysler president, and Ernest R. Breech, Ford board chairman, both of whom previously had, in effect, rejected the UAW proposal.

The UAW president accused General Motors of opposing profit sharing for hourly-rated workers while maintaining a bonus plan based on dividing excess profits for top executives.

Reuther estimated that Curtice and other executives received a total of $635,000,000 in the 10 years between 1947 and 1956 under that plan.

He questioned whether "public confidence can best be built by a small group of General Motors executives sharing in the excess profits of the corporation while denying workers and consumers their rightful share."

Romney said: "Reuther's profit-sharing and price-rebate bludgeon apparently was devised to silence growing criticism of chain-reacting pattern bargaining. This is subterfuge."

In statements Monday, leading executives of the Big Three labelled the UAW proposal as "unrealistic," foreign to the concept of the American free enterprise system" and "inflationary."

Reuther's proposal, to be presented to a special UAW convention Jan. 22 and—if approved—to the auto industry in bargaining sessions beginning about April 1, calls for a sharing of above 10 per cent of net capital before taxes — 25 per cent to employees, 25 per cent to car buyers in the form of rebates and 50 per cent to the company.

Whether the new proposal will apply in Canada will probably be decided by its reception at the convention.

Saanich Votes To Double Pay of Council

Coun. George Chatterton fulfilled his election promise Tuesday night by moving a recommendation that pay of the reeve and councillors in Saanich be doubled this year.

The recommendation, adopted in a 3-2 vote by the finance committee, will be put before council. Since all councillors are members of the committee, its passage is assured.

The indemnities likely will be increased to $3,600 for Reeve Arthur Ash and $1,200 for each councillor, with one-third of each salary set aside for expenditures.

This would represent a sizeable increase over the last high in council pay — set at $3,000-$1,000 in 1956 by Reeve Ash and his council.

The scale was cut back to $1,800-$600 the following year by an "old guard" majority.

Earlier in the meeting Coun. Charles Nelles proposed a $5,000-$2,000 increase, then withdrew it in favor of Coun. Chatterton's motion.

Coun. George Austin and Coun. Harold Todd voted against the recommendation.

JAILBIRDS FLY COOP FOR TV

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP)—Two convicts who said they operated a television set secretly at the Lackawanna County Prison, broke out of jail twice last month to steal parts for the set.

They came back both times.

District attorney Carlon M. O'Malley reported this as the prison board launched an investigation into recent escapes.

Dramatic Oil Strike to Enrich 2,600 Blood Indians in Alberta

CALGARY (CP)—Close to 2,600 Blood Indians on the largest Indian reservation in Canada stand to gain from a dramatic oil strike on their property near Lethbridge.

Industry sources predict the find on the Blood reservation may be the first major oil field on the plains of southern Alberta.

The find was made by Pan American Petroleum Corporation on a farmout from National Petroleum Corporation 18 miles southwest of Lethbridge. Spokesmen are talking in terms of a field embracing 25,000 to 50,000 acres.

Royalty revenues usually go into a capital account maintained for the Indians in Ottawa.

Occasionally it will happen the Indians vote to have a cash distribution. The Indians on the Hobbema, Alta., reserve, for example, receive 50 per cent of their reservation's royalty income in cash paid to them as individuals.

Aylmer Peas taste FRESH because they're packed fresh*

*Average time from vine to tin—2½ hours!

When you taste the fresh sweetness of tender young Aylmer Peas, it's hard to believe that such good-tasting peas can be so good for you! But just look at the food values you get: Vitamins A, B1, C and D! Minerals and proteins too!

Buy Aylmer Peas By Threes!

How do Aylmer Peas keep so much natural nutritive value—and flavour?

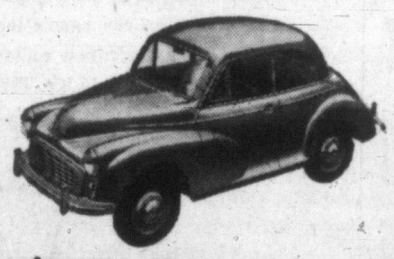

1. Start with QUALITY peas! Aylmer Peas are grown from Aylmer's own premium-quality seed, under Aylmer field supervision, by selected growers. Harvesting time is decided by heat and moisture records and daily tenderness tests. The peas are harvested at the precise moment of perfect flavour and nutrition. (Did you know that, if peas are harvested just 2 hours too late, their sugar content is already turning to starch?)

2. Can them FAST to protect freshness! Aylmer operates canneries in the heart of Canada's pea-growing areas, so fresh-picked peas are never more than minutes away from the factory. Aylmer Peas can be harvested, cleaned, graded, sealed and cooked in an average of 2½ hours!

3. Seal BEFORE cooking! Aylmer Peas are pressure-cooked in sealed, sterilized tins, away from air that "kidnaps" their mineral and nutritive values. Cooking time is scientifically controlled, another important nutritional safeguard which brings Aylmer Peas to your table at their peak of flavour and food value!

Mr. and Mrs. Waddell were married on a snowy day in January at Enderby, B.C. They drove away from the church in a sleigh. Pioneer resident of the Okanagan Valley, the late A. L. Fortune gave the bride in marriage.

AND NOW . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Waddell on the eve of their 50th wedding anniversary

Once Owned Beloved 'Inglenook'

On Saturday at their home, 1567 Athlone Drive, from 2 to 4 in the afternoon and again from 7 to 9 in the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Waddell will welcome friends at a golden wedding reception.

They were married on Jan. 15, 1908, in St. George's Church at Enderby, B.C., and spent their honeymoon in Victoria, staying at the Empress Hotel.

Next Sunday C. C. Chapman, manager of the hotel, is entertaining the couple at a dinner in honor of the anniversary.

The Waddells ranched near Enderby for some years before coming to Victoria to make their home. "We moved 10 times in this city before we finally settled on a wild looking acreage on Tattersal Drive," Mr. Waddell says. "It had once been a part of the old Tolmie Farm."

Lovers of flowers and birds the Waddells bent their energies toward making "Inglenook," as they called their new home, "a good spot to live."

In seven years it was such a beauty spot and it was written up so often in newspapers, the public began to beat a pathway to its gate.

"We like people," the Waddells explain now, "so we opened the gates and told them to come in."

From then, until the day they sold the place, thousands of Victorians and visitors to the city enjoyed this delightful garden. The Waddells have visitors' books filled with names from all parts of the world.

Today, at their home on Athlone Drive, the Waddells still have a small garden where Mr. Waddell is experimenting with painting the dull grey rocks in a pattern that looks like Genoa marble "to give a more effective background for the pockets of flowers."

Mrs. Waddell, who was well known as a breeder of griffins at "Inglenook," still has three of the little dogs as pets—"Liz," "Dapper Dandy" and "Jenny Wren."

A son and a daughter will be with Mr. and Mrs. Waddell for the celebrations—David, who is with the federal government at Ottawa, has flown home for the occasion, and Mrs. G. E. White (Jean), who will come from South Burnaby with her husband and three children for the weekend.

Wonderful new recipes from NEPTUNE'S KITCHEN

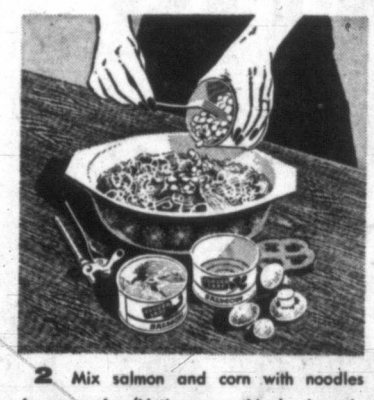

Every day new seafood recipes are being tested in Neptune's Kitchen and the best of them are passed along to you by the director, Mary Ross.

CLOVER LEAF
salmon-corn casserole

1 Boil 1 cup noodles in salted water. Drain and pour into buttered 2½ quart casserole. Drain 1 tin niblet corn. Drain two ½ lb. tins or one 1 lb. tin Clover Leaf Salmon.

2 Mix salmon and corn with noodles in casserole. (Notice everything's done in one dish.) Add 2 tbsp. diced green pepper and ½ cup cooked mushrooms (sliced or button). Season lightly.

3 Cover with 1 cup cheese sauce and mix gently. Sprinkle with ½ cup grated cheese. Bake at 350° for 30 minutes. Garnish with green peppers and paprika. Serves six.

Clover Leaf Shortcuts to Good Eating

EASY SALMON ROLLS — Mix and roll out 1 pkg. biscuit mix. Lightly butter. Spread over it one ½ lb. tin drained and flaked Clover Leaf Salmon. Roll up like a jelly roll. Bake 20 minutes at 400°. Garnish with white sauce and serve with green peas. Serves 4-6.

SALMON IN SOUR CREAM — Drain one or two ½ lb. tins Clover Leaf Salmon and place whole in a baking dish slightly larger than the fish. Cover with ½ cup sour cream and 6 thin lemon slices. Sprinkle with chopped parsley and bake 20 minutes at 350°. Serves 2-4 people.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

HUSBAND IS HOST IN HIS HOME

Shortly after we bought our first home, we invited my parents, my two brothers and their wives for dinner. While I was in the kitchen preparing to bring the first course to the table, I asked my mother if she would do the seating. To my surprise, I found father seated at the head of the table and my husband on the side. This happens repeatedly unless I manage to be present at the right time. Perhaps my parents consider that father is head of the family, but shouldn't my husband be host in his own home, and, if so, should that take precedence?

Louise Davis

LOUISE DAVIS ANSWERS

How could you know that you were making a mistake in the beginning when you asked your mother to seat everyone? It naturally never occurred to you. If you don't soon take this situation in hand, it will be more difficult in the future if you try to correct it. You are mistress in your own home and your husband is head of his family. I am certain that it never entered your mother's mind that she was presumptuous. Many parents have a way of feeling that their grown-up sons and daughters are still children and subconsciously take such measures as you describe. Your father and all the others are guests in your house. Of course that doesn't mean that they are held at a distance for you naturally would manifest love and respect. If you keep a constant control for a while, I think that they will catch on that your husband's place is at the head of the table. You can carefully plan your kitchen routine to be on hand for the seating. If worse comes to the worst, you should tactfully assert yourself.

Got Pain in the Neck? Cure It With Exercise

Career women and housewives both should realize that neck muscles become tense when one sits for a long while at concentrated work. This may be typing or sewing, decapping strawberries, preparing vegetables, writing letters or any other activity which keeps your head in much the same position.

This tiredness at the back of the neck makes us feel weary all over and can be avoided with a little preventative medicine. It always is restful to change one's posture and to move about for even a few minutes at intervals. As a matter of fact I read the other day that blood clots are more apt to form (if one is susceptible) when the individual sits for hours without getting up, as many do when looking at television.

Walk briskly about the room or down the hall several times every hour. Once or twice during the day, when you have the opportunity, do the following two exercises for just five minutes.

1. Stand tall. Lift the shoulders (arms hanging limply at the sides). Lower the shoulders. Continue lifting and lowering the shoulders.

2. Stand tall. Raise the arms forward, shoulder height and shoulder width apart. Swing the arms backward as far as comfortable (still shoulder height). As you do so lower the head backward. Raise the head and return arms to forward, shoulder height and shoulder width position. Continue. You will find that this exercise provides a nice massage and stirs up the circulation through the shoulders and neck.

If women in the home would adopt a few such exercises and would take short rest periods (even five minutes) periodically during the day, they would be much less tired at the end of it.

Businesses have recognized the need of this and many of them have couches in rest rooms so that their employees can lie down for little rests during working hours. Practically all companies have coffee breaks. The trouble with the coffee breaks is that the person again sits.

If you would like to have my relaxing exercises, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for "Exercises for Relaxing" leaflet No. 24. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Somebody Locked the Door So Penny Was in the Cold

By PENNY SAVER

Somebody locked the door! There I was, in the early hours of the morning, standing in the cold on the front doorstep of my home . . . and the front door was locked! I had no key . . . so there I was. . . . Should I climb the house wall, or bang lustily and loudly on the door? I proceeded to bang!

Strangely enough, I wasn't very popular around our house for several days after the event.

It could happen to you, so take a tip from me. Carry a house key!

* * *

It costs very little to duplicate keys. For 50 cents each, every member of the family can own one . . . and it's a good idea. If your doors are furnished with flat steel-type keys, it costs only 40 cents to duplicate or make them.

* * *

This sounds old-fashioned and slightly superstitious, but it's not my idea of a good time to wake up one night to find the house being robbed! That's why I'm all in favor of a night door chain . . . not that I'm timid, but I do hate being wakened in the middle of the night! Night chains of sturdy, durable steel come at 85 cents each.

* * *

It's a cute story and a true one! Mother was becoming exasperated with her cookie-loving children. She would make a large batch of cookies, put them in the cookie jar, and two hours later not one would be left! Finally, father came up with the idea of padlocking the cookie jar. Cookies would be rationed daily to the children and mother would take charge of the key.

It's a pretty desperate step, but as I say, a cute one. If you're going to try it, you'll find the padlock and key will cost from 40 cents up.

* * *

Most house doors are equipped with strong day and night latches that open from the outside by key and from the inside by a slight twist of the knob. These latches can be put in a high part of the door, so little tots can't reach them . . . and you can! Heavy steel locks come at $2.25 up.

* * *

If you're cutting wood, building a house or cutting down a tree, your saw must be sharp! I know where you can have the rusty, dull ol' saw sharpened. The cost is $1.25.

MACAROON PUDDING

Four apples, 3 to 4 tablespoons sugar, 1 egg, ½ cup granulated sugar, ½ teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup packaged biscuit mix, 1 tablespoon melted butter, ½ cup coconut.

Slice apples into 8-inch baking dish. Sprinkle with sugar. Place in 350 F oven until heated through. Meanwhile, beat egg, beat in ½ cup sugar and vanilla. Stir in biscuit mix, then melted butter and coconut. Spread over hot apples. Bake in 350 F oven until crust is crisp and lightly brown, about 30 to 35 minutes.

Auxiliary Raises $750 at Festival

A sum of $750 was cleared from the Festival of Christmas Decorations, held last month in the Empress Hotel, it was announced at a recent meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the Family and Children's Service.

Mrs. R. R. Wilde presided at the meeting, during which the following members were appointed to the nominating committee: Mrs. K. Parrott, Mrs. E. Ridgeway and Mrs. P. DeBourcier.

It was announced that refurnishing of Sevenoaks, a project undertaken by the auxiliary, is nearly completed.

Memorial Window Planned for Departed Members

Donations of $1,000 to the church wardens and $500 toward a memorial window to be placed in Christ Church Cathedral in memory of departed guild members were announced by the treasurer at annual meeting of the Women's Parish Guild of the cathedral.

A balance of $483.56 was reported.

Moneys were raised through a garden party, tea and bazaar and various smaller projects.

Dean Brian Whitlow conducted election and installed officers as follows:

Mrs. J. F. K. English, president; Mrs. E. B. Greenhill, first vice-president; Mrs. J. M. Wells, second; Miss B. Borley, third; Mrs. Brian Whitlow, recording secretary; Miss M. Bence, treasurer, and Mrs. C. A. Chisholm, corresponding secretary.

On behalf of members Mrs. English presented a crystal bowl to Mrs. T. Evans, who was retiring as first vice-president after many years work. Tea was served by the executive.

Monies Given To Building Fund

It was decided at annual meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary, Prince Edward Branch, No. 91, Canadian Legion, Langford, that all money raised during the past year by the ways and means committee be given to the building committee to assist in renovating the Legion Hall kitchen.

Mrs. Sophie McDonald, Provincial Council president, installed officers as follows: Mrs. P. Watt, president; Mrs. N. Goodwin and Mrs. J. Fitzsimmons, vice-presidents; Mrs. M. Douglas, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. B. Jenkins, sergeant-at-arms; Mrs. O. Jameson, Mrs. T. McKay and Mrs. R. George, executive council.

Mrs. A. Green was named social convener; Mrs. J. Dale, publicity; Mrs. T. Dempsey, sick and shut-ins; Mrs. F. Slater, entertainment; Mrs. D. Dowler and Mrs. R. Fraser, standard bearers.

Mrs. McDonald also initiated as new members, Mrs. E. Kathleen Laird, Mrs. Mary Sawyer and Mrs. Mary Knight.

Mrs. R. George was named convener of the ways and means committee.

The British Columbia Command's youth project was subject of the address given to the gathering by the provincial president. Since June, 1957, she said, ladies auxiliaries had contributed $1,500 to this movement.

Twelve scholarships of $150 each had been presented through the project, Mrs. McDonald said. Other scholarships had been presented from auxiliary funds.

Plans were discussed for a Valentine Tea in the Legion Hall on Dunford Avenue in mid-February.

Kitchen Furnishings Auxiliary Project

Projects adopted for the coming year at a meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary to Gordon United Church, Langford, include furnishings for the church kitchen, larger tables for the dining room and more silverware and crockery.

The newly-elected president, Mrs. A. Hull, named her committees as follows: Social, Mrs. C. S. Moseley; kitchen, Mrs. J. Jackson; cards and sick, Mrs. C. A. Ransfield; church board, Mrs. D. Richards; devotions, Mrs. A. G. Atkins and Mrs. R. Eveleigh.

It was decided that donations left from the White Gift Service will be sent to the United Church Home for Girls at Burnaby.

Plans were discussed for a recital to be presented by the Rotary Boys' Choir on Feb. 7, with proceeds to go toward purchase of an organ.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. F. Willing, Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. R. Eveleigh and Mrs. F. Perrot.

This quick taste treat is made extra good with a topping of canned peaches and hot currant jelly. It's best served warm with cream

Make the Dinner Special Tonight Serve a Tasty Dutch Peach Cake

Different dessert ideas are always welcome to those who like to cook. For a real peach of a dessert your family will love Dutch peach cake at lunchtime, dinnertime or snacktime. It's made flavorful with a topping of canned sliced peaches brushed with currant jelly. Serve it warm with light cream.

DUTCH PEACH CAKE

One egg, ¼ cup light cream, ⅓ cup sugar, 1 cup packaged biscuit mix, 1 can (1 lb. 13 oz.) sliced peaches, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, 2 tablespoons flour, 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, ⅓ cup currant jelly, 1 tablespoon water, light cream.

Mix beaten egg and cream. Add 3 tablespoons of the sugar and the biscuit mix; stir until smooth. Spread in a buttered shallow 8x12-inch baking pan. Arrange drained peach slices over the dough. Mix remaining sugar, spices, flour and melted butter; spoon over peaches. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) about 30 minutes, until browned. Mix currant jelly and water in a small saucepan; heat until jelly is melted, stirring. Brush over peach cake. Serve with light cream. Six to eight servings.

Cable From Queen; Flowers From Hawaii on Anniversary

In Orange Hall last Saturday evening more than 200 friends gathered when Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Paterson entertained in honor of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hunter on the occasion of their diamond wedding.

A two-tier bride's cake which centred the attractively appointed table was cut by the bride and groom of 60 years ago.

Special flowers on the table were orchids air expressed from Honolulu.

A toast was proposed by Hugh Reid. Music was played throughout the evening by Doug Woods' orchestra and Mrs. George Ford sang several solos.

Mr. and Mrs. Paterson were again hosts on Sunday at a family dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hunter. Covers were laid for 19.

Greetings were received from Her Majesty the Queen, Governor-General Vincent Massey, Prime Minister Diefenbaker, Lieutenant-Governor Ross and Mayor Percy B. Scurrah. Cards and messages of congratulation were also received from many parts of Canada and the United States.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. George C. Cruickshanks, Lac La Hache, B.C.; Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Hunter, Miss Irene Hunter, Port Coquitlam; Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Hunter and Michael of Port Alberni; Mrs. W. C. McKenzie, Mrs. Dan Steven, Mr. and Mrs. James McArthur and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hay, all of Vancouver.

Seattle Church Scene Of Zipp-Rumsby Vows

SOOKE — Large poinsettias graced the altar of St. George Church in Seattle, where Miss Joan I. Rumsby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rumsby, Saseenos, and Mr. Lawrence I. Zipp, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Zipp, Sr., of Seattle, were married recently. Rev. Fr. Cornelius Snyder, OFM, celebrant of the nuptial mass, performed the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in a white gown with ballerina length bouffant skirt of lace and net over satin. Her fingertip veil misted gracefully from a coronet of stephanotis. Her bouquet, also of stephanotis, contained a white orchid. Her only jewelry was a cultured pearl necklace with matching earrings, gift of the groom.

The bridesmaid, Miss Sheila Colbert, RN of Campbell River, wore a watermelon pink gown of lace and net, with bouffant ballerina length skirt. A cap of matching pink net and a necklace of cultured pearls completed her ensemble. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations. Miss Colbert and the bride were classmates in the School of Nursing at St. Joseph's Hospital in Victoria.

Dennis Donnelly of Seattle was best man. Miss Cecelia Zipp, niece of the groom, played traditional organ music, and the ushers were John Angeline and Kevin Gansneder of Seattle, and the bride's brother, William Rumsby of Saseenos.

The Yule theme predominated in the decorations in the church hall for a reception following the wedding, and white wedding bells hung from green and white streamers over the three-tier cake.

In addition to the bride's parents, her brother, and the bridesmaid, out-of-town guests were the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Walton, and Miss Marjorie Arthur of Vancouver, B.C.

Following a short honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Zipp will live at 1216 Angeline Street, Seattle, Wash.

MYSTERIOUS BUT REVEALING

NEW YORK (AP)—"If you can't lick 'em, join 'em."

This bit of strategy is adopted this season by Ceil Chapman, noted designer of sexy dresses. Mrs. Chapman at first shuddered at the thought of a return of the shapeless bags of the 1920s, but then found a way to use them.

The inventive Ceil calls her solution the translucent silhouette. The translucent part is a straight chemise, made of cobwebby lace or transparent chiffon worn over a slip fitted to every curve of the female figure in the best Chapman manner. The result is even more beguiling than the usual frank and unveiled figure flattery of a Chapman dress.

Urge That Rev. Peter Kelly Be Named to the Senate

At first meeting of the Liberal Women's Forum this year, a resolution was passed to be sent to the Prime Minister of Canada, urging that Rev. Peter Kelly be appointed to the Senate.

A resolution was also passed to be sent to the Federal Minister of Health urging measures be taken to lower the cost of prescription medicines and to allow the cost of these medicines as a deduction for taxation purposes.

The meeting also went on record as supporting Mayor Scurrah's efforts to obtain a fast ferry service from Sidney to the mainland.

Mrs. H. Ketchell presided and plans were made for a spring tea and sale of home cooking at the end of February.

Mrs. J. L. Gates was guest speaker, her subject, the "Victoria Cross." She gave an interesting outline of its history from the giving of the first honors to 62 recipients in 1857 to the review of 300 VCs by Queen Elizabeth II in Hyde Park in June, 1956. The speaker was thanked by Mrs. J. Jones.

Mrs. Jones and Mrs. W. Mortimer representing Esquimalt and Saanich, served tea after the meeting.

PRETTY PLEATS FOR PEIGNOIR

This pleated peignoir-and-gown ensemble in nylon offers fragile-looking elegance that is actually both hardy and practical. Rose-patterned Alencon lace is appliqued at yoke of peignoir and repeated on bodice of the gown. Color is turquoise blue.

Spring Swing is to Color in Cottons

TORONTO (CP)—Homemakers can look forward to more color in cotton, a survey of Canadian household cottons now available reveals.

The fashion trend to color in the home ranges from solid color choices, candy stripes and multi-colored prints to woven borders of every description.

Polka dots, stripes, plaids, lacy or floral designs are shown in endless variety says the Canadian Fabrics Foundation which conducted the survey.

FINE SHEETS

White cotton sheets and pillow cases still account for the bulk of Canadian production. However, the demand for smartness is growing steadily. One of the newest sheets is a fine quality white with elegant border pattern woven with metallic thread.

Cosy flannelette sheets and blankets have also been glamorized. They are not only made in plain colors but also in stripes or screen-printed floral patterns.

The survey showed that Canadian-made staples are unsurpassed in quality as well as in variety. Better-known brands are guaranteed for 200 washings or "seven years" of normal wear.

When buying sheets the Canadian Fabrics Foundation recommends that you examine the weave carefully as closely woven, evenly-threaded fabrics give the best wear. Also check for surface fuzz as better quality cotton threads have a smooth finish.

Look at the hem as small, even stitches, firmly finished at both ends permanently prevent ravelling. And also check selvage edges. This is where greatest strain comes in washing. Closely woven, sturdy edges assure long wear.

Correct lengths should be bought for comfort and wear. Allow for at least a six-inch tuck-under at top and bottom of the bed. Canadian sheets are marked "true" or finished length.

NEW RECLINING CHAIR

A major innovation in reclining chairs will make its appearance at the Canadian Furniture Mart in Toronto this month. Chicago furniture designer Henry Peter Glass has designed a different type of reclining chair.

This chair operates with a unique strap construction that gives a floating feeling as the chair glides into many reclining positions. The strap is attached to the back and to the foot rest which is raised to lounging position when the sitter applies his weight to the back. There are no mechanisms to jam.

One model features off-the-floor lines raised on tapered legs capped with footed brass ferrules. It has elongated oval side panels, tapered foot rest and a high-tapered back, angled forward at the top for head-rest comfort.

The chair can be seen in combinations of textured fabrics with fabric used on the central seating areas for comfort.

There are no gears, metal linkage or other mechanisms. Foam rubber back and seat cushioning results in resiliency and form-fitting comfort.

Here's a new relish treat to serve with roast pork or chops. Peel and dice four large apples. Sprinkle with lemon juice to prevent darkening. Add one chopped onion, two medium pickles, chopped, and two or three tablespoons French dressing.

FORMER HOME ECONOMICS MAJOR—

She Cooks Up Good Political Recipes

WASHINGTON—The outcome of major legislative battles here may depend on the behind-the-scenes work of a politically minded Washington mother who once majored in home economics.

Mrs. Margaret K. Taylor runs a public relations counseling service which specializes in advising organizations on the best way to get a bill through Congress.

Her job is to sound out congressmen, government agency heads and other important officials to learn what they think about a proposed law. Her extensive, thorough research enables her clients to map out their legislative strategy.

Mrs. Margaret K. Taylor

Outstanding work in this field played a big part in her being named "Business Woman of the Year" by the District of Columbia State Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Taylor's success as a legislative sleuth is a far cry from the courses in cooking and sewing that she set out to master during her college days. The same thing is true of her first job as manager of a tea room.

But during this time politics and government had always fascinated her. After marrying an Oswego, N.Y., attorney, she started taking an active part in local political and civic clubs.

These activities soon led to politics on a large scale. Between 1936 and 1940 she held such jobs as vice-chairman of New York's Republican State Executive Committee and chairman of the National Dewey for President Clubs.

Following the death of her husband in 1940, she was faced with finding a job that could adequately provide for herself and her two children.

After a stint as a radio show producer in Ithaca, N.Y., she came to Washington as legislative assistant to the secretary of the National Milk Producers Federation. Later she became director of the organization's educational department and acquired the national reputation as the first registered female farm lobbyist.

Since she was doing what was ordinarily a man's job, Mrs. Taylor explains that she had to prove herself first in order to get recognition from many government officials. "They all thought I was somebody's secretary," she says.

The wide knowledge of government affairs and important contacts that she acquired as a lobbyist enabled her to open her present business. "I thought when I went on my own, I'd have more spare time," Mrs. Taylor says. But she explains that she's just as busy as ever.

For example, she once had to travel throughout the Middle East to obtain agricultural information needed by one of her clients.

Whenever she gets a chance, Mrs. Taylor says she like to relax with a round of golf. One of her less active hobbies is needle point.

'Tis Said Men Hate 'Sack'

NEW YORK (UP) — Adele Simpson, defying the onslaught of the shapeless look for spring, recently came out for clothes which "give men heart throbs, not heart attacks."

"There's just too much to do about the sack," said the designer, in an interview before showing her spring collection to 200 visiting fashion reporters. "This spring, I'm showing silhouettes for every figure.

"The sack definitely is for daytime, casual wear . . . also definitely for the young or very tall, slim figure, not for any big-bosomed woman.

"The men hate the sack, you know. Course, men have to be clothes-trained. They don't like sudden change . . . they want their girls to look familiar. But I believe we designers should make clothes to give men heart throbs, not heart attacks."

Mrs. Simpson went the chemise route to the extent of a modified version, with belt which could be tied fore or aft.

Her motto for spring—"be at ease with ease." Most of her clothes for daytime are easy-fitting, barely skimming the body, rather than hugging any part of the anatomy. But there's always a waistline.

She joined other suit designers in featuring the short jacket for spring. One suit has a "petal" jacket, curved and bolero length in front, straight-cut and longer at the back. Other costumes feature Chanel-type jackets, boxy and loose in fit.

And it's a rare suit maker who this spring isn't featuring the three-piece costume—skirt, flower-printed blouse and jacket lined with the same floral fabric.

SOLUTION MONDAY

By FREEMAN KING

OTTAWA — Maj.-Gen. D. C. Spry, international director, Boy Scouts' Association, announced the appointment of Thomas J. Keane, OBE, of New York, as the international bureau's first executive commissioner for relationships.

Commander Keane, who served with the U.S. Navy during the war, was associated with the national council of the Boy Scouts of America from 1921 to 1954.

His main duties will be to establish relationships between the international bureau and national and international organizations throughout the world, with a view to seeking their co-operation and support for a world scouting program.

Victoria District Notes: Robert Milks, former executive commissioner, was given a camp fire sendoff at the combined meeting of the Akela Club and the Green Plume Council, held at district headquarters, 1034 Johnson Street, last Thursday. Mr. Milks has left for Toronto, where he has taken on the duties of a field commissioner in the Metropolitan Area, Toronto. Mr. Milks was presented with a pair of Hudson's Bay blankets by the scouters of the district.

* * *

Mt. Arrowsmith District: Fifth Arrowsmith Group: John Blenkinsop was presented with his first-class badge; Scouts David Helem, Gay Stewart and John Blenkinsop received their ambulance man's badges; Terry Schan, Terry Pernessi, David Auld and Neil McLellan were invested as scouts.

Fourth Arrowsmith Group: Bruce Clements, Gene Demens and Jim Jessimean were invested as Wolf Cubs; Ray Marceellus received his toy maker's and cyclist badges; Ken Marcinek the house orderly badge.

Third Arrowsmith Group: Brian Chambers and Danny Hoggeweide were invested into the troop as scouts, these two boys going on to scouting from the Cub Pack.

Bad Cheques Bring Term Of 18 Months

Nels John Peterson, no fixed address, was given three concurrent sentences of 18 months each for uttering forged cheques when he appeared for sentence in city police court Tuesday.

He said he wished to make restitution for the amount of each cheque, $70.77, $40 and $65.70.

"You have quite a record for a young man, Magistrate H. C. Hall said. "I hope you don't intend to spend the rest of your life in jail, do you?"

His companion, Earl Siewert, 722 Market, charged with forging cheques for $65.03 and $53.83, was remanded a week for sentence.

"I note that you have not seen fit to give the probation officer any information or assistance. It will therefore be several more days before he can complete his report," the magistrate said.

Ross Returns As Esk Prexy

EDMONTON (CP) — Cecil Ross was re-elected president of the Edmonton Football Club Tuesday.

Ross, despite earlier indications he might not be a candidate, was chosen unanimously as the entire 1957 slate of officers was re-elected.

Officers included: Vice-presidents, Eric Duggan, Gordon Wynn and Hastings (Red) McMahon; treasurer, Bob Purvis; secretary-manager, Keith Rolfe.

The management board will attend the Western Interprovincial Football Union and Canadian Football Council annual meetings in Winnipeg this weekend with Ross and Duggan being the voting delegates.

$139 Million Reaped At Gambling Tables

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP)—Nevada's legal gambling tables reaped another record bonanza for their operators last year—almost $139,000,000.

The 1957 gross win was about $19,000,000 above the $119,746,741 taken in by the tables during the previous record year of 1956, the state reported Monday.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to John Hamlett, aged 12, Tuscon, Ariz., for his question:

Why Can't Anything Get Colder Than 273 Degrees?

There seems no limit to how hot a substance can get. The face of the sun is a seething 6,000 degrees Centigrade. The heart of the sun may be 20 million degrees or much more. The centres of some stars are even hotter. But nothing in the whole universe can be colder than minus 273.2 Centigrade. On the Fahrenheit scale this coldest of cold is minus 459.8 degrees. We call this the temperature of absolute zero.

In order to understand cold, we must understand a little about heat. Heat puzzled the scientists for centuries. At one time they thought it was a kind of fluid. Nowadays we attribute heat to busy molecules. Molecules are those small particles of matter from which everything is made. A couple of billions of them could frolic on the head of a pin.

All the solids, liquids and gases in the world are composed of molecules. And all the molecules we know about are busy and on the move. Air molecules are separate from each other and free to rush about—which they do at a great rate. Molecules of solids, say iron or wood, are more closely packed together. However, they too are always restless and probably move by vibrating. Molecules which form liquids tumble around each other as though they were dancing a hoedown with linked hands.

It is these restless molecules which give heat to a substance. The faster they move, the more heat the substance has. As a substance loses heat, its molecules are merely slowing down. It gains heat again as its molecules gather speed and dash about in all directions.

At 0 degrees Centrigrade, the molecules of water slow down and form solid ice. At 100 degrees they speed up and fly off as vapor and join the other gases in the air. The molecules of iron take on solid form at normal everyday temperatures. At 1,530 degrees Centigrade they break apart to form a seething liquid. Helium gas does not get into a liquid state until it reaches minus 269 degrees Centigrade.

Freezing Points Vary

Each substance has its own freezing point. This is the point at which its molecules slow down to form a solid. This does not mean that the molecules then come to a dead standstill. Molecules may be shivering a little, even in a chunk of ice.

Absolute zero occurs when all movement among the molecules comes to a dead stop. There is then no heat whatever in the substance.

The vast reaches of space between the stars may be near Absolute Zero. On our cosy little planet, nothing in nature ever gets anywhere near this point. Scientists use the Kelvin, or Absolute temperature scale when trying to reach Absolute Zero in the laboratory. So far they have not quite achieved it though they have less than one degree to go.

The degrees on the Absolute scale are equal to the degrees on the Centigrade scale. However, 0 degrees Centrigrade is the freezing point of water. The 0 on the Absolute scale is Absolute Zero—which is as cold as anything can possibly get. For at that bitter temperature, the atoms and molecules of every substance come to a dead halt.

Andy sends a Hammond's International World Globe to Marilyn Morris, age 10, of Jellyby, Ont., for her question:

Is the Great Barrier Reef animal or vegetable matter?

The Great Barrier Reef follows the shoreline off the north-eastern coast of Australia. It stretches for 1,200 miles, most of it below the surface at high tide. Low tide reveals ridges and islands made of hard jagged stone. The whole region is a menace to shipping for most of the treacherous reef is hidden.

The great reef is called a coral reef because most of it was made by tiny corals, and corals are small sea animals. We can say then that the Great Barrier Reef was created partly by animals. However plants had a share in the great building project also. Some of the stony material came from seaweeds. These seaweeds are crisp and brittle from stony substances they take out of the water. We call them the stony seaweeds.

The corals build themselves apartment houses from stony materials found dissolved in sea water. Each coral is a small, soft-bodied animal. To protect himself, he builds a stony house. And he builds his stony house on a pile of such houses built by his ancestors. In time, the coral apartment house becomes a great pile. In the warm seas where corals thrive, countless varieties of coral pile up their dwellings in one place. Stony seaweeds also thrive in these waters. Together the plants and animals construct a building that rises from the ocean floor. The Great Barrier Reef is such a building, made by both plants and animals.

Leave of Absence Given Councillor At Saanich

Saanich Council Monday gave Coun. Ainslie Worthington two months' leave of absence to ensure he will not be disqualified under the Municipal Act for missing council meetings through three continuous months.

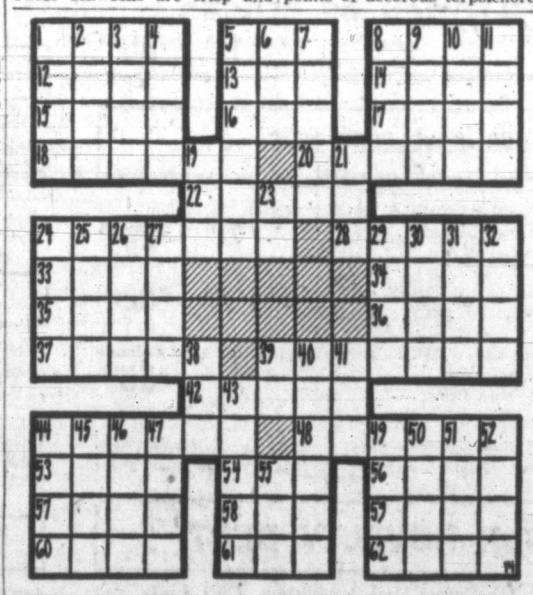

Coun. Worthington has been under doctor's care following an auto accident.

Reeve Arthur Ash told council the three-month deadline would be passed by next meeting. The motion was passed in case Coun. Worthington was not able to attend.

Rock 'n' Roll Fad Too Much for Priest

SUMMIT, N.J. (AP)—There's too much "rock" in teen-age dancing to suit Rev. Harrold Murray, Catholic Youth Organization director of St. Teresa's Roman Catholic Church here.

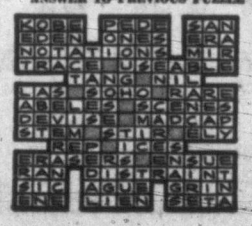

The clergyman plans to invite 250 junior CYO members next month to teach them "the fine points of decorous terpsichore".

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

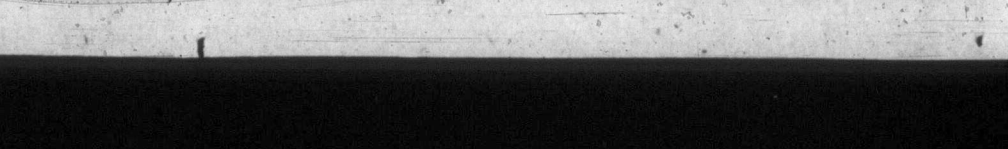

Record Whirlwind Movie Courtship

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Movie actress Debra Paget was married in a 10-minute ceremony Tuesday night to singer David Street.

It was Street's fifth marriage, his second within a month.

A few hours before the ceremony Street, 37, was summoned to a court hearing later on a failure - to - provide warrant brought by his first wife, Mary F. Street.

The wedding climaxed what must be a record for whirlwind courtships—even by Hollywood standards. Street, who has known Debra since 1945, has yet to have a formal date with her. They became engaged after he showed up at the house last Saturday night to watch the late-late show on TV.

30-HOUR VIOLIN MARATHON ENDS

CORNWALL, Ont. (CP) — Val Champagne, 25, ended a violin-playing marathon at 10 a.m. Tuesday night, some 30 hours after he began.

The unemployed mill worker had been playing in the window of a local store with stops of two or three minutes every hour for refreshments. He finally stopped because his left hand was badly swollen.

Centenary Spotlighted At Convention

OTTAWA (CP) — British Columbians aren't missing a bet to publicize their centenary this year.

The B.C. delegation to the national Liberal convention announced Tuesday night that today will be "B.C. Centennial Day" at this gathering of some 2,500 Liberals.

B.C. delegates are to distribute centennial folders, stickers, buttons, posters and banners at today's opening session, along with Okanagan Valley apples.

Change in the convention restaurant will be in silver dollars struck specially for the B.C. centenary.

LONDON (Reuters) — The Marquess of Donegall, 54, was cited as co-respondent and ordered to pay costs in a divorce case here.

Businessman Douglas McKenzie was granted a decree on grounds of his wife's adultery with Lord Donegall.

Medals, Bursaries Presented To Leaders in '57 Music Exams

Two silver medals, two bursaries and a solo performer's diploma were presented to the Royal Conservatory of Music (Toronto) examination candidates by Boyd Neel, dean of the conservatory, during his recent visit to Victoria.

The presentation, which was preceded by a recital featuring the winning students, was held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. T. H. Johns, Somass Drive.

Medals were won by Barbara Ann Court, Grade II violin, and Claudia Jean Belcher, speech arts, Grade VI. They are awarded to candidates receiving the highest marks in the province.

Victoria Chapter Alumni bursaries went to two young pianists, Phillip Adamson (junior) and Janice Hickman (intermediate).

Performer's Associate Royal Conservatory, Toronto, diploma was awarded to Joanne Dawson, the brilliant young Victoria pianist who last year won the City Medallion in open competition at the Greater Victoria Music Festival.

Alumni artist, Margaret Abbott, soprano, opened the awards program by singing the Rhapsody from "Dies Natalis," by Gerald Finzi. She was accompanied by Alumni president, Mrs. Donna Denike.

Students taking part, in addition to the prize winners, were Margaret McEwen, Karen Dickson and Jean Bartholomew; all three are talented pianists.

TWO for the SHOW

By PHIL LEE

AA (Oscar Class) A (Don't Miss) BB (Worthwhile) B (For Rainy Days) C (To put in time)

(BB PLUS) "THE SAD SACK" (Royal)—For some unknown reason, possibly more chemical than physical, gargoyle-faced Jerry Lewis, one of the funniest men of the half-century, still needs ex-partner Dean Martin to lay the customers in the aisles.

Nonetheless, in his latest solo venture, "The Sad Sack," Lewis and his cohorts, David Wayne, Phyllis Kirk, Peter Lorre and Joe Mantell, manage to sow the old army-misfit plot with a goodly amount of laughs. Where the dull spots appear time would have been nicely filled in by Martin and some good songs.

Some of the zanier moments of the film come when Lewis, a sadsack with a photographic memory whose kindest deeds usually spell mayhem for his best pals, unintentionally leads his companions into the WAC's barracks block for a good night's rest. Another funny scene is where Lewis does one of his inimitable dances to the beat of the bongo drums with exotic Liliane Montevecchi.

ONE THING Lewis fans will be pleased to learn, however, is that in this, his latest solo winging, he doesn't attempt to play Martin's semi-serious or straight role as he did, for instance, in "The Delicate Delinquent". From beginning to end Lewis the sadsack plays it for laughs only.

For this reason alone the film turns out to be the best he has done since the break-up of the team that was the No. 1 box-office favorites for several years. Nonetheless, there will be many who will be hoping that the two will patch it up and combine their talents once again.

Ban on Plane Glue Sought After Death

VANCOUVER (CP) — The mother of a 20-month-old girl poisoned Tuesday by model airplane glue is planning vigorous action to prohibit sale of such products to persons under 21.

Mrs. Kay Campbell, of North Vancouver, said she will ask the Canadian Association of Consumers and Parent-Teacher groups for support of a "prohibitive" bill.

Mrs. Campbell's daughter, Beverly, is in good condition.

Mrs. Campbell said Beverly climbed on the dressing table in her elder brothers' bedroom then mounted to the shelves in the cupboard nine feet from the floor to get a tube of glue, then bit the end off.

High Moral Standard Urged To Match Power of Soviets

TORONTO (CP) — Britain's Lord High Chancellor says the West must prove its way of life worth the sacrifice necessary to match Russia's power of destruction.

Viscount Kilmuir, who as Sir David Maxwell Fyfe was chief British prosecutor at the Nuernberg war crimes trials, said Tuesday the foundation of the new way of life must be a morality which can keep the world from nuclear disaster.

In the first of two Sir Robert Falconer lectures, he told an audience of more than 700 at the University of Toronto the nuclear age emphasizes the importance of the need for qualities of mind and spirit necessary to eliminate "the misuse of scientific achievement."

The standards of conduct of the British common law were a worthy basis for world confidence, particularly since "it continues to govern more than a third of the world today."

But, he said, "we must make clear our basic thoughts and underlying beliefs to those who sympathize with us as well as to those with whom we disagree."

AIMS MISUNDERSTOOD

Misunderstanding of aims and motives was one of the greatest dangers to world peace. He found it difficult to understand use of the word, "colonialism" as a term of abuse when applied to Britain.

"Since the last war 500,000,000 people in the British Commonwealth have received independence. During the same period, over 100,000,000 people have been brought, under domination of Russian communism."

He said Britons not only applied a system of freedom of the individual to themselves, but encouraged its adoption among those whom they governed.

He also urged a greater sense of personal responsibility to the community.

"What I should like to see is a community where membership of any professional or commercial society or trade union is a guarantee that as a matter of loyalty to the association as well as a duty to the client, customer or employer, the member will on all occasions do his everyday work as well as he possibly can and according to the highest standards of the job."

COSMIC VOICE

Mars, Venus Earth Envoy Writes UN

LONDON (CP) — George King, 38-year-old "ambassador for Mars and Venus on earth," has written to Dag Hammarskjold demanding a seat in the United Nations.

King, a London doorman, claimed in his letter that he has been accepted by the Martians and Venusians as "primary terrestrial mental channel." He feels "in all humility" that he is entitled to be liaison officer in the UN between earth and inter-planetary intelligences.

In his letter to the UN secretary-general he said that during the last three years he has received about 300 telepathic transmissions from these intelligences.

King, a bachelor, runs a magazine called Cosmic Voice, which presents "momentous transmissions from the planets."

OAK BAY NEGOTIATIONS

Thursday Meeting On Firemen's Pay

Negotiating committee on Oak Bay council will meet municipal fire department representatives Thursday at 5.15 p.m. to discuss wage demands.

A meeting with inside and outside staffs will be held Friday at the same time.

Saanich finance committee Tuesday night heard across-the-board wage increases of 25 per cent asked for the engineering and outside staff and 12½ per cent for the inside staff.

Demands were submitted by Percy Rayment, business agent for the 176-member employees' association, representing all municipal staff other than police and firemen.

Negotiations with inside and outside staffs and policemen at Esquimalt have not yet been opened.

Aid Sought To Decorate Indian Homes

A suggestion that Kiwanis clubs help Indians paint up their houses on local Indian reserves was made Tuesday by Miss Joanna Wright, director of the B.C. Indian Advisory Act.

Miss Wright speaking at a meeting of the North Kiwanis Club said this could only be done if Indian and whites jointly undertook the painting project.

"Our reserves here are really sad looking," she said. "This is centennial year and I wish you could think of some way to help the Indians in the capital city."

25-Year-Old Plane Wreckage Found

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters)—Wreckage sighted on an unexplored peak in the Andes has been identified as that of a Pan American Airways aircraft which crashed 25 years ago and not of a British plane lost in 1947.

A patrol reached the isolated spot Monday and found human bones, jewelry and part of the wreckage. The PAA plane carried eight persons when it crashed in July, 1932.

Governor's Island in New York harbor was so named by British administrators in 1696.

'Woodman Spare That Tree' Plea

KIDDERMINSTER, Eng. (CP) —A lone woman's campaign to have a woodsman spare an elm tree cost her £155 ($434) in court Tuesday.

The court was told that Mrs. Margaret Jordan, 36, a doctor's wife, sat in the tree with a first aid bag in her lap and dared the man to cut it down.

The tree was located in a builder's plot adjoining Mrs. Jordan's garden.

She was ordered to pay £50 to the building firm for trespassing damages and the remainder to a lawyer whom she allegedly "shoulder charged" when he got in her way.

Mrs. Jordan left the scene with the half-sawn tree still standing. It was cut down later during preparation of the court case because it was no longer safe.

City, Saanich Back College Land Expansion

Victoria and Saanich have unofficially approved a Victoria College proposal to build a campus on Gordon Head army camp and adjacent land owned by the national defence department.

"Expansion of the college must have the full and unqualified support of all elected representatives and the public of the Greater Victoria area," Reeve Arthur Ash of Saanich said.

Saanich had considered using the property for a large-scale housing project, he said, but speaking personally, he felt the council would not oppose the college in its move towards a university site.

COLLEGE FIRST

From Vancouver, Mayor Percy Scurrah said: "We have no plans for that land. The college is much more important than any use we could have for it."

He indicated the city would be willing to waive an option to repurchase 57½ acres of adjacent defence department land at Finnerty and Sinclair "if it is to be used for the benefit of the college."

As far as he could see, there would be no barriers to the council action.

At a meeting with Victoria College council and the university subcommittee of Victoria Chamber of Commerce Tuesday, Defence Minister G. R. Pearkes said he would give sympathetic consideration to the proposal.

Mining Leaders Call for End To Iron Ore Tax

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two leaders of the B.C. mining industry Tuesday night called for rescinding of the controversial provincial legislation taxing iron ore in the ground, to bring back "a healthy climate for mining."

They also called on the government to assure mine developers of "adequate protection" in its new system of leasing mineral deposits, which replaces Crown grants.

The two leaders were Henry L. Hill, retiring president of the B.C. and Yukon Chamber of Mines, and its manager, Thomas Elliott, at the group's annual meeting.

The outlook for 1958, they reported, is not too favorable.

In 1957, Mr. Elliott said, the total value of mineral production in B.C. dropped to $165,000,000 from the record 1956 level of $190,000,000.

LOWER THIS YEAR

This year's level was expected to be even lower.

They warned that current low base metal prices, the threat of increased U.S. tariffs on lead, zinc and copper, and rising costs of mine operation may make the industry a soft spot in the B.C. economy.

Mr. Hill, a mining engineer and mining consultant for several B.C. mines, said the new legislation "should not exist if this industry is to progress in the future as it has in the past."

Without a "healthy climate in legislation and taxation matters," the industry cannot advance, he said.

"The mining fraternity is quite used to the fluctuation in world metal prices and is fully prepared to carry on with prospecting and exploration programs in readiness for better days."

With restrictive laws, however, "the industry cannot cope."

WENNER-GREN DEAL

Mr. Hill also criticized the granting of mineral concessions in the Rocky Mountain Trench to the Wenner-Gren interests. He urged the government "not to be too hasty to offer inducements to invest."

In his report Mr. Elliott said that 1957 in comparison with 1956 "witnessed a serious deterioration in the B.C. mining scene."

The high premium on the Canadian dollar placed an added burden on base metal producers. In addition, he said, the industry developed "a state of apathy and frustration due to the new mining laws."

New president of the chamber is James A. Pike of the Newmont Mining Corporation of Canada Ltd. Vice-presidents are consulting geologist Dr. Christopher Riley and consulting mining engineer R. E. Legg.

Honorary president is Mines Minister Kiernan. Walter B. Boucher was re-elected honorary treasurer.

F. G. EVANGELIST
"... think big"

Logging Methods Due for Change

Pioneering and foresight of North American loggers constitute a "challenge to science fiction itself to keep pace with developments in the industry," according to the representative of one of the world's largest machinery firms.

F. G. Evangelist, domestic and export sales manager for R. G. LeTourneau, Inc., said today at the opening session of the 15th annual B.C. Truck Logger's Association convention in Vancouver that logging methods are due for a complete change.

"Machines that are far more powerful and efficient than hoped for 10 years ago are becoming commonplace in the larger logging and mill operations," he said. "The industry is growing out of its awesome wonder stage and is well along the road to thinking big, working big, and using big machines to do the job at hand."

He predicted larger loading devices and larger transports in order to handle more units per man-hour, development of improved mechanical harvesters for pulp logging, and methods to eliminate the haulage of waste.

Initial step toward achievement of the final point will be conversion of logs into semi-finished products while still in the forest, he said.

"The day is not far off when all equipment used in the woods will have been designed specifically for the logger," he said. It will require an increasing number of pioneers to lead the industry into its destined new heyday of tomorrow."

Trio Welcomed By Rotary Club

CHEMAINUS—Three Crofton men welcomed into the Rotary Club this week by president George Price were John Bardsley, Stan Holgate and Floyd Goodson.

District governor Bert Welch will make his official visit here Feb. 12.

A card from the Honolulu club advised that local member Harry Ewart had attended a meeting there, while a card from the Larne, Ireland, club advised that member Tom Beggs had been a recent visitor.

212 Awaiting Admittance To Hospitals

At least 212 persons are waiting admittance to Victoria's Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospitals today.

Royal Jubilee administrator George Masters said, "It happens every January. It's not abnormal." He said admissions were "quiet" over the holiday season then built up suddenly.

St. Joseph's medical superintendent, Dr. E. N. Boettcher, added, ". . . but the peak is much higher this year." There are 72 waiting to get into St. Joseph's, 150 at Royal Jubilee.

Both hospitals reserve space for urgent and emergent cases with elective cases having the lowest priority.

1,000 Taxies Escort Slain Mate's Coffin

WARSAW (Reuters) — A thousand taxis drove in slow procession through the city centre Tuesday behind a coffin containing the body of a murdered Warsaw taxi driver.

It was the traditional cabbies' funeral for Tadeusz Szydlowicz, 40, third taxi driver murdered here in three months.

Fishermen Benefit By Indemnity Plan

British Columbia fishermen are taking increasing advantage of the Fishermen's Indemnity Plan, a federal government scheme of insurance for small and medium type fishing boats, according to a report issued by Blake A. Campbell, Pacific area administrator of the plan.

The number of fishermen covered under the scheme last year increased to 1,415, representing about 25 per cent of the total eligible boats in the province. This number included 910 renewals and 510 fishermen covered for the first time in 1957.

Total value of boats covered in B.C. by the end of December was $6,800,000, an increase of $1,700,000 over the corresponding date in 1956.

Compared with maritime provinces, British Columbia is far ahead in coverage for fishing boats under the government plan. Of the 4,168 vessels valued at $10,658,000 covered for the whole of Canada, B.C.'s 1,418 boats are valued at a little short of $7,000,000.

Since the inception of the plan in 1954, premiums collected have risen from $18,000 to nearly $62,000 last year. Claims paid by the government have risen correspondingly.

During the year one major change was made by the government, whereby the maximum appraised value of vessels insurable was increased from $7,000 to $10,000. It was pointed out that this increase was mainly due to the increased cost of fishing vessel construction.

Senators Urge UN Role In Space for Peace Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four United States senators, all former American delegates to the United Nations, endorsed today a proposal that members of the world organization be invited to join in a program aimed at manning space for peace.

They did not indicate whether they thought Russia would go along with the idea, put forth by Senator Lyndon Johnson (Dem, Tex.).

Senators Hubert Humphrey (Dem, Minn.), John Sparkman (Dem, Ala.), H. Alexander Smith (Rep, N.J.) and John Sherman Cooper (Rep, Ky.) voiced approval in separate interviews of Johnson's suggestion, which would include also a broad exchange of satellite information.

Johnson, the Senate Democratic leader, heads the Senate preparedness subcommittee's inquiry into the missile and satellite programs.

He told a meeting Tuesday that efforts should be made to enlist Russia and all other members of the UN to share the endeavor to make outer space an "outpost for peace."

There was no immediate administration reaction to the proposal.

Humphrey said of Johnson's proposal:

"A move of this kind would have the sympathetic support of the majority of the nations and the people of the world. If Russia accepted, it could lead to a better world understanding.

"If the Soviets rejected the idea, at least we would have done what we could for peace. It would be kind of nice to be on the initiative."

Cooper said Johnson's idea parallels that of President Eisenhower for world co-operation in the development of atomic energy for peaceful purposes.

"I am for any move that would advance the prospects of peaceful control of space," Cooper said.

Sparkman said that an invitation such as Johnson proposed could be regarded only as "a step forward in the struggle for peace."

Smith agreed with Johnson's thesis that a buildup in weapons alone will not be sufficient to maintain American security. In offering his plan Johnson said the U.S. needs "far more than a purely military response to the Soviet challenge."

Russians Close Canal, Hold Up U.S. Trains on Way to Berlin

BERLIN (Reuters) — Four United States trains were delayed by Soviet officials at the East-West German border Tuesday night.

An American Army spokesman said Soviet officials at frontier Marienborn demanded "documentary procedures other than those customarily followed."

The train commanders refused and asked to be allowed to go either to their destinations or back to their points of origin.

The trains finally were allowed to proceed without undergoing any special checks.

The trains, which were up to 10 hours late, carried service personnel, mail and perishable goods.

CLOSE FREIGHT ARTERY

The rail delays coincided with Communist action today against another main communications artery linking Western Germany with Berlin—the Mittelland Canal.

East German authorities closed the canal system "for urgent repairs" to some locks. They said the repairs will require eight weeks.

The canal system brings most of West Berlin's coal supplies from West Germany as well as other heavy freight. Lock repairs normally are carried out when the waterway is frozen over and not in use.

Inco Research helps Canada grow

Last October, with spring coming on in Little America, thirty-eight massive sleds began snaking their way across shelf ice, carrying hundreds of tons of supplies on a rigorous 600-mile trek to a U.S. geophysical expedition at an outpost near the South Pole. The sleds were especially designed and built right here in Canada. Essential parts of the sleds are made of ductile iron, a relatively new alloy developed by Inco metallurgists after years of research. These ductile iron parts have withstood the severe Antarctic conditions in fine style.

Lifeline for Antarctic Expedition

Ductile iron, a research development of Inco, is used for parts on Canadian-made sleds carrying supplies to South Pole.

For generations, metallurgists and foundrymen had been trying to develop a metal as strong as steel and as easy to cast as ordinary grey iron.

After years of research, Inco metallurgists came up with the answer in the development of ductile iron.

Ductile iron is a type of cast iron that can be twisted and bent without breaking. It has many other remarkable characteristics. For example, in these heavy duty sleds, used by the South Pole expedition, the ductile iron parts withstand heavy stresses at temperatures as low as 70° below zero F.

Ductile iron is only one of many important products developed by Inco research. For research is as much a part of Inco's operations as the production of metals.

Through research, Inco helps stimulate the growth of Canadian industry and provides jobs in Canada.

STEWART & HUDSON
COMPLETE BUILDING MATERIAL SERVICE

WHEN BUYING LUMBER
You naturally consider the various factors which enter into the transaction such as the grade and quality—the lengths—the species—the size—the availability—the price—the delivery—the terms. All these points must be considered before you are satisfied that you are obtaining the best value for your outlay. We believe that we at Stewart & Hudson are able to offer you the best selection and value in building lumber because of

WE WILL FINANCE YOUR LUMBER PURCHASES
Take advantage of our credit plans for home builders and contractors. Special arrangements offered to meet your building program.

IT'S CENTENNIAL YEAR
And a good year to consider renovating your present home. Older homes offer bargains in terms of livable space and when brought up to 1958 standards will give you greater living comfort and convenience—more security on your investment and a higher resale value of your property.
Stewart & Hudson will finance all building materials for home modernization and if required will include contractors' labor, electrical, plumbing work, etc. Take advantage of our generous terms at the lowest financing rates in town.

WORTH REPEATING
Yes, it's worth repeating that Stewart & Hudson have the complete color range of new Flamenco line floor tiles. The smartest color combinations in town, with colors and patterns to harmonize in any room. Why not be among the first to have a new tile floor in that kitchen, bathroom or hall. Best of all, due to Stewart & Hudson carload buy, these extra quality floor tiles cost no more at only, per 9x9 tile ... 13c

REAL VALUE WITH INSULATING WALLBOARD
Yes, it's cheaper and easier to use insulating wallboard that's factory painted. No further finish needed, easy to saw and nail—looks smart and modern, too. For those cracked ceilings, use Simpson Ceiling Tiles, available in four sizes. New tongue and groove joint, easy to Bostitch in place. See the comparison of old and new in our showroom.

T.V. with Lee.

Vince Martinez and Gil Turner Fight Elimination Bout at 7

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

CHATTER—One of the most interesting features of Shirley Temple's return to showbusiness via NBC-TV's fairy-tales is how her show will do rating-wise against such Sunday night leaders as ABC-TV's "Maverick" and CBS-TV's Ed Sullivan.

If one may judge by her opening presentation, "Beauty and the Beast," starring England's gifted and beautiful Claire Bloom and the talented Charlton Heston, she and her tales are going to provide formidable opposition to one and all.

The first offering was sheer delight.

TV TEE-HEES

And although the fantasies may prove tedious to the more jaundiced and cynical of the oldsters such, doubtless, will be the clamor raised by the young fry that most home sets will be tuned in whenever there is a Shirley Temple show to be had.

But lordy, lordy, doesn't it all make you feel so ancient? There, as narrator, was "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," "The Little Colonel" and "Little Miss Marker," once the curly-haired kid with the dimpled grin, the No. 1 draw at the box office of the 1930s, all grown-up and beautiful, the mother of three sprouts of her own. No wonder our blood feels so tired.

★ ★ ★

WE WERE entirely happy that the much buffetted-by-fate-couple received so much saturday night on the new program "End of the Rainbow," namely a brand new house, some land to put it on, all the furnishings, including the latest in electrical gadgets, a car and a playground for the grandchildren.

The reason we are happy for them, of course, is that we don't think the program will be around much longer. At least we hope not. For "End of the Rainbow" must be chalked up as the most appallingly ill-conceived and tasteless show ever to disgrace television. Watching others suffer is bad enough—even for joy—but when the suffering is for ratings and a program's popularity it becomes merely a lesson in bad manners.

And once again a nod of thanks to Michael Rose for carrying on with the column while we wound up the final week of our holidays.

Children's Corner

5.00: Wild Bill Hickok, Channel 5; Cartoon Special, 11; Western movies, 12, 13.

5.30: Rin Tin Tin, Channels 2, 6; Mickey Mouse Club, 5; Popeye Theatre, 11.

6.00: Our Miss Brooks, Channel 4; Kit Carson, 5; Willy, 12.

Sport

6.00: Channel 11: Roundup.
6.30: Channel 6: Roundup.
Channel 13: Pat McMurty.
6.45: Channel 13: Clay Huntington.
7.00: Channel 5: Boxing: Vince Martinez takes on Gil Turner in a 12-round elimination welterweight bout at Philadelphia. This should be a dilly. Martinez is ranked No. 4 and Turner No. 5 in the battle for Carmen Basilio's vacated throne.
7.45: Channel 5: Bill O'Mara.
8.00: Channel 11: Basketball: Seattle U plays Montana State.
11.00: Channel 13: Wrestling from Hollywood.
11.10: Channel 6: Toronto wrestling.

Headliners

4.30
Channels 6, 2: Liberal convention live. Speeches of candidates for an hour.

6.30
Channel 11: The return of the juvenile western, "Cisco Kid."

7.00
Channel 4: Truth or Consequences quiz.
Channel 11: Patti Page's Big Record guests include Pee Wee Hunt, Carol Channing, Bill Hayes, Nick Lucas, and the Del Vikings singers.

7.30
Channels 6, 2: Quay South in place of Disneyland.
Channel 4: James Whitmore stars in Wagon Train's "The Gabe Carswell Story." The elderly white has a rugged time in making up his mind what to do when his bitter half-Indian son decides to raid the wagon train.

8.00
Channel 5: Disneyland offers "Donald's Weekend." Louie, Duey and Hughie are promised a treat at the circus by their Uncle Donald Duck—if they first cut wood.

8.30
Channels 6, 2: Wyatt Earp holds his contest in spite of the gamblers.
Channel 4: In Father Knows Best, Bud trades his watch for some bongo drums in an effort to become the life of the party.
Channel 12: I've Got a Secret.

9.00
Channels 6, 2: Thomas Mitchell and Peggy Ann Garner star in the Kraft repeat, "The Velvet Trap." Should Arthur Whitehall accept the Washington appointment? His daughter doesn't think so.
Channel 4: Kraft's latest stars Walter Matthau and Nancy Walker in "Code of the Corner." A respectable businessman learns that his brother has been killed by hoods.
Channel 5: Renegade Civil War veterans raise a lot of you-know-what in Tombstone Territory.

9.30
Channel 5: Ricky continues singing on the Ozzie and Harriet show as David helps him get a date with an airline stewardess.

10.00
Channels 6, 2: Chevy Show features Tow Ewell, Shirley Maclaine, John Raitt and Anna Maria Alberghetti.
Channel 4: Ralph Edwards' This Is Your Life.

11.30
Channel 4: Of course, there is Jack Paar's show—the best weekly show of the year.

Tonight's Movies

7.30: Channel 13: Bob Crosby, Jean Rogers in the musical, "Let's Make Music."
9.00: Channel 13: Jack La Rue and Hugh McDermott in the English drama, "No Orchids for Miss Blandish." Gangsters kidnap an American heiress.
10.35: Channel 11: Linda Darnell and Dan Duryea in "This Is My Love."
Channel 12: Tryone Power and Maureen O'Hara in "Black Swan." About a reforming pirate.
10.45: Channel 5: Ralph Richardson and Ann Todd in one of the finest air films of the age, "Breaking the Sound Barrier."
11.15: Channel 2: A repeat of the oft-repeated comedy about the "Belles of St. Trinians," with Alastair Sim.
1.00: Channel 13: "Let's Make Music."

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

THURSDAY, JANUARY 16, 1958

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)—Today you have within easy reach the letters and data from remote parts of the world, or from out of town that will be most helpful. It is up to you to make decisions quickly and see that they are the right ones.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—Seemingly out of the blue comes the inspiration how to best co-operate and deal with regular pals and associates for best results. Start operating on them immediately. Don't procrastinate or sleep on it.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—This is the right psychological time to get in touch with associates and discuss the rudiments of your plans and efforts for the future. Show your ace in the hole, co-operate, and cement long-term relations.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21)—Procrastination has been your downfall for some time. Let this not be another of those days or evenings. Get into action now, whether it be with personal or business affairs, motors, horses, etc. Action!

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—There is rare pleasure in store for you today if you will only plan the day and follow through with plans. Show how affectionate, talented you are. Tonight then is even more wonderful for enjoyment, filling soul with joy.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—Don't wait another moment. Scrutinize those affairs, situations at home. You are mentally and physically strong now to cope with them and bring to most satisfactory solution in this vital sphere. Be clever.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—Step out early and make those calls on trade, friends, relatives, any with whom you want real understanding, friendship, success. Good day for errands, also, and study. But don't neglect your paper first!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—Don't dream today. Wake up to all the opportunities about you and you can make money plentifully. Get a better financial plan set up, a more lenient one. Generosity and bigger ideas will work wonders soon.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—Here is your kind of day at last! There is so much you want to do, accomplish. Get right out and succeed now, but take care you do not drive others too forcibly, ruin things at the last moment.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—All those secret anglings that so please you—you can enjoy yourself thoroughly today at them. But think more magnanimously. Plan time in which to contact powerful persons. Speak their language and pull yourself up.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Your desires are closer to fruition than you anticipate, so refrain from wasting time with great numbers of persons whom you believe to be worthwhile and important, while neglecting the truly fine and real.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)—This is the day to repair immediately to that influential person who can and will give you the valuables, support, prestige you need. Be specific with your desires, plans and win out. Also, be grateful, show courtesy merited.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN THURSDAY . . .

The child born Thursday is the dynamic tot who will require much attention given to his or her activities, so plan sports, games, etc., cleverly or your youngster will wear you out completely. Thereby, the habit of constructive work, thinking will be formed early and then life's patterns can be worked out easily and naturally. Here we have the master of his own ship, and the wife of the diplomat, especially.

REDSTONE FIRING HOPE FOR U.S. SATELLITE

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The United States Army today checked over tape and photographic records of the launching of its big Redstone missile for clues that might help it put an American-style Sputnik into an orbit.

The Redstone was sent up into a starlit, cloudless, moonless sky from the air force missile test centre here Tuesday night.

Six Months' Grace Given Hanna Permit

OTTAWA (CP)—The permit allowing George Christian Hanna to remain in Canada has been extended six months to June 16, acting immigration minister Fulton said today.

Hanna was allowed entry to Canada a year ago at Vancouver after spending months on a freighter. He said he had no citizenship papers.

Mr. Fulton, replying in the Commons to J. W. Pickersgill, former Liberal immigration minister, said the extension has been granted to determine whether Hanna will be a "good Canadian for the future."

Mr. Pickersgill asked whether Hanna had surrendered to the immigration department at Vancouver and asked to be put on a ship.

Mr. Fulton said Hanna went to the immigration department and asked for help. This indicated Hanna's relationship with the department was more friendly than when the department was under a Liberal administration.

The department would see what help it could give Hanna.

Mr. Pickersgill asked whether Hanna has a job.

Mr. Fulton said he doesn't know.

World Snooker Crown On Line at Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — World snooker champion Fred Davis of Wales will lay his title on the line in a match against North American champion George Chenier here next month.

The 61-game series will be played Feb. 6-11 at Exhibition Gardens as the first major sporting event of British Columbia's Centennial Year.

Davis has held the world championship eight times and has been undefeated since 1951.

Liberals May Ask All Members For Campaign Funds

BIRTHDAY BAUBLE

First of Centennial Year decorations was put up on Legislative Buildings today. Wooden plaque, with B.C. coat of arms and motto and green and gold centennial colors, will be followed by flags and bunting when winter weather is over. Other government buildings throughout province will also be decorated. Freely translated, the motto "Splendor Sine Occasu" means "splendor without diminishment." (Times Photo by Halkett.)

Full Work Objective Proposed

OTTAWA (CP) — The Liberals today brought a "new look" to their basic faith.

The 150-member resolutions committee at the party's national convention recommended a redesign of the preamble to the party platform, declaring that not only must there be high employment and social security in Canada but that these must be "constantly improved."

This appeared to be going a step farther than the "fighting faith" adopted at the 1948 convention when the party declared itself in favor of high employment and security.

The newly-proposed preamble spoke not of high employment but of "full" employment. Undoubtedly this would be one of the top planks in the new platform, politically aimed at the concern of Canadians over high unemployment.

KEY WORDS

The Liberals' three key words —unity, security and freedom— were retained, but to these were added democracy, progress and peace.

Emphasis was placed on the "international peace which Canada through co-operation seeks for all mankind"; "the full democracy, bred in freedom, that creates social justice and welfare for all"; and the "rapid progress, spiritual and material, that is based on freedom and creative initiative."

Emphasis also was placed on "fairness."

The Liberals sought "fairness for pioneers who in remote areas still carry the burdens of our country's development; fairness for farmers on the land and for fishermen on our shores; fairness for workers in our factories and offices, forests and mines; fairness for all those of every race and creed who have come from many lands and made Canada their home."

MARTIN STILL HOPES FOR WIN OVER PEARSON

OTTAWA (CP)—Paul Martin, generally considered by observers at the national Liberal convention to be trailing Lester B. Pearson, said today he still believes he will win the party leadership.

"This thing is rolling," he told reporters after his nomination papers were filed. "This is the 1919 convention all over again."

In 1919, the late Mackenzie King was considered a "dark horse" candidate and came through to win the leadership and hold it until he retired in 1948.

"The rank and file are going to assert themselves in a manner that will show that Liberalism is of the grass," Mr. Martin said.

HUTCHISON IN OTTAWA

The Old Leader Takes His Bow

By BRUCE HUTCHISON, Editor of The Times

LIBERAL CONVENTION HALL, Ottawa—Tuesday night the Liberal convention heard the parting advice of its old leader Louis St. Laurent.

Today it began to interpret his sharp warning as an election platform, although both its eyes and its hopes were centred on a new leader, Lester Pearson.

Mr. St. Laurent is taking no direct part in the revision of Liberal policy. He is leaving everything to his successor. But in his last appearance before his party he summed up the conclusions of his several victories and his final defeat.

With the blunt candor which has always been his sovereign virtue as a politician, he advised the convention "to promise only what we believe we can perform and benefit Canada by performing, to trust the people and deserve their trust."

Hutchison

These were general words uttered in a moment of high emotion and their meaning may have been lost on a screaming audience of 5,000.

But they were clear to the party managers in the back rooms where the new platform is being slowly fashioned plank by plank.

Mr. St. Laurent was telling his successors not to seek election by the fraud of impossible promises but to look beyond a spring campaign to the long future of the nation.

But tonight, as the first planks of the platform emerge from a managing committee of 150 party hierchs representing every part of the nation, we shall see whether the old leader's counsel is to be followed or whether the opposition intends to out bid the government in costly election bait.

The work of re-assessment, the prospect of an early doubtful election and the absence of any serious contest for the party's leadership have made this a dull convention so far. As a spectacle it is far less exciting than the Conservative convention of 1956 when John Diefenbaker had to fight desperately for leadership against a Quebec revolt, whereas Mr. Pearson is hardly going through the motions of a fight today.

Not leadership, but policy and strategy, are the Liberal party's real business here, and up to now that business has been done privately in the committee rooms. In the next few hours the committees' recommendations must run the gauntlet of the whole convention in public and it is evident already that some of the younger Liberals are deeply dissatisfied with the party's recent management.

New 'Purity' Plan Before Convention

OTTAWA (BUP)—A "political purity" resolution today was added to the grist of proposals being processed in the platform mill of the national Liberal convention.

The resolution was sponsored by the Ontario delegation and advocated:

—A minimum contribution annually from every rank-and-file Liberal toward the expenses of national election campaigns.

—A limit upon the expenditures which any individual candidate might make in his campaign.

—Annual disclosure by political parties of the sources of all contributions to their funds.

—exemplary penalties for violations of any of the last three provisions.

The resolution was argued by Ray Tower of Toronto and seconded by Reginald Wheeler of Wentworth. It was sent for consideration behind the closed doors of the convention resolutions committee.

Other resolutions presented from the floor of the convention today dealt with the problems of natural resources, freight rates, export of Alberta gas and oil and other miscellaneous topics.

The Alberta resolution on natural resources was presented by Ralph Walker of Calgary. It urged a policy of resources development which would consider the interests of future generations, but subject to this condition it recommended energetic action to expand export markets for the province's oil and gas resources.

The Alberta resolution also recommended taxation concessions which would encourage Canadian capital to undertake the development of Canadian resources.

Robert Moffatt, Winnipeg, submitted a proposal from the Manitoba delegation to prevent any increases in existing freight rates and also to ensure the maintenance of the Crow's Nest Pass rates on grain.

TAX MATCHED

"Canadians are spending on freight transportation annually as much as they are paying in income tax," Moffatt told the convention.

"There just shouldn't be any increase over such a proposal."

On behalf of the Atlantic coast, fisherman Russell McKay, Lockport, N.S., submitted a comprehensive resolution for encouragement of the fishing industry. Nova Scotian proposals included low-interest-rate loans to fishermen for gear and boats, aid to navigation, stimulation to marketing and plans for more stable returns, lower boat and equipment insurance rates, better enforcement of the 12-mile limit against trawlers and draggers, greater aid to cold storage and other marketing measures.

Three in Race As Nominations Come to Close

OTTAWA (BUP) — Nominations of leadership candidates for the national Liberal convention closed today with three still in the race.

They were: former external affairs minister and Nobel peace prize winner Lester B. Pearson; former health minister Paul Martin; and Mayor Lloyd Henderson of Portage La Prairie, Man.

The close of nominations ended speculation about possible dark-horse candidates such as former finance minister Walter Harris and Mayor Don Mackay of Calgary.

Leadership candidates will make their nominating speeches starting at 7.30 p.m. (4.30 p.m. PST) today before some 1,500 voting delegates and a national television audience.

10 SIGN FOR PEARSON

Voting for the new leader will be Thursday evening, with the winner declared on the basis of an overall majority—761 if all the delegates vote.

The nomination of Pearson was moved by former Liberal MP John Decore of Edmonton and seconded by Lucien Cardin, former parliamentary assistant to the minister of external affairs.

The names of the 10 persons signing Pearson's nomination papers included representatives of eight provinces.

Edward J. Schmaltz, of Kitchener, Ont., was the mover of Mr. Henderson's nomination. The seconder was Stuart Smith, 19-year-old student at McGill University and an officer of the Canadian University Liberal Federation.

Mr. Martin's nomination was moved by James E. Brown, former MP for Brantford, Ont., and seconded by Marcel Boivin, sitting Commons member for Shefford, Que.

Among others signing Mr. Martin's nomination was James G. Gardiner, former agriculture minister. He was the only former Liberal cabinet minister to sign nomination papers of any of the three candidates.

May Visit U.S.

LONDON (UP) — Princess Margaret may visit the United States this year after her tours of the West Indies and Canada, a Buckingham Palace spokesman said today. The spokesman stressed it was only a possibility and no firm plans have been made.

Summit Approved

BONN (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer tonight gave conditional approval to a new East-West summit meeting but turned down a Communist proposal for a European zone free of atomic weapons.

CPR Passenger Train Derailed; Line Blasted

VANCOUVER (CP) — A passenger train was derailed near Grand Forks today after the CPR track was blown up in the latest of a series of bomb plots in the West Kootenay district of British Columbia.

No one was injured, a CPR spokesman said. The engine, baggage car and one day coach of the east-bound Kettle Valley branch line train remained upright.

RCMP sent for a dog to follow tracks leading from the damaged section of the track, 18 miles east of Grand Forks.

The CPR spokesman said a bomb had blown out two ties and left a hole 18 inches deep under one rail. The derailment damaged 300 feet of track.

Last weekend, unexploded bombs were found in theatres at Nelson, Castlegar and Trail. The fuse on one of the bombs had been lit, but smouldered and went out.

About 1,500 people were in the theatres at the time the bombs are believed to have been planted.

RCMP said they have a good idea who was responsible for the theatre bombs. They would not elaborate, but said earlier they were following "all lines of investigation, including Sons of Freedom Doukhobors."

Higher Pulp, Lumber Sales Seen by Hees

VANCOUVER (CP)—Transport Minister Hees today forecast higher sales of Canadian lumber and wood pulp at home and abroad during 1958.

In an address to the Truck Loggers' Association, Mr. Hees said the "Canadian lumber industry can expect a better year in 1958 than in 1957, in both Canada and the United States while at the same time other export markets should maintain or increase the volume of their purchases from Canada."

"In the domestic market, the demand for lumber for housing purposes shows definite trends of an increase in demand."

Ottawa to Maintain Access Tourist Roads

OTTAWA (CP) — The resources department announced today it is taking over maintenance of all access roads "of reasonable length" to isolated tourist developments in Canada's national parks. Until now, resort operators had shared maintenance costs.

Two roads in Banff Park in Alberta and one in Yoho Park in British Columbia are immediately affected by the decision.

105 Miles for Fuchs

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (Reuters)—British explorer Vivian Fuchs today was reported 105 miles from the South Pole in his bid to confound critics of his plans to complete the first-ever overland journey across the Antarctic continent.

OIL IMPORTS PROTEST SENT

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Smith said today the Canadian protest against American restrictions on Canadian oil imports will be sent to Washington today.

U.K. Note Approved

PARIS (Reuters) — Britain's reply to Premier Bulganin's "peace" letter of Dec. 10 was approved by all members of the Atlantic pact at its permanent council meeting here today, sources close to NATO said.

Norway Ship Split in Two In Raging Sea

AMSTERDAM (AP) — The Norwegian tanker Seirstad split in two in a raging Mediterranean storm today and at least 28 of its 38 crew members were rescued. The French admiralty said 10 other crew, reported missing earlier, were still aboard the severed bow.

The bow of the 9,974-ton ship was reported earlier to have sunk. But the French admiralty in Algiers said both parts of the ship were afloat. An admiralty spokesman said the bow had drifted away but was spotted late this afternoon. All ships in the vicinity were ordered to the rescue of the 10 stranded men.

Blast at 'Brass' Last Martin Try

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

CONVENTION HALL, OTTAWA — Supporters of Paul Martin are attempting an open revolt at the Liberal convention here against what they call the party "brass". But it is doubtful that this movement will get far.

Tuesday night James Brown, chairman of the "Martin for Leader" committee, issued a statement denouncing the ruling Liberal hierarchy and saying that "if the brass feel that this party can survive only through their dictates as a closed corporation telling the delegates how they should think then the time has come for new leadership with an ear to the ground and an eye to the future."

Mr. Martin did not write but endorsed this statement which clearly is aimed at Lester Pearson, leading candidate for party leadership. While Mr. Pearson was silent his friends were furious at what they considered a blow below the belt.

They took Mr. Brown's statement as a sure sign that the Martin forces have realized their defeat and are now desperate.

It is not yet known, however, whether this struggle behind the scenes will reach the convention floor or whether Mr. Martin will attack the brass when he speaks tonight. It is certain, however, that he has damaged himself greatly and perhaps pemanently with most of his former cabinet colleagues by attempting to suggest through his spokesman that he leads the party's progressive wing and that Mr. Pearson is the leader of the forces defeated last June.

Though today's unpleasantness is regretted, party leaders think it will do no harm in practical politics but will only go to show that the Liberal party is democratic with freedom for all dissenters.

British Troops Rush To Bahamas Strike

NASSAU, Bahamas (CP) — British colonial authorities rushed planeloads of troops to the Bahamas today in a bid to prevent violence in a general strike gripping this sunny resort city.

Two planes, each carrying 40 troops, landed early today from Jamaica with troops of the Worcester Regiment. About 150 troops are expected by nightfall. Police are on a 24-hour alert.

The strike has paralyzed the Bahamas tourist trade and dislocated plans of thousands of visitors, most of them Americans and Canadians. Hundreds are cutting short their winter vacations and attempting to leave the islands.

Ike Scorns Reports Dulles Offer to Quit

WASHINGTON (CP)—President Eisenhower today described as "trash" reports that John Foster Dulles had offered to resign as secretary of state.

Eisenhower, in answer to a press conference question, said that Dulles would be the last person he would want to see resign.

A reporter said there had been a published report recently that Dulles had submitted his resignation and that the president had rejected it.

When the reporter asked Eisenhower whether he could confirm it, Eisenhower angrily interjected to ask whether the reporter himself had written the story.

He was told that there had been such a published account and also that Dulles was under severe criticism both at home and abroad.

Eisenhower said that Dulles is the wisest and most dedicated man he knows. He added that he believes Dulles has a greater knowledge in his field than any other man.

He also reiterated his view that there must be "proper" preparation before he will agree to meet Soviet leaders in a summit conference.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Lord God, uphold us this day by Thy grace and might. Without Thee our vision is clouded, our hands are weak, our hope is gone. But Thou canst open our eyes. Thou canst give strength in our endeavors and joy in bearing burdens. Thanks be to Thee, O Lord; in Thy Son's name. Amen.

Montreal Canadiens Willing To Discuss Cougars Pact

Possibility of Victoria Cougars making a hook-up with the front-running NHL Montreal Canadiens next year was confirmed in a long-distance telephone call today between the local club and managing director Frank Selke of Les Canadiens.

Negotiations between the two clubs were opened January 6 when a Victoria director wrote Selke, inquiring about possible player help, and asking if Les Canadiens would be interested in taking on Cougars as a farm club next year.

Selke replied that legal restrictions made it impossible for his own Royals and Rochester to acquire much-needed players, and that he could hold out no hope for player help this season.

"However," he added, "we are quite willing to talk and it's possible that we may be able to work out an arrangement for next season."

Selke was not aware of the hubbub created locally by the dismissal of Colin Kilburn, but commented:

"Hockey management requires a special kind of talent—a combination of management know-how, ambition and good judgment.

"I know Pat Egan well and would be happy to do anything I can to assist him in establishing himself as a hockey executive."

A director of Cougars will huddle with Selke in Montreal early next month.

AT LIBERAL CONVENTION

Irate Granny Seizes Mike to Get Attention

OTTAWA (CP) — Mrs. Nellie Burke, a 65-year-old Regina grandmother, seized a Liberal convention microphone today and demanded that resolutions proposers "get a full house's attention."

Mrs. Burke, hopping mad when she reached a microphone to support a protest made earlier by Therese M. Giroday of Winnipeg, became even more irate when her microphone was cut from the public-address circuit.

"You get the power turned back onto this microphone, Mr. Chairman," she shouted. "I'm going to talk."

Scattered groups in the nearly-empty convention hall supported her stand, taken only an hour after the chairman tossed out a protest by another Manitoba delegate for more discussion of resolutions from the floor.

Allan Cantor of Winnipeg, president of the Manitoba Young Liberals, had been ruled out of order when he tried to change the order of business.

Chairman on both occasions was Roy Power of Halifax, national president of the Young Liberals.

Mrs. Burke's ire was drawn by delegate and platform reaction to a resolution proposed by William Norrie, a youthful Liberal from Winnipeg, and seconded by 23-year-old Miss Giroday. Mr. Norrie had proposed that Canada's trade be freer with all countries.

Miss Giroday opened her remarks as seconder by asking Mr. Power to "relay my protest to the brass."

"We asked to speak when the hall was full," she said, referring to Mr. Cantor's earlier request.

"We were not allowed to."

"Not there is almost no one here, and you can see why we asked."

Mrs. Burke, seeing that Miss Giroday was not speaking close enough to the microphone to be heard, went up and gently pushed her closer.

When the young woman had finished, Mrs. Burke took over.

"Miss Giroday had the right to make her complaint," she started and then the microphone went dead.

"She should have had a full house to hear what she had to say. I don't mind admitting that I'm a very old campaigner—I'm old and not afraid to say so.

"We're asked to encourage the younger members of the party to be more active. The young man who proposed this resolution and the young woman who seconded it are both young members, and if they and others like them do not receive the attention they deserve this party risks losing them.

"I demand that they get full attention from a full hall."

Interviewed later, Mrs. Burke, provincial treasurer for the Saskatchewan Women Liberals and a past president of the provincial organization, said "I was forced to speak: I'm so angry."

"They tell us to go out to the grass roots—well, I am the grass roots," she said, adding that she is a native of Manchester, Lancashire and has three children and 10 grandchildren.

. . . HUTCHISON

Last night they found a vibrant voice in Premier Joseph Smallwood of Newfoundland, a tiny birdlike and impassioned figure who pronounced the unpalatable theory that Liberalism had remained in office too long, that a change was good for it and that as an opposition it must sink its roots anew into the common stuff of humanity.

Still Party of the Little Men

This is easily said and Mr. Smallwood said it with rough eloquence. But how is it to be translated into policy? How is Mr. Pearson to reconvince a dubious electorate that Liberalism is still as in its younger days the party of the little man? Above all, how is this to be done without promising the impossibilities rejected by Mr. St. Laurent?

While these problems of prineiple and tactics were being argued wherever two or more delegates met together, the convention took Tuesday night off for its final tribute to Mr. St. Laurent.

His farewell to politics was typical of the man, and precisely like his arrival some 16 years ago. He came to Ottawa without fuss or fanfare to do a job of work. The job finished, he left with only a few simple words of thanks to his party and the nation.

It would have been easy for some ghost writer to provide him with an oration, but in this last act he refused to step out of his natural role and attempt a public posture different from his private life. Hence his speech, taken as a speech was not in the least remarkable, contained no purple passages and sounded rather like a father's casual advice to his children.

Yet this picture was unforgettable—the brisk little man with terrier face, the eloquent gallic twist of the shoulders, the sharp Anglo-Saxon accent and in his whole person an air of serene integrity untouched by political defeat.

He was not a politician when he came to Ottawa, had not mastered the political game when he left it. And in this final hour he scorned the tricks of the orator.

Last Time Before Followers

The spontaneous outpouring of emotion, as he stood for the last time before his followers, was a tribute not to the statesman but to the man. He did not seem to feel it in the beginning, read his speech in a crisp matter-of-fact fashion and then, half way through the written text, looked up to realize of a sudden his place in the hearts of his friends.

His voice dropped, he hesitated a moment and almost overcome by his own feelings struggled doggedly through the concluding paragraphs. From a box, his three handsome daughters watched him anxiously.

His wife smiled encouragement from a chair beside him, and as he stepped back from the rostrum, Louis St. Laurent could hardly fight back his tears.

With tense drawn face he listened but perhaps did not hear Mr. Smallwood's formal tribute and the shouts of the audience.

Soon it was all over.

The photographers swarmed to the platform and recorded a smiling old gentleman, his wife on his arm and their carefree years ahead.

Never did he look better in body and spirit than at this moment of political defeat and personal triumph.

Nothing so became his life in politics as his taking leave of it.

DIEFENBAKER IN BED FOR REST OF WEEK

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker is expected to spend the remainder of this week in bed or working at home in an effort to clear up a wrenched back.

His office said today the prime minister probably will continue to work from his bed at his official residence at 24 Sussex Street. Apart from some pain and discomfort, he is feeling well and is in good health.

Timber, Gas Rights Sales Under Probe

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police here are investigating reports by two persons that they paid nearly $10,000 for non-existent timber and gas rights.

Arthur Edward Anderson said he paid $3,750 for a one-sixth interest in a timber stand at Harrison Lake, B.C., but could not locate the timber.

Miss Florence Cooper, 76, reported paying $5,578 for petroleum and natural gas rights on 240 acres in Alberta. She said she subsequently discovered the property did not exist.

Victorians Praise Live TV On Big Liberal Convention

By PHIL LEE
Times TV Editor

For the first time in history a Canadian political convention is being telecast live, and whatever it costs the people most Victorians agree that it is worth it.

From 5 to 6 p.m. Tuesday, citizens were treated to a front row seat of the national Liberal convention as it took place at Ottawa almost 3,000 miles away.

In fact, owing to the excellence of the CBC camera work, it would be not going too far to say that Victorians had a more intimate view of the proceedings than most of the 2,500 delegates. The convention will choose a new party leader on Thursday.

EXCELLENT RESULTS

Just as they did for Queen Elizabeth's opening of Parliament last autumn, CBC officials brought the proceedings to those areas of Canada not yet linked together by the microwave "cable" by utilizing available U.S. cables. The results were excellent.

As though he was standing in the same room with each of the thousands of viewers from coast-to-coast, Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent, Liberal leader and former prime minister, made his swan song.

While the historic speech was in progress, the cameras gently flickered from delegate to delegate. There was the bright-faced woman, the gently dozing delegate and the man whose mouth sucked in then out, almost in rhythm with Mr. St. Laurent's words.

JUNE COMPLETION

The live production underlined for all viewers the necessity, in the name of national unity, for the completion of the micro-wave link, now in its final stages of construction. It is hoped that Victoria, along with British Columbia, will be linked to eastern Canada sometime in June of this year.

All in all, the CBC will cover the Liberal convention five times. All but two will be brought in live. The remainder of the programs are as follows:

Tonight candidates' speeches of acceptance will be brought in live from 4.30 to 5.30. Thursday a recording of nomination of candidates will be replayed. At 6 p.m. Thursday, acceptance speech of the new Liberal leader will be heard live, lasting about one hour.

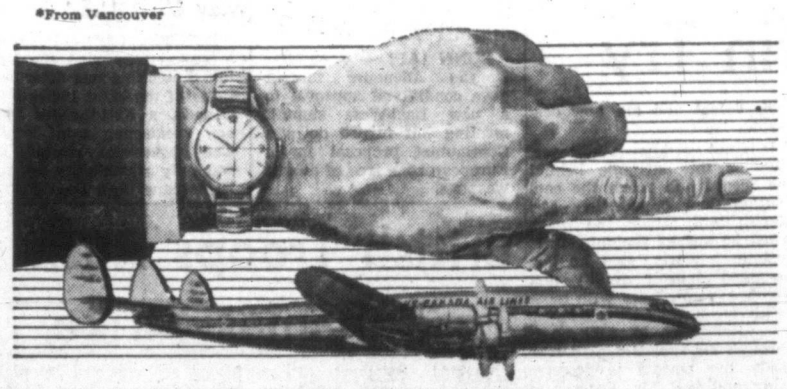

On Friday, the program will wind up with a recorded debate on resolutions from 2.15 until 3.45 p.m.

Premier Wants Action On Frobisher Project

Company Stalls on Plans For Hydro Development

Premier Bennett said today the Frobisher interests will be required by the provincial government to proceed "in due course" with their northern B.C. development.

The government expects to receive definite proposals on the subject, Mr. Bennett said.

That was the premier's answer to Frobisher president Allan J. Anderson, who said in Vancouver Tuesday the firm does not plan to go ahead for some time with its planned $50,000,000 hydro-electric metallurgical project on the Nass River.

NO MARKET

Mr. Anderson said that at the present time there is no market for power in northern B.C.

"Development work in the northern areas is hampered by a lack of population," he said.

"They knew that when they started," Premier Bennett retorted.

Mr. Bennett said, however, the government had set no specific time limit when Frobisher must proceed.

"It is not costing the people of B.C. anything," the premier said.

HOLDING BOND

The provincial government is holding a $2,500,000 "good faith" bond from Frobisher, which would be returned if the project doesn't proceed because the company has carried out extensive surveys.

Originally, Frobisher announced plans for a $200,000,000 development of the Yukon and Taku River headwaters, but switched attention to the Nass when the bigger scheme became embroiled in the international waterways controversy.

Frobisher also has interests in iron ore holdings in northern B.C., but Mr. Anderson said development is being held up because of recent changes in provincial mining legislation.

"Until the provincial government makes up its mind what it is going to do with iron ore, we will leave it where it is," he said.

OTHERS READY

Premier Bennett replied that Frobisher, if it abandons its holdings here, would be replaced by other firms which have expressed interest in establishing mines in B.C.

B.C.'s leasing system is the same as that in the Yukon and other parts of North America, the premier said.

"All legitimate mining firms will get fair treatment," he said.

It was the government's duty to protect the resources of the province for the people, the premier said.

Bennett Says House to Sit Eight Weeks

Legislature Opens Next Week

Forthcoming session of the B.C. Legislature will last seven or eight weeks, Premier Bennett predicted today.

The session, starting Jan. 23, will end before April 1, he said.

Prorogation could come close to the date of the federal election which has been forecast for the last week in March.

The premier said he is looking to the opposition to provide more constructive criticism this session.

Controversy should be on "legitimate issues," he said, without bitterness.

In the past the opposition has gone "off on a tangent" on many issues and provided only "hit and run" criticism.

"The opposition has fallen down badly in that respect," Mr. Bennett said.

ONE OF MILDEST WINTERS ON RECORD

326 Days Without Freezing

Victoria is headed for one of the mildest winters in its long and enviable weather record.

Not once this winter has the official thermometer at the Dominion weather office, Gonzales Heights, fallen below the freezing mark.

In fact, the last time the mercury slipped below 32 was Feb. 23, 1957, when it dropped briefly to 28 above.

This is the 326th consecutive day of above-freezing temperatures, and there is every indication the mild weather will continue.

Tuesday's high of 47 made Victoria the second warmest spot in Canada, beaten only by Prince Rupert, at 51.

Forecast calls for continuing mild temperatures, with cloudy skies and some rain. Weather disturbances in the Pacific are keeping the area protected by cloud, and preventing cold Arctic air from creeping in.

Throughout the area, flowers and birds are behaving as though spring were here. Nearly every suburban garden is playing host to robins, all of whom appear fat, sassy and well fed.

A wide variety of flowers is in bloom, including camellia, pansy, cherry, rose, shasta daisy, and many snowdrops. Daffodils have pushed shoots five and six inches high through the damp, warm soil.

Today William Mackie, Victoria's weatherman, searched the records for comparable mild spells, and found ample proof to this area's claim as the "banana belt."

Other long periods of consecutive days during which the official thermometer stayed above freezing were:

March 5, 1939, to Nov. 9, 1940; Jan. 26, 1925 to Dec. 11, 1926; Feb. 23, 1942 to Jan. 15, 1943; March 6, 1943, to March, 1944; Feb. 2, 1947, to Jan. 27, 1948; and Jan. 9, 1953, to Jan. 14, 1954.

'WAIT, SEE' ON JUMBO BEER GLASSES

Victoria beer parlor operators have adopted a "wait and see" policy over the new king-size 20-cent glass.

"We shall buy them if the other beer parlors do," one operator said — and "the other" parlors said the same.

So far not a single king-size glass has been seen in Victoria, although salesmen are canvassing local parlors for orders.

"They are quite expensive and we don't want to buy them unless the others do," a downtown operator said.

B.C. innkeepers voted to introduce the big glasses at a recent convention and the B.C. Liquor Control Board approved the move. The present 10-cent, six-ounce glass will continue to be offered as well as the jumbo schooner.

JUDY BOOTS

(Barking for Monte Roberts)

Well well well here it is January 15 1958 already and what do you know I am now four years of old.

Yes today it is my fourth birthday and in case you came in late I am Judy Boots Streak the friend of all the people also the female-type doggie who lives at the Old Man's house.

And as usual the Old Man has given me a birthday present he has given me the honor and privilege (that's what HE calls it) of filling this space for him.

The Old Man says I should be duly grateful for the chance to wish myself Happy Birthday and I guess he is right so Happy Birthday to me and thanks for all those letters and cards.

There is one thing about my birthday which is different from the Old Man's birthday the Old Man's birthday is May 24 and he never knows where May 24 will fall it usually falls on May 21 or 22 or 23 or 25 never on May 24 which confuses him a great deal and this is too bad he is confused enough already.

January 15 on the other hand always falls on January 15 and I find this a great help in finding out how old I am.

For your information I am now grown up and dignified and have long ago given up the playful ways of puppyhood in fact I am quite the elder stateswoman very philosophical and most wise.

In fact it is well known the only sensible and sane words which appear in this space are words which I put here although I have hopes for Little Miss Muffett the female-type cat she shows signs of growing up and gaining wisdom although she is not yet a year old.

If you do not believe me please read the letter which just this minute arrived:

"Dear Judy Boots Streak. Although a stranger to you may I wish you Many Happy Returns of your birthday in memory of the affection I have had in my life from doggies of various types.

"And may I congratulate you on your literary style and content when you bark for the Old Man—quite superior to his, really. But don't tell him I said so, or he may deprive you of your bed and bone.

"Sincerely, one of YOUR constituents."

Well well well thank you very much and do not worry about the Old Man depriving me of my bed and bone he saw what happened to Robbie the cocker spaniel yesterday when Robbie tried to deprive me of my bone. Hah!

So once more all together now Happy Birthday to Me.

May Celebrations Centenary Highlights

Greater Victoria annual May celebrations will be crammed into two days this year instead of the usual three to consolidate the event with the week-long B.C. Industrial and Agricultural Fair.

The joined events will extend from May 12 to May 19. Officials say the affair will be a highlight of centennial celebrations.

The Greater Victoria Celebrations Committee will take over the Jaycee-sponsored fair when it ends with the traditional queen-crowning Sat., May 17.

The queen will be crowned on the Parliament Buildings steps night of the 18th. The following day, Monday, May 19 will start with the Victoria Day parade in the morning.

A number of floats, some from out-of-town and U.S. points have already been promised and it is expected the Seattle police drill team will again take part, as well as the various services.

A motorcycle rodeo is set for Royal Athletic Park on the afternoon of the 19th, possibly combined or followed by a show by local riding clubs. A band concert is being arranged for Royal Theatre and Vancouver Island Western Square Dance Association plans a variety program at Memorial Arena at the same time.

GVCA returned Victoria alderman G. I. Edgelow to office as chairman at a meeting Tuesday night. Esquimalt councillor J. E. Carey is vice-chairman; Capt. Norman Foster, treasurer and Mrs. Ethel Bishop, secretary.

Five directors elected are Joseph Wright, James Nott, Mrs. A. McVie, M. F. Hunter and Lloyd Liesch.

Central Building Office for Sloan

The provincial government has secured offices in the Central Building, at View and Broad, for new forests adviser Gordon Sloan.

The government will enter a 10-year lease for the offices at a fee of $4,300 a year. It will also spend $15,000 on renovations.

Police Plan Nightly Check Of Schools

Esquimalt police have certain suspects in connection with an apparent attempt to burn Esquimalt High School Monday night.

Chief Gilbert Stancombe, heading an investigation into the incident in which four separate fires were set in the building, said he could not elaborate on what has been learned so far.

He was to meet today with a representative of the provincial fire marshal's office.

The fires, which caused only minor damage, were set in a desk drawer, a table, in a pile of papers on a floor and papers on a notice board.

Meanwhile, by agreement with the school board, Esquimalt police will carry keys to all schools in the municipality and make nightly checks of premises to prevent further vandalism.

Entry to the building had been made by smashing a window. A door pane also was broken.

After initial investigation at the scene another discovery was made.

Photograph and citation of a former student, Dr. Frederick Henry Sanders, of Defence Research Board, Ottawa, had been taken from its place of honor in the front hall, smashed and left in the mud outside the school.

Dr. Sanders, formerly of Pacific Naval Laboratory at HMC Dockyard, is a long acquaintance of Chief Stancombe.

Fast Ferry Plan Gets CPR Study

Canadian Pacific Steamships is now studying possibility of inaugurating a new ferry service between the lower mainland and the "Victoria area," Mayor Percy Scurrah was told today.

Reports from Vancouver, where Mayor Scurrah met with Defence Minister G. R. Pearkes and Transport Minister George Hees, indicate a race might be shaping to see who will be first with a fast ferry from Sidney to Steveston.

Transport Minister Hees is quoted as saying he and Gen. Pearkes had met last week in Ottawa with CPR representatives, who had expressed themselves willing to consider a ferry service.

Gen. Pearkes had earlier lent support to Mayor Scurrah's plan for a ferry which would offer a two-hour service.

Mr. Hees said, "we can't tell until they (the CPR) have studied this thing, whether there is sufficient traffic to justify it." He said he expected the CPR report to be ready in two or three months.

Mayor Scurrah, meanwhile, said he has assurances of a firm other than the CNR or CPR, which would start the service with a $4,000,000, 18-knot ferry, if the federal government would guarantee bond issues.

'Save Children' Official In Victoria March 1 to 3

Brig. T. W. Boyce, OBE, MC, MM, London, England, general secretary of the world-wide "Save the Children Fund," will visit Victoria during his Canadian tour March 1 to 3.

The brigadier arrives in New York early February with Countess Mountbatten of Burma, CI, GBE, DCVO, president of the organization. She will return to Burma after a speaking engagement in New York.

The general secretary will continue the tour, visiting Toronto, Montreal, Winnipeg, Vancouver and Victoria.

Mrs. W. W. McGill, Island representative of the Save the Children Fund, said today the brigadier is coming to Victoria "to thank the thousands of Sunday school children on the Island who have collected $10,479 for the fund in the past four years."

He likely will address the children at a Sunday school rally here, she said.

Other speaking engagements are being arranged by Mrs. McGill.

Further contributions to the fund may be sent to her at 3441 Mayfair.

Vokes to Inspect 'Pats' Next Week

Maj.-Gen. Chris Vokes, general officer commanding, Western Command, will inspect the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry at Work Point Barracks, Thursday, Jan. 23.

This will be his first official inspection since the battalion's arrival here from Germany in late December.

Maj.-Gen. Vokes also will tour army installations in Chilliwack, Ladner and Jericho Beach during his six-day visit in B.C.

The Great Potato Blight

The decline of America has been blamed on many things—education, the church, Sputnik, the move of the Dodgers, and even Elvis Presley.

I'm here to tell you: it's what they've done to the poor old Idaho baked potato.

Keate

There was a time, you may recall, when this superb viand could be consumed with salt, pepper, a pat of butter and (in expansive moments) a dollop of cream. Taken that way, they could be eaten, pyjamas and all, and there was nothing to touch 'em.

★ ★ ★

But what has happened?

They come up to you, in any American restaurant today, on a side-plate, wrapped in aluminum foil, like a blinkin' Christmas present.

When your back is turned, a waitress sneaks up and plops into the middle of this incomparable vegetable what appears to be a mountain of hand lotion. On examination, it turns out to be sour cream, mixed with chives.

Now that in itself might not be so bad, but wait! When the waitress retires, a Filipino boy arrives and starts sprinkling the potato with chopped-up bacon rinds.

While you eye this process dubiously, a third genii sidles up and tops the whole works with a spoonful of grated peanuts.

★ ★ ★

So what have you got—a baked potato? Nossir, you've got a 2,000-calorie mess.

There it stands — a glittering banana-split, made out of potatoes.

I tell you, a starving Armenian couldn't eat it.

I found out, after two weeks, I couldn't even look at it.

Those Americans deserve every damned thing they get.

Egan Refuses To Give Up Playoff Hopes

Colin Kilburn may be making his last Western Hockey League appearance in a Victoria uniform when the Cougars tackle Seattle Americans at Memorial Arena tonight. But he says he'll be playing with the same old purpose — to win.

Kilburn, formally notified Tuesday that he had been relieved of his duties of Cougar general-manager after being asked to resign following a directors' meeting Sunday, said this morning that he was playing to help hockey in Victoria and that he expected the Cougars would win.

Coach Pat Egan, in charge of playing personnel since Kilburn was ousted, said that Colin would again operate on a line with his brother, Doug, and centre Ed Dorohoy.

It is expected that the elder Kilburn will be traded to another WHL club in the next few days. However, Kilburn denied reports that he had asked the league president, Al Leader, to make a deal on his behalf.

NOT ENOUGH!

Egan said that although he had been in touch with four other clubs, the only concrete offer for the former manager had come from Vancouver Canucks. "They offered us Elliott Chorley and some cash, but that's not enough for a hockey player like Colin."

Egan said that he did not believe the Canucks could offer Bob Robinson, who was also rumored involved in the proposed deal, since Vancouver does not own the rookie. He also stated that the Cougars had not heard of any trade involving Canuck goalie Marcel Pelletier.

Although the Cougars are 20 points back of the third-place Americans, Egan refuses to believe the club can't make the three-team playoffs.

"I know the odds are against us," he said, "but we'll be trying until arithmetic tells us it's impossible."

WAS IT LEGAL?

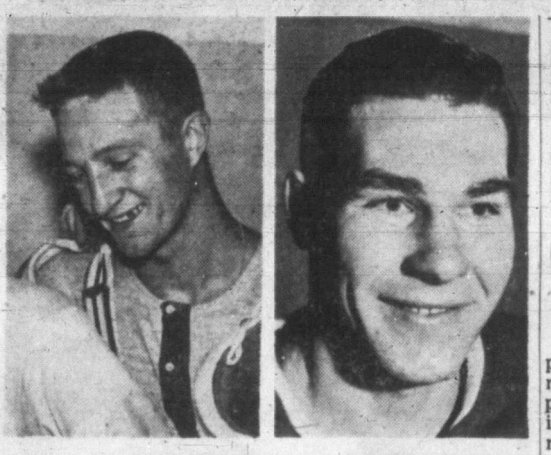

One director who was not present at Sunday's meeting has questioned the legality of Sunday's action, claiming that the club's constitution requires such a decision to be made by a majority of the directors. (Only 14 of 29 directors were present at Sunday's meeting.)

Manager Fred Mackenzie said this morning that although he believed a decision involving hiring and firing of salaried personnel could be conducted by executive directors, he would examine the constitution today.

Mackenzie said a meeting of shareholders would be held as soon as possible, probably in eight or 10 days.

Kilburn stated that he will welcome a chance to present his side of the story to shareholders and that if he has been traded before such a meeting, he will pay his own expenses to attend.

"I would like the shareholders to know both sides of the situation," he said. "If they still agree with the directors' action, I'll be satisfied."

Billy's Mates Goofed

By The Canadian Press

A veteran of 18 years of professional hockey, in the midst of one of his most productive goal-scoring years, had himself a big night Tuesday.

It was "Billy Mosienko Night" at Winnipeg and almost everybody contributed something. Everybody, that is, except Mosienko's teammates

Warriors lost the scheduled Western Hockey League game 5-2 to Saskatoon-St. Paul Regals, but everything else was to the fans' liking

Mosienko slammed in both Winnipeg goals and got thousands of dollars in gifts, including a bar and a pair of gold-plated skates.

Both goals scored by the ex-National League great came as a result of his heady playing. He intercepted a Regal pass to race in unmolested for the first goal and he flipped in a loose puck from outside the crease for the second, his 23rd goal this season.

Les Colwill and Bob Kabel scored two goals each for the Regals and Ray Ross added a single.

The season's largest crowd, 8,991 fans, turned out to see the game.

Included in the telegrams sent Mosienko was one from Edmonton coach Tony Leswick and general manager Bud Poile. They offered Mosienko a "free trip to Florida, providing he didn't return until June 15 . . ."

But the Flyers could have used Mosienko themselves Tuesday. Edmonton lacked the punch and dropped a 2-1 decision to Vancouver as the Canucks opened their swing through the Prairies.

Phil Maloney and Jackie McLeod took honors for the Canucks in their well-won victory over Edmonton, second-place team in the Prairie group.

Dennis Olson scored the lone Flyer goal to put Edmonton ahead 1-0 at the end of the first period.

Flyer goalie Dennis Riggin was pulled in the last minute of play in an attempt to tie the score, but a Canuck rear guard blocked a desperate shot with only seconds to go and the final frame remained scoreless.

Tonight's schedule takes the Flyers to Calgary, cellar-dwellers in the Prairie division, while Seattle plays at Victoria on the Coast.

BANTAMS ARE GUESTS OF COUGARS TONIGHT

All players in the Bantam Division of the Greater Victoria Minor Hockey Association have been invited to tonight's Western Hockey League game between the Cougars and Seattle Americans.

Association president Doug Fletcher said all players who will be guests of the Cougar Club must meet in front of Memorial Arena not later than 7 p.m.

Two bantam all-star teams will play at 7.45 as a preliminary to the WHL contest.

ICE PLAN INITIATED

Pros (Naturally) Can't See Change

CALGARY (CP)—Western Canada hockey fans took a look at international hockey rules in action Tuesday night and the general feeling was decidedly favorable.

The biggest weekday crowd this season turned out to see southern Alberta's Big Six intermediate hockey league initiate regulations of the International Ice Hockey Federation in a twin bill. The seven-team league is the first in Canada to adopt IIHF rules.

A wide majority of fans, players, coaches and executives agreed the stricter rules provided a faster wide-open game, better stickhandling, sharper passing patterns and cleaner play which is sure to reduce injuries to players. The referees also liked the faster brand of hockey.

The Big Six earlier this season decided to adopt international hockey rules as an experiment following the reaction of fans who saw the Russian Selects play Canadian teams under such regulations.

The league will continue with them for the remaining 38 games of the season, but will revert to Canadian Amateur Hockey Association standards for the playoffs.

Nearly 1,500 fans were at the Stampede Corral to see Calgary Junior Reps defeat Calgary Beavers 6-4 in the first game of the experiment, while the Calgary Adderson Hustlers whipped Okotoks Oilers 7-3 in the second tilt. The largest weekday crowd before Tuesday had been 850.

League president John Watson said time now was needed to get both players and referees used to the stricter rules, and the result would be an improvement in the game.

"A player can now go after a puck without being afraid he will be rammed through the boards," he explained.

Aubrey Winter, referee in the opening game, said he found the game cleaner, freer and faster. Players stuck to playing hockey instead of bruising each other.

Old Pros Don't Care for Change

Less enthusiasm came from Al Rollins, former National Hockey League netminder now with Calgary Stampeders of the professional Western Hockey League, and Gus Kyle, Stampeder coach. They felt some of the color and thrills may have been taken from the game.

Generally, the fans liked the new rules. One said that after a few more games, to get players familiar to the change, the higher standard of stick-handling and accurate passing attacks would be "much more crowd-pleasing than the old style".

Another approved of the no-boarding regulation and said the strict enforcement against holding the puck against the boards helped speed up play. Players would have to concentrate on playmaking.

Fred Gardner, centre with Junior Reps, and leftwinger Pat Cooney of Hustlers, each fired three goals. Showering in their dressing rooms after the games they had nothing but praise for the new rules.

"At least a player can stickhandle in on the net instead of being chopped down by rough defencemen," Gardner said.

Rollins, however, felt the stricter rules would "spoil the league." Fans came out for the thrills, he said, and some of the excitement was lost with international rules.

Kyle, never taken for a gentle player when he was with the NHL Boston Bruins and New York Rangers, reserved a definite decision on the change until after he has seen a few more games. But he felt it took away some of the "color and thrills."

But Underneath, All Is Not Rosy

LONDON (CP)—Scottish soccer fans, looking at the world through tartan-colored spectacles, are happy about 1958 prospects. Their joys are especially bright when they view the country's top teams.

The first reason for elation is that Scotland is among the 16 qualifying nations for the World Cup championship, to be held in Stockholm next June.

The second is that Heart of Midlothian, an Edinburgh club, threatens to break all British records for most points collected, most goals scored and least goals conceded in major league soccer.

TO TOUR CANADA

The Edinburgh team, which is to tour Canada next May and June, had 36 points from 20 games just after the season's halfway mark. Unbeaten at home, they had lost only one game away. The goal tally read 82 for, 14 against and they were 11 points ahead of their nearest rivals, Clyde.

The main reason for Hearts' dominance in Scotland's First Division is the decline of Rangers and Celtic, the two Glasgow clubs that have dominated Scottish soccer for the last 50 years. Another Edinburgh team formerly prominent, Hibernian, has also lost ground.

Rangers began rebuilding their somewhat elderly team mid-season and Celtic and Hibernian slipped after each suffered four beatings in a row.

One of the major problems of Scottish soccer—apart from a few top clubs—is that there is little real competition.

LOP-SIDED WINS

The number of goals scored in Scottish games is another example. Scores of 8-0 and 7-3 are common and underline the disparity between clubs.

The standard of most Scottish clubs compares with English Third Division sides. Top clubs, like Hearts, probably would rate First Division status if playing in English soccer.

Scottish professional clubs compete in two divisions, first and second, and there is a reserve section which roughly corresponds to south England's combination league of professional club juniors.

In contrast to English players, most Scottish footballers are part-timers, training at night with professionals in the First Division.

Ace for Birthday

Ed Robertson added an extra thrill to his birthday celebrations Sunday by scoring a hole-in-one at the Cedar Hill golf course.

Playing with Ted Jones and Bob Clements, Robertson used a No. 7 iron to ace his tee shot on the 110-yard ninth hole.

LUMLEY TAKES OVER

Millar Sent Down, But Paille Sticks

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Harry Lumley, 31-year-old journeyman netminder, adds a fourth National Hockey League team to his skein of experience Thursday night.

Lumley, who has done time with Detroit Red Wings, Chicago Black Hawks and Toronto Maple Leafs, will step into goal for Boston Bruins when they face New York Rangers in the Boston Gardens.

It's a tough spot for anyone, and particularly tough for a goaltender who preferred to stay in the American Hockey League last season rather than return to the NHL for a few games with Chicago because he liked the relaxed AHL atmosphere.

Lumley is replacing Al Millar, himself a substitute for regular Don Simmons, and Lynn Patrick, Bruins' general manager, admits Millar was sacrificed on the altar of fan-pressure.

SLIP BADLY

Bruins have slipped badly since Millar took over for the injured Simmons New Year's Day and the crowds have laid most of the blame at Millar's skates, though Patrick says the forwards are at fault.

"Personally, I think Millar is a good goalkeeper," Patrick said Tuesday. "He showed a lot of promise, but somehow the fans got down on him and that can hurt you in this town.

"It wouldn't make any difference in Montreal or Toronto, but in Boston if we didn't have a new goaltender for Thursday's game it would cost us, in gate receipts, from $7,000 to $10,000 for one game. And if we didn't make the playoffs it could cost us $100,000."

Lumley was called up from Springfield Indians of the AHL, a Boston farm club, where he has been on loan from Buffalo Bisons, a Chicago farm team.

Bruins were forced to buy him outright from Chicago before calling him up and Patrick said "I'm ashamed of the price. But what could we do?"

But while Millar is on his way out, rookie goalie Marcel Paille will stay with Rangers despite a string of hard luck.

The little New York netminder has yielded 42 goals in eight games.

But general manager Muzz Patrick said he thought Paille could not be blamed for the loss.

Coach Bill Watson said earlier that Paille would change places with Gump Worsley at Providence unless he showed improvement during the weekend. Paille replaced Worsley earlier this season.

Boston is tied with Toronto for fourth place and the Leafs will be up against it to improve Thursday as they meet the powerful Canadiens in Montreal. Detroit, who have climbed to second place, are host to last-place Chicago.

Harmony, That's What We Like About Boxing!

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Depending upon where you live, tonight's bout between Philadelphia's Gil Turner and Vince Martinez of Paterson, N.J., is or isn't a fight to earn a shot at the welterweight championship of the world.

If you live where the jurisdiction of the World Boxing Championship Committee is accepted as law, you'll merely be watching a televised 12-round bout which is one of a series of eliminations to determine a titleholder.

In Massachusetts, the bout is listed as just another fight of top welterweights.

In states where boxing is under the banner of the National Boxing Association, the fight will be the semifinal elimination in the 147-pound title series. The winner has been ordered by the NBA to fight Isaac Logart for the title vacated by Carmen Basilio after he won the middleweight crown from Sugar Ray Robinson.

Martinez, clever boxer-puncher who has won 58 fights and lost only five, is the favorite at about 7 to 5. Turner has won 55, lost 15 and drawn once.

Pace-Setting Interior-Squads Losing Ground

By The Canadian Press

Kamloops Chiefs are closing in on Kelowna Packers, top dogs in the Okanagan Senior Hockey League.

The warring Chiefs downed their arch rivals for the second straight time Tuesday night, 5-3 at home, to move within a single point of the leaders. Saturday they trounced them 3-1.

Vernon Canadians pushed Penticton V's farther into the cellar with a 6-4 victory over them at Penticton. The V's now trail third-place Vernon by 13 points. Canucks are eight behind Kamloops.

Rossland Warriors kept within striking distance of the first-place Spokane Flyers in the Western International League, defeating them 6-4 on home ice. The Warriors thus are only two points behind last year's champions.

Bill Warwick was the chief architect of the Kamloops victory, scoring twice. Other Chief goals were scored by George Hunchuk, Fred Sasakamoose and Mark Marquess. Kelowna scorers were Jim Middleton, Ray Powell and Greg Jablonski.

Canadians fashioned victory out of a four-goal outburst in the third. The V's, minus coach Bernie Bathgate and defenceman Kev Conway, faded badly before Vernon's onslaught.

Art Davison, Tom Stecyk, Walt Trentini, George Agar, Frank King and Sherman Blair connected for Vernon.

Hal Tarala, Al Lloyd, Bob Harper and Eddie Diachuk counted for the V's.

George Ferguson's goal at 14.09 of the third period proved the winner at Rossland. Other scorers for the Warriors were Pinoke McIntyre, Yogi Kraiger, Steve Chorney, Bud Andrews and Hal Jones.

Frank Kubasek led the Flyers with a pair while singles were scored by Tic Beattie and John Zahara.

ABILITY TO CONCENTRATE, SAYS SUSIE . . . . . PART OF TENNIS CIRCUIT'S BENEFITS

New Faces and New Places . . . All Make Life Interesting

Susan Butt, 19-year-old Victoria girl who is rated as one of Canada's most promising young tennis players, is currently on a three-month tour of Florida and Caribbean tournaments. Miss Butt is writing a series of articles exclusively for The Daily Times, relating her impressions of peoples, places and her tennis.

This is the second of her series.

By SUSAN BUTT

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Life on the tennis circuit is certainly very interesting and, I might add, so very educational.

And most of all, it is a wonderful experience for me to run up against these good players.

Most of the competitors here have years of tournament experience behind them. That is one thing I definitely lack. The ability to concentrate — to win points when they are most needed — and yet to play consistently throughout a match is something that is developed only through tournament experience.

Perhaps if I had that experience, and some luck, I might have progressed a little farther in the first two tournaments. Oddly enough, the same girl has beaten me in those first tournaments. She is Laura Lou Kunnen of Clearwater. Laura was seeded first in the Dixie International tournament at Tampa and she beat me easily in the quarter-finals.

She was seeded fourth in the Florida West Coast tournament here and I made her work hard in the second round. The scores 4-6, 9-7 and 7-5—so maybe I'm improving.

But it's this business of meeting new people that makes the tournament trail so interesting . . .

One of the most interesting is a Cuban, Zoe de Mendoza of Havana. At 18, she is ranked as Cuba's No. 2 woman player. She's one of these bright persons with a photographic memory.

The "de" in her name signifies that she is from a well-to-do family. Her parents are both lawyers and Zoe attended university in Cuba until it closed because of the political upheavals. She was married when she was 16 and divorced 18 months later.

Zoe, incidentally, figured in quite a "rhubarb" at Tampa when Anne Viera of Denmark (one of my doubles partners last year) insisted on Zoe being defaulted from the women's singles. Zoe arrived a half-hour late for quarter-final match against Anne.

It's a player's right, although seldom claimed, to default an opponent over 15 minutes late. Anne reached the semifinals without playing.

Zoe has returned to Cuba for a short time and we plan on playing doubles together when she returns to the circuit. Right now I'm playing doubles with Inge Weber, from Ontario, and we're not doing too well.

There's another Cuban girl here (I'll just call her Maria) who isn't too hot as a tennis player. She loves to have a good time, however, and there is an air of intrigue about her.

Maria, who is 22, says that her uncle is a key figure in Cuban politics and she is in danger there. So she must stay away from home.

Maria Bueno, a Brazilian girl, won the Tampa tournament and is a terrific player but she speaks very little English and therefore is hard to get to know. Then there's Elena Osuna, a 20-year-old, who brings the customs of her native Mexico to the circuit. Her face is always beaming and she wears her Mexican blanket and sandals.

Of course, some of the men are interesting too!

Tut Bartzen, a Texan who won the men's singles at Tampa, is a nice little fellow with supreme concentration. A superbly conditioned athlete, Tut is like a machine on the court, rarely letting up once he has his opponent on the run.

Runner-up Tony Vincent is from New York City. I met Tony at Forest Hills last year. He's known for his retrieving abilities which really come in handy on these slow clay courts.

I must say there's other talent on the circuit, too.

Mitchell Davies, England's No. 1 player, delighted everyone with his singing at a recent reception. But alas, the next day his singing didn't help him on the court and he lost 6-2, 6-2 to a "nobody." He does have a lovely voice and good rhythm and also has had screen auditions in Hollywood.

I drove to St. Pete from Tampa with Louise Brown and her family. Lou is the Canadian ladies' singles champion from Toronto and I thought she was a "cold" individual until I got to know her.

Her husband is a real character and their children—Sharon is 13 and Davy is nine—are very nice. Travelling is a great thrill for the children because it gives them a chance to miss school.

Yes, it's nice to have them around because, as yet, they're not affected by the crazy tennis circuit.

REDSTONE FIRING HOPE FOR U.S. SATELLITE

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The United States Army today checked over tape and photographic records of the launching of its big Redstone missile for clues that might help it put an American-style Sputnik into an orbit.

The Redstone was sent up into a starlit, cloudless, moonless sky from the air force missile test centre here Tuesday night.

Six Months' Grace Given Hanna Permit

OTTAWA (CP)—The permit allowing George Christian Hanna to remain in Canada has been extended six months to June 16, acting immigration minister Fulton said today.

Hanna was allowed entry to Canada a year ago at Vancouver after spending months on a freighter. He said he had no citizenship papers.

Mr. Fulton, replying in the Commons to J. W. Pickersgill former Liberal immigration minister, said the extension has been granted to determine whether Hanna will be a "good Canadian for the future."

Mr. Pickersgill asked whether Hanna had surrendered to the immigration department at Vancouver and asked to be put on a ship.

Mr. Fulton said Hanna went to the immigration department and asked for help. This indicated Hanna's relationship with the department was more friendly than when the department was under a Liberal administration.

The department would see what help it could give Hanna.

Mr. Pickersgill asked whether Hanna has a job.

Mr. Fulton said he doesn't know.

Arson Probed in Island Fire

PORT ALBERNI (CP)—Fire chief William Venables of Port Alberni said today the possibility of arson in connection with a fire that damaged an unoccupied house here is being investigated. The owner, Ivan Ivansevich, was in Vancouver when the fire started about 11 p.m. Tuesday.

Blaze Leaves Family Homeless

BURNABY (CP) — A family of eight was left homeless by fire today, only 12 hours after the father was laid off from his welding job. Ross Peterson, his wife and six children escaped when flames razed their four-room bungalow. No insurance was carried.

Police Seek Young Fugitives

NANAIMO (CP) — Police are searching Vancouver Island today for two 15-year-old boys who escaped from Brannan Lake school this morning. They are believed to have made their break in pyjamas. A breaking and entering and a car theft reported overnight are believed to have been made in connection with the escape.

HUTCHISON IN OTTAWA

The Old Leader Takes His Bow

By BRUCE HUTCHISON, Editor of The Times

LIBERAL CONVENTION HALL, Ottawa—Tuesday night the Liberal convention heard the parting advice of its old leader Louis St. Laurent.

Today it began to interpret his sharp warning as an election platform, although both its eyes and its hopes were centred on a new leader, Lester Pearson.

Mr. St. Laurent is taking no direct part in the revision of Liberal policy. He is leaving everything to his successor. But in his last appearance before his party he summed up the conclusions of his several victories and his final defeat.

With the blunt candor which has always been his sovereign virtue as a politician, he advised the convention "to promise only what we believe we can perform and benefit Canada by performing, to trust the people and deserve their trust."

Hutchison

These were general words uttered in a moment of high emotion and their meaning may have been lost on a screaming audience of 5,000.

But they were clear to the party managers in the back rooms where the new platform is being slowly fashioned plank by plank.

Mr. St. Laurent was telling his successors not to seek election by the fraud of impossible promises but to look beyond a spring campaign to the long future of the nation.

But tonight, as the first planks of the platform emerge from a managing committee of 150 party hierchs representing every part of the nation, we shall see whether the old leader's counsel is to be followed or whether the opposition intends to out bid the government in costly election bait.

The work of re-assessment, the prospect of an early doubtful election and the absence of any serious contest for the party's leadership have made this a dull convention so far. As a spectacle it is far less exciting than the Conservative convention of 1956 when John Diefenbaker had to fight desperately for leadership against a Quebec revolt, whereas Mr. Pearson is hardly going through the motions of a fight today.

Not leadership, but policy and strategy, are the Liberal party's real business here, ar ! up to now that business has been done privately in the committee rooms. In the next few hours the committees' recommendations must run the gauntlet of the whole convention in public and it is evident already that some of the younger Liberals are deeply dissatisfied with the party's recent management.

'Purity' Plan Before Convention

OTTAWA (BUP) — A "political purity" resolution today was added to the grist of proposals being processed in the platform mill of the national Liberal convention.

The resolution was sponsored by the Ontario delegation and advocated:

—A minimum contribution annually from every rank-and-file Liberal toward the expenses of national election campaigns.

—A limit upon the expenditures which any individual candidate might make in his campaign.

—Annual disclosure by political parties of the sources of all contributions to their funds.

—exemplary penalties for violations of any of the last three provisions.

The resolution was argued by Ray Tower of Toronto and seconded by Reginald Wheeler of Wentworth. It was sent for consideration behind the closed doors of the convention resolutions committee.

Other resolutions presented from the floor of the convention today dealt with the problems of natural resources, freight rates, export of Alberta gas and oil and other miscellaneous topics.

Latest in Series Of Outrages In W. Kootenays

VANCOUVER (CP) — A passenger train was derailed near Grand Forks today after the CPR track was blown up in the latest of a series of bomb plots in the West Kootenay district of British Columbia.

No one was injured, a CPR spokesman said. The engine, baggage car and one day coach of the east-bound Kettle Valley branch line train remained upright.

RCMP sent for a dog to follow tracks leading from the damaged section of the track, 18 miles east of Grand Forks.

The CPR spokesman said a bomb had blown out two ties and left a hole 18 inches deep under one rail. The derailment damaged 300 feet of track.

Last weekend, unexploded bombs were found in theatres at Nelson, Castlegar and Trail. The fuse on one of the bombs had been lit, but smouldered and went out.

About 1,500 people were in the theatres at the time the bombs are believed to have been planted.

RCMP said they have a good idea who was responsible for the theatre bombs. They would not elaborate, but said earlier they were following "all lines of investigation, including Sons of Freedom Doukhobors."

Members of the fanatical pacifist sect, which migrated from Russia in 1899, have been blamed for a number of bombing attacks in recent years.

Four mysterious blasts hit natural gas, rail and power installations in the West Kootenays Dec. 17. In one of the incidents, a CPR track inspector narrowly escaped when a bomb exploded near Nelson and took out three feet of track.

Railway tracks were blown up twice in 1956. Violence attributed to the Freedomites reached a peak between 1947 and 1950, but there have been isolated outbreaks every year since then.

A delegation from the sect left Montreal Saturday for Russia, to discuss possible relocation of its 2,500 members in their ancestral homeland.

Three in Race As Nominations Come to Close

OTTAWA (BUP) — Nominations of leadership candidates for the national Liberal convention closed today with three still in the race.

They were: former external affairs minister and Nobel peace prize winner Lester B. Pearson; former health minister Paul Martin; and Mayor Lloyd Henderson of Portage La Prairie, Man.

The close of nominations ended speculation about possible dark-horse candidates such as former finance minister Walter Harris and Mayor Don Mackay of Calgary.

Leadership candidates will make their nominating speeches starting at 7.30 p.m. (4.30 p.m. PST) today before some 1,500 voting delegates and a national television audience.

10 SIGN FOR PEARSON

Voting for the new leader will be Thursday evening, with the winner declared on the basis of an overall majority—761 if all the delegates vote.

The nomination of Pearson was moved by former Liberal MP John Decore of Edmonton

'Full Employment' Policy Proposed at Liberal Rally

OTTAWA (CP) — The Liberals today brought a "new look" to their basic faith.

The 150-member resolutions committee at the party's national convention recommended a redesign of the preamble to the party platform, declaring that not only must there be high employment and social security in Canada but that these must be "constantly improved."

This appeared to be going a step farther than the "fighting faith" adopted at the 1948 convention when the party declared itself in favor of high employment and security.

The newly-proposed preamble spoke not of high employment but of "full" employment. Undoubtedly this would be one of the top planks in the new platform, politically aimed at the concern of Canadians over high unemployment.

The Liberals' three key words —unity, security and freedom— were retained, but to these were added democracy, progress and peace.

Emphasis was placed on the "international peace which Canada through co-operation seeks for all mankind"; "the full democracy, bred in freedom, that creates social justice and welfare for all"; and the "rapid progress, spiritual and material, that is based on freedom and creative initiative."

Emphasis also was placed on "fairness."

The Liberals sought "fairness for pioneers who in remote areas still carry the burdens of our country's development; fairness for farmers on the land and for fishermen on our shores; fairness for workers in our factories and offices, forests and mines; fairness for all those of every race and creed who have come from many lands and made Canada their home."

Blast at 'Brass' Last Martin Try

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

CONVENTION HALL, OTTAWA — Supporters of Paul Martin are attempting an open revolt at the Liberal convention here against what they call the party "brass". But it is doubtful that this movement will get far.

Tuesday night James Brown, chairman of the "Martin for Leader" committee, issued a statement denouncing the ruling Liberal hierarchy and saying that "if the brass feel that this party can survive only through their dictates as a closed corporation telling the delegates how they should think then the time has come for new leadership with an ear to the ground and an eye to the future."

Mr. Martin did not write but endorsed this statement which clearly is aimed at Lester Pearson, leading candidate for party leadership. While Mr. Pearson was silent his friends were furious at what they considered a blow below the belt.

They took Mr. Brown's statement as a sure sign that the Martin forces have realized their defeat and are now desperate.

It is not yet known, however, whether this struggle behind the scenes will reach the convention floor or whether Mr. Martin will attack the brass when he speaks tonight. It is certain, however, that he has damaged himself greatly and perhaps pemanently with most of his former cabinet colleagues by attempting to suggest through his spokesman that he leads the party's progressive wing and that Mr. Pearson is the leader of the forces defeated last June.

Though today's unpleasantness is regretted, party leaders think it will do no harm in practical politics but will only go to show that the Liberal party is democratic with freedom for all dissenters.

MARTIN STILL HOPES FOR WIN OVER PEARSON

OTTAWA (CP)—Paul Martin, generally considered by observers at the national Liberal convention to be trailing Lester B. Pearson, said today he still believes he will win the party leadership.

"This thing is rolling," he told reporters after his nomination papers were filed. "This is the 1919 convention all over again."

In 1919, the late Mackenzie King was considered a "dark horse" candidate and came through to win the leadership and hold it until he retired in 1948.

"The rank and file are going to assert themselves in a manner that will show that Liberalism is of the grass," Mr. Martin said.

Montreal Canadiens Willing To Discuss Cougars Pact

Possibility of Victoria Cougars making a hook-up with the front-running NHL Montreal Canadiens next year was confirmed in a long-distance telephone call today between the local club and managing director Frank Selke of Les Canadiens.

Negotiations between the two clubs were opened January 6 when a Victoria director wrote Selke, inquiring about possible player help, and asking if Les Canadiens would be interested in taking on Cougars as a farm club next year.

Selke replied that legal restrictions made it impossible for his own Royals and Rochester to acquire much-needed players, and that he could hold out no hope for player help this season.

"However," he added, "we are quite willing to talk and it's possible that we may be able to work out an arrangement for next season."

Selke was not aware of the hubbub created locally by the dismissal of Colin Kilburn, but commented:

"Hockey management requires a special kind of talent—a combination of management know-how, ambition and good judgment.

"I know Pat Egan well and would be happy to do anything I can to assist him in establishing himself as a hockey executive."

A director of Cougars will huddle with Selke in Montreal early next month.

AT LIBERAL CONVENTION

Irate Granny Seizes Mike to Get Attention

OTTAWA (CP) — Mrs. Nellie Burke, a 65-year-old Regina grandmother, seized a Liberal convention microphone today and demanded that resolutions proposers "get a full house's attention."

Mrs. Burke, hopping mad when she reached a microphone to support a protest made earlier by Therese M. Giroday of Winnipeg, became even more irate when her microphone was cut from the public-address circuit.

"You get the power turned back onto this microphone, Mr. Chairman," she shouted. "I'm going to talk."

Scattered groups in the nearly-empty convention hall supported her stand, taken only an hour after the chairman tossed out a protest by another Manitoba delegate for more discussion of resolutions from the floor.

Allan Cantor of Winnipeg, president of the Manitoba Young Liberals, had been ruled out of order when he tried to change the order of business.

Chairman on both occasions was Roy Power of Halifax, national president of the Young Liberals.

Mrs. Burke's ire was drawn by delegate and platform reaction to a resolution proposed by William Norrie, a youthful Liberal from Winnipeg, and seconded by 23-year-old Miss Giroday. Mr. Norrie had proposed that Canada's trade be freer with all countries.

Miss Giroday opened her remarks as seconder by asking Mr. Power to "relay my protest to the brass."

"We asked to speak when the hall was full," she said, referring to Mr. Cantor's earlier request.

"We were not allowed to."

"Not there is almost no one here, and you can see why we asked."

Mrs. Burke, seeing that Miss Giroday was not speaking close enough to the microphone to be heard, went up and gently pushed her closer.

When the young woman had finished, Mrs. Burke took over.

"Miss Giroday had the right to make her complaint," she started and then the microphone went dead.

"She should have had a full house to hear what she had to say. I don't mind admitting that I'm a very old campaigner—I'm old and not afraid to say so.

"We're asked to encourage the younger members of the party to be more active. The young man who proposed this resolution and the young woman who seconded it are both young members, and if they and others like them do not receive the attention they deserve this party risks losing them.

"I demand that they get full attention from a full hall."

Interviewed later, Mrs. Burke, provincial treasurer for the Saskatchewan Women Liberals and a past president of the provincial organization, said "I was forced to speak: I'm so angry."

"They tell us to go out to the grass roots—well, I am the grass roots," she said, adding that she is a native of Manchester, Lancashire and has three children and 10 grandchildren.

. . . HUTCHISON

Last night they found a vibrant voice in Premier Joseph Smallwood of Newfoundland, a tiny birdlike and impassioned figure who pronounced the unpalatable theory that Liberalism had remained in office too long, that a change was good for it and that as an opposition it must sink its roots anew into the common stuff of humanity.

Still Party of the Little Men

This is easily said and Mr. Smallwood said it with rough eloquence. But how is it to be translated into policy? How is Mr. Pearson to reconvince a dubious electorate that Liberalism is still as in its younger days the party of the little man? Above all, how is this to be done without promising the impossibilities rejected by Mr. St. Laurent?

While these problems of principle and tactics were being argued wherever two or more delegates met together, the convention took Tuesday night off for its final tribute to Mr. St. Laurent.

His farewell to politics was typical of the man, and precisely like his arrival some 16 years ago. He came to Ottawa without fuss or fanfare to do a job of work. The job finished, he left with only a few simple words of thanks to his party and the nation.

It would have been easy for some ghost writer to provide him with an oration, but in this last act he refused to step out of his natural role and attempt a public posture different from his private life. Hence his speech, taken as a speech was not in the least remarkable, contained no purple passages and sounded rather like a father's casual advice to his children.

Yet this picture was unforgettable—the brisk little man with terrier face, the eloquent gallic twist of the shoulders, the sharp Anglo-Saxon accent and in his whole person an air of serene integrity untouched by political defeat.

He was not a politician when he came to Ottawa, had not mastered the political game when he left it. And in this final hour he scorned the tricks of the orator.

Last Time Before Followers

The spontaneous outpouring of emotion, as he stood for the last time before his followers, was a tribute not to the statesman but to the man. He did not seem to feel it in the beginning, read his speech in a crisp matter-of-fact fashion and then, half way through the written text, looked up to realize of a sudden his place in the hearts of his friends.

His voice dropped, he hesitated a moment and almost overcome by his own feelings struggled doggedly through the concluding paragraphs. From a box, his three handsome daughters watched him anxiously.

His wife smiled encouragement from a chair beside him, and as he stepped back from the rostrum, Louis St. Laurent could hardly fight back his tears.

With tense drawn face he listened but perhaps did not hear Mr. Smallwood's formal tribute and the shouts of the audience.

Soon it was all over.

The photographers swarmed to the platform and recorded a smiling old gentleman, his wife on his arm and their carefree years ahead.

Never did he look better in body and spirit than at this moment of political defeat and personal triumph.

Nothing so became his life in politics as his taking leave of it.

DIEFENBAKER IN BED FOR REST OF WEEK

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker is expected to spend the remainder of this week in bed or working at home in an effort to clear up a wrenched back.

His office said today the prime minister probably will continue to work from his bed at his official residence at 24 Sussex Street. Apart from some pain and discomfort, he is feeling well and is in good health.

Timber, Gas Rights Sales Under Probe

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police here are investigating reports by two persons that they paid nearly $10,000 for non-existent timber and gas rights.

Arthur Edward Anderson said he paid $3,750 for a one-sixth interest in a timber stand at Harrison Lake, B.C., but could not locate the timber.

Miss Florence Cooper, 76, reported paying $5,578 for petroleum and natural gas rights on 240 acres in Alberta. She said she subsequently discovered the property did not exist.

Victorians Praise Live TV On Big Liberal Convention

By PHIL LEE
Times TV Editor

For the first time in history a Canadian political convention is being telecast live, and whatever it costs the people most Victorians agree that it is worth it.

From 5 to 6 p.m. Tuesday, citizens were treated to a front row seat of the national Liberal convention as it took place at Ottawa almost 3,000 miles away.

In fact, owing to the excellence of the CBC camera work, it would be not going too far to say that Victorians had a more intimate view of the proceedings than most of the 2,500 delegates. The convention will choose a new party leader on Thursday.

EXCELLENT RESULTS

Just as they did for Queen Elizabeth's opening of Parliament last autumn, CBC officials brought the proceedings to those areas of Canada not yet linked together by the microwave "cable" by utilizing available U.S. cables. The results were excellent.

As though he was standing in the same room with each of the thousands of viewers from coast-to-coast, Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent, Liberal leader and former prime minister, made his swan song.

While the historic speech was in progress, the cameras gently flickered from delegate to delegate. There was the bright-faced woman, the gently dozing delegate and the man whose mouth sucked in then out, almost in rhythm with Mr. St. Laurent's words.

JUNE COMPLETION

The live production underlined for all viewers the necessity, in the name of national unity, for the completion of the micro-wave link, now in its final stages of construction. It is hoped that Victoria, along with British Columbia, will be linked to eastern Canada sometime in June of this year.

All in all, the CBC will cover the Liberal convention five times. All but two will be brought in live. The remainder of the programs are as follows:

Tonight candidates' speeches of acceptance will be brought in live from 4.30 to 5.30. Thursday a recording of nomination of candidates will be replayed. At 6 p.m. Thursday, acceptance speech of the new Liberal leader will be heard live, lasting about one hour.

On Friday, the program will wind up with a recorded debate on resolutions from 2.15 until 3.45 p.m.

Ottawa To Access Tourist Roads

OTTAWA (CP) — The resources department announced today it is taking over maintenance of all access roads "of reasonable length" to isolated tourist developments in Canada's national parks. Until now, resort operators had shared maintenance costs.

Two roads in Banff Park in Alberta and one in Yoho Park in British Columbia are immediately affected by the decision.

Boxla Subsidy Criticized for Arena Deficit

NANAIMO—Subsidies paid to the Senior Lacrosse League could have "more than wiped off" the operating deficit of the Civic Arena here, retiring arena manager William Oliver told the recreation and park commission here this week.

Deficit amounted to $3,783, he said.

Mr. Oliver, who has accepted the post of manager of Victoria Curling Club, said the commission should ask itself whether summer operation of the arena is worth while.

In the past five years the city had paid out about $15,000 in lacrosse subsidies, he said.

"Should the proposed amalgamation of the functions of the park commission and arena commission go through," he said, "the commission should note that this situation makes it very difficult for a manager faced with a continual deficit."

The arena commission, made up of representatives of local service clubs, likely will be dissolved by the end of February. The city recreation commission was disbanded last November.

Functions of both will be incorporated in the recreation and park commission, an appointive group that also will replace the parks board, formerly an elected body.

Officers of the commission are Kenneth Alexander, chairman; William Hunter, vice-chairman; and Ronald Holmes, secretary.—A new member this year is Noel Thompson, who replaces Orville Boyd.

The commission has indicated it will make no move to replace Mr. Oliver until the end of February, when necessary legislation for the merger of the three groups will have been completed.

British Troops Rush To Bahamas Strike

NASSAU, Bahamas (CP) — British colonial authorities rushed planeloads of troops to the Bahamas today in a bid to prevent violence in a general strike gripping this sunny resort city.

Two planes, each carrying 40 troops, landed early today from Jamaica with troops of the Worcester Regiment. About 150 troops are expected by nightfall. Police are on a 24-hour alert.

The strike has paralyzed the Bahamas tourist trade and dislocated plans of thousands of visitors, most of them Americans and Canadians. Hundreds are cutting short their winter vacations and attempting to leave the islands.

Ike Scorns Reports Dulles Offer to Quit

WASHINGTON (CP)—President Eisenhower today described as "trash" reports that John Foster Dulles had offered to resign as secretary of state.

Eisenhower, in answer to a press conference question, said that Dulles would be the last person he would want to see resign.

A reporter said there had been a published report recently that Dulles had submitted his resignation and that the president had rejected it.

When the reporter asked Eisenhower whether he could confirm it, Eisenhower angrily interjected to ask whether the reporter himself had written the story.

He was told that there had been such a published account and also that Dulles was under severe criticism both at home and abroad.

Eisenhower said that Dulles is the wisest and most dedicated man he knows. He added that he believes Dulles has a greater knowledge in his field than any other man.

He also reiterated his view that there must be "proper" preparation before he will agree to meet Soviet leaders in a summit conference.

No Discourtesy Meant—Bennett On Long Wait

The provincial cabinet "meant no discourtesy" to a delegation from the Union of B.C. Municipalities that had to wait 45 minutes for a cabinet interview, Premier Bennett said today.

Mayor Loran Jordon of Port Alberni, a member of the delegation, complained at a regular city council meeting of the long wait and said the visitors had no place to sit except on stairs in the Parliament Buildings.

The premier said the cabinet had received another delegation ahead of the UBCM representatives, and it had stayed longer than expected. He said further that the delegation could have asked at his own office for seating accommodation.

Mayor Jordon reported to his council that once admitted to the cabinet, the delegation was granted a good hearing and presented nine resolutions on behalf of the UBCM. Premier Bennett was the only member of the cabinet to speak, Mayor Jordon said.

Higher Pulp, Lumber Sales Seen by Hees

VANCOUVER (CP)—Transport Minister Hees today forecast higher sales of Canadian lumber and wood pulp at home and abroad during 1958.

In an address to the Truck Loggers' Association, Mr. Hees said the "Canadian lumber industry can expect a better year in 1958 than in 1957, in both Canada and the United States [illegible] at the same time other [illegible] markets should maintain or increase the volume of their purchases from Canada."

"In the domestic market, the demand for lumber for housing purposes shows definite trends of an increase in demand."

105 Miles for Fuchs

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (Reuters)—British explorer Vivian Fuchs today was reported 105 miles from the South Pole in his bid to confound critics of his plans to complete the first-ever overland journey across the Antarctic continent.

and seconded by Lucien Cardin, former parliamentary assistant to the minister of external affairs.

The names of the 10 persons signing Pearson's nomination papers included representatives of eight provinces.

Edward J. Schmaltz, of Kitchener, Ont., was the nover of Mr. Henderson's nomination. The seconder was Stuart Smith, 19-year-old student at McGill University and an officer of the Canadian University Liberal Federation.

Mr. Martin's nomination was moved by James E. Brown, former MP for Brantford, Ont., and seconded by Marcel Boivin, sitting Commons member for Shefford, Que.

Among others signing Mr. Martin's nomination was James G. Gardiner, former agriculture minister. He was the only former Liberal cabinet minister to sign nomination papers of any of the three candidates.

natural resources was presented by Ralph Walker of Calgary. It urged a policy of resources development which would consider the interests of future generations, but subject to this condition it recommended energetic action to expand export markets for the province's oil and gas resources.

The Alberta resolution also recommended taxation concessions which would encourage Canadian capital to undertake the development of Canadian resources.

Robert Moffatt, Winnipeg, submitted a proposal from the Manitoba delegation to prevent any increases in existing freight rates and also to ensure the maintenance of the Crow's Nest Pass rates on grain.

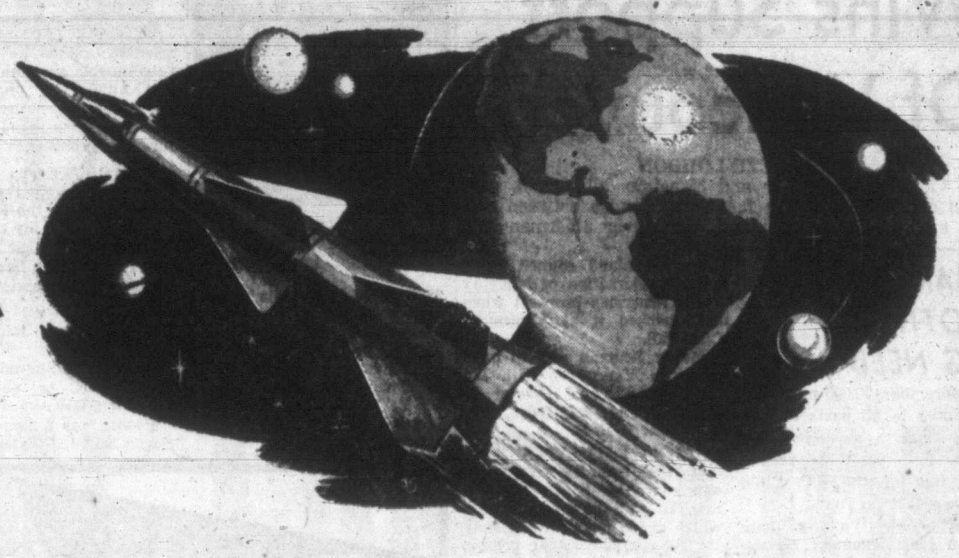

TAX MATCHED

"Canadians are spending on freight transportation annually as much as they are paying in income tax," Moffatt told the convention.

"There just shouldn't be any increase over such a proposal."

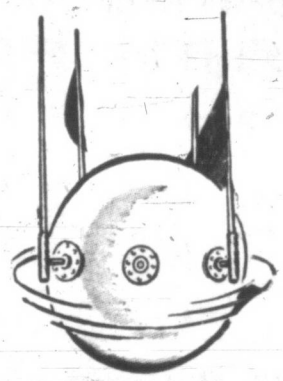

On behalf of the Atlantic coast, fisherman Russell McKay, Lockport, N.S., submitted a comprehensive resolution for encouragement of the fishing industry. Nova Scotian proposals included low-interest-rate loans to fishermen for gear and boats, aid to navigation, stimulation to marketing and plans for more stable returns, lower boat and equipment insurance rates, better enforcement of the 12-mile limit against trawlers and draggers, greater aid to cold storage and other marketing measures.

Fast Ferry Wins Support Of Vancouver

By PETE LOUDON

Victoria, Vancouver and Nanaimo all would gain from establishment of a fast ferry service between Sidney and the lower mainland, Vancouver aldermen said Tuesday.

The mainland council voted hearty endorsation of Mayor Percy Scurrah's proposal when he broached it at Vancouver City Hall.

Mayor Scurrah was to meet today in Vancouver with Defence Minister George R. Pearkes, and Transport Minister George Hees.

GETTING ESTIMATES

If the federal government will guarantee bonds, Mayor Scurrah said he knew a firm which would put up the money.

"The company is at present time getting figures on a ship."

Vancouver aldermen felt a fast ferry route from Sidney to Steveston or some other point south of Vancouver would create a round trip route which would increase tourism. Visitors would travel from the mainland to Sidney to Victoria, to Nanaimo and back to Vancouver.

"There is not a person around this table who has not experienced the inconvenience of the present service," said Vancouver Ald. Anna Sprott.

Mayor Hume agreed many United States cars "often wait on the docks here many hours," both at the CPR and Black Ball wharves.

Ald. Bill Orr felt "traffic would be greater than on the Vancouver-Nanaimo run."

He and Ald. Sprott moved the motion of support which passed unanimously.

Mayor Scurrah would not name the firm which is interested in providing a $4,000,000 18-knot ship for the proposed service. It is understood neither the CPR nor CNR shipping services are involved at this time.

Mayor Hume and Ald. Earle Adams said Victoria should be free to use the Vancouver council endorsation of the plan in any attempt to win federal or provincial government assistance.

'MARCHING MOTHERS' BIG NEED

More than 20,000 marching mothers in all parts of B.C. will stage a one-night blitz Feb. 1 to assist in raising $275,000 for the B.C. Child Care and Polio Fund.

In Greater Victoria, more than 1,500 volunteer canvassers are still needed, polio drive secretary Maureen Mackenzie said, particularly in the Fairfield, Fernwood and Oak Bay areas.

Volunteers should phone polio headquarters at 5-6748.

France Drops Tunisia Talks After Slayings

PARIS — France suspended negotiations for an alliance with Tunisia today over the killing of 15 French soldiers by Algerian rebels it charged slipped into Algeria from Tunisia.

The suspension of talks was announced by a government spokesman following a meeting of Premier Felix Gaillard's cabinet.

The raid occurred last Saturday. France protested over the weekend against the alleged incursion of a rebel band from Tunisian "sanctuary." The raiders overpowered a French outpost, killing or fatally wounding 15 soldiers and kidnapping five others.

Tunisia rejected the protest Tuesday night, maintaining that the border is so closely guarded the rebels could not have come from Tunisia nor returned there.

Relations between France and its former protectorate in northwest Africa have been strained for some time. France broke off talks last fall when Tunisia insisted on getting arms shipments, if not from France then from somewhere else. Britain and the U.S. shipped arms in November; Egypt in December.

DIFFERENT WOODS

Production of hardwood plywood in Canada is largely in the east, while softwood plywood is almost entirely in British Columbia.

ARRIVING in Victoria Thursday to look over army personnel structure in the area will be the director general of army personnel, Brig. F. A. Clift, above, and Lt.-Col. R. E. Nourse, assistant adjutant general for junior officers.

Abominable Snowman Seen Twice Russ Scientist Says

MOSCOW (AP)—A Soviet scientist claims he saw an "abominable snowman" twice last August in the Pamir Mountains of southeast Russia. It was "a man-like creature," he reported.

Several Western expeditions have sought the legendary creature in the Himalaya Mountains, part of the "roof of the world" that includes the Pamirs, but have found only footprints and wisps of hair.

A. G. Pronin told a correspondent of Kimsomol Pravda in Leningrad that he saw a Yeti, or abominable snowman, last Aug. 10 and 13.

Pronin was a member of a Soviet scientific expedition to the Pamirs, Russia's highest mountains in the corner formed by western China and Afghanistan.

Pronin said he was near the edge of the Fedchenko glacier when he saw the snowman lined against the top of a cliff more than 1,500 feet above him.

It was "a man-like creature walking on two feet, stooped, and wearing no clothes; he was stocky, with long extremities, and his body was covered with reddish-grey wool."

"At first sight I thought it it was a bear, but after more careful study it became clear this was no bear but a man-like creature.

"Evidently before me was one of the so-called snowmen. He walked out of his cave for a distance of some 600 feet and then disappeared beyond the edge of the cliff."

Former Scala Conductor Dies

FERRARA, Italy (AP) — Vittore Veneziani, for 40 years principal conductor of La Scala Opera House choruses, died of heart failure here Tuesday.

He was 80. Fascist pressure because Veneziani was a Jew forced his suspension from La Scala during the Second World War.

TWO WOMEN INJURED, FOUR CARS DAMAGED

A two-car collision at Broad and Pandora Tuesday at 7.30 p.m. injured two women and damaged four cars, including two parked vehicles.

Treated and discharged at St. Joseph's Hospital were Kay Smith, 44, and Mrs. Alan Paver, 40, both of 165 Joseph, occupants of a car driven on Pandora by the former.

They had nose cuts and were shaken up when their car was in collision with an auto driven on Broad by Josephine Starmer, 944 Ambassador.

Both cars went out of control, one striking a car owned by Oscar Wallace, Ganges, the other hitting a car property of Josephus T. Mansen, 3019 Pickford.

There was medium damage to the Smith car, slight damage to the others.
